A three-fold protest against American policy in Vietnam and the Dominican Republic will be staged this weekend by the Los Angeles art community under the slogan "Stop Escalation."

Several hundred members of the city's painting colony met at the Dwan Gallery in Westwood to map the protest which will be staged this Saturday, Sunday and Monday centering around the La Cienega art galleries and the new County Museum.

The protests planned:

Saturday beginning about noon in a dozen or more La Cienega galleries, a "White Out" of all paintings on display will be held. This means the paintings will be covered with a wide strip of paper, and the paper will bear the "Stop Escalation" symbol of the protest.

The symbol will be an ominous black ladder leading into infinity with the bold slogan "Stop" on its base.

Sunday at 1 p.m., soberly dressed artists in the hundreds will picket the new Los Angeles County Museum on Wilshire Blvd., all carrying "Stop Escalation" placards.

Monday night at 7 p.m. and lasting for several hours, a picket protest will be held on La Cienega Blvd. around the intersection of Melrose Place in which the artists plan to stage a traffic-stopping "walk-across" La Cienega using only marked crosswalks and fully complying with the law.
