NEW YORK ENGLISH HARLEM BRANCH IN LEAD; BIG SALE OF INSURANCE POLICIES TO NON-PARTY MEMBERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The total paid in on DAILY WORKER insurance policies at the DAILY WORKER agency here to Jan. 9 was $11,570. Some 1200 more have been sent direct to Chicago from the New York district. Pretty fast beginning, considering the fact that New York did not begin its drive until several weeks after the rest of the country. In due time the goal of $20,000 set down as the quota for the New York district will be passed. In amount of policies sold, the English Harlem Branch stands first. This branch sold more shares of stock in the DAILY WORKER last year than any other branch in the United States and is determined to repeat its winning of the high honor.

The Finnish South Brooklyn branch stands second, and West Side English third. English Bronx No. 1 and Downtown English follow. There should be a little race between these three English branches as well as the Williamsburg English which today stands eighth. The Hungarian Yorkville and Lithuanian are also among the leaders.

But the branch that has sold the largest percentage of its quota to date is the Astoria English branch third. English Bronx No. 1 and Downtown English follow. There should be a little race between these three English branches as well as the Williamsburg English which today stands eighth. The Hungarian Yorkville and Lithuanian are also among the leaders.

GENERAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING OF Y. W. L. IN NEW YORK CITY, JAN. 16

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 12.—A general membership meeting of the Young Workers League of New York will be held Friday, Jan. 16, at Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Ave.

At this meeting the statement of the National Executive Committee on the work of the league and its future tasks will be discussed.

Comrade John Williamson, executive secretary of the league, will speak for the N. E. C. Discussion will follow.

It is the duty of every member of the League to be present at this meeting, so that a large representation as possible can be present.

Comrades, cancel all other meetings. Get after every member who may not know of the meeting and bring him there.

N. Y. Labor Leaders Disagree with Smith On Child Labor Law

(Special to The Daily Worker)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The New York State Federation of Labor has issued a statement demanding that the state legislature ratify the proposed child labor amendment without delay, declaring their opposition to the plan of Gov. Smith and the republican party and democratic party leaders to submit the amendment to a special election. The federation declares that the child labor representatives elected on platforms supporting the child labor amendment, and therefore delay involved in a referendum is unnecessary.

The New York labor body, however, agrees with all other recommendations in Gov. Smith's message. There are no specific recommendations which would increase the influence of the workers.

COMMUNIST EDUCATION DEVELOPS RAPIDLY THRU NEW YORK WORKERS SCHOOL CLASSES AND LECTURES

(Special to The Daily Worker)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—New York has been witnessing a rapid development in Communist educational activity since the organization of the Workers' School as an institution controlled and directed by the Workers Party. Never in the history of the party has so much interest been displayed by our New York membership in educational work. This is in line with the general intensification throughout the party of our activities on the educational field.

The Workers' School aims to establish itself as the educational center for New York militants. A frankly Communist organization, it offers workers the training from a Communist standpoint, which is essential for effective service in the struggle against capitalism.

The school now offers at its central headquarters a party training course for Communist trainees, and several general courses.

Party Training Course.
The party training course is intended for party members only. It consists of four classes in the International Communist Movement, Fundamentals of Marxism, American and American Economic and Social History.

The course on the International Communist Movement, given by William Weinsteins, will treat of the origin, development and distribution of the First and Second Internationals. It will describe the conditions under which each of the Internationals was formed, their principles and tactics, the struggle of tendencies and what each contributed to the world movement. It will review the resolutions and decisions of the five congresses of the Communist International and the principles and tactics of Leninism.

The course on the Principles of Communism will outline the development of society from the dissolution of the early Communist society to the rise of modern capitalism, covering the period of slavery, feudalism, and the transition and evolution of capitalism, the rise and development of the state and other institutions of class rule. It will introduce the lessons of the various revolts regarding the state and the necessity of the dictatorship of the proletariat as the transition period to the overthrow of all class rule.

During the first term, the course in Marxism will consider the philosophical theory of Marx. This will include a study of idealism and materialism, dialectics, historical materialism, class struggle, and the state and proletarian dictatorship. The economic theory of Marx will be taken up in the second term.

Alexander Trachtenberg conducts the class in American Economic and Social History. This deals with the forces which led to the discovery and settlement of the American continent, the economic organization and social institutions of the American colonies, the class character of the constitution and other fundamental enactments, the establishment of the factory system, economic expansion. The forces underlying the Civil War will also be treated, as well as the development of capitalism and the subsequent rise of American imperialism.

Trade Union Training Course.
This course, open to active militants in the trade unions, offers several classes in American Labor History, Communism, and Organization.

Public Revolution. At the next session, on Tuesday, January 27, he will deal with the "Internal Controversies" within the Russian Communist Party.

Every Friday night, Ludwig Low conducts a class in Current Events. Besides this, courses are given in elementary and advanced English, on Monday nights, and Public Speaking on Tuesday nights.

Workers' Educational Centers.
The Workers' School has established educational centers in various parts of the city, where classes in Communist, American Labor History and English are given. Among the most successful efforts of the school has been the organization of classes in the A. B. C. of Communism throughout the city and also in the district. These are in progress as follows:
Bronx Center, 1312 Bronx Road, Tuesday, 8 p. m.
Harlem Center at 12, 16th street, Tuesday.
Williamsburg at 229 Grand street, Tuesday.
Brownsville Center, 1544 Pitkin Ave., Monday.
Lower Manhattan, 204 E. 12th street, Thursday.
Lower West Side, 345 W. 39th street, Wednesday.

Such classes are also being arranged in Yonkers, Newark, and Paterson. In addition, courses in American Economic Development are given in the Harlem and Williamsburg Centers.

Open Forums are being conducted in the Bronx, Harlem and Brownsville. The program consists of a round table night at 8 p. m. These are meetings with considerable success. Among the participants are our prominent Communists as Ben Gitlow, Juliet Stuart Poyntz, Joseph Manley, William Weinstein, Ludwig Low, etc.

Library and Research Bureau.
The organization of the school library, to be known as the Brower Memorial Library, is proceeding rapidly. This will serve as a study center for students of the school, party members and sympathizers generally.

In conjunction with the library a research bureau will be established to gather and disseminate information on political and economic developments in the various countries. A file will be kept of American and European Communist activities and periodicals, as well as other important labor publications.

Such important work is to be done in this connection, and comrades are urged to come over to the school and help whenever they have time, particularly Saturday afternoons.

Registration is still open for many of the courses given at the Workers' School and the Workers' Educational Centers. The winter season of the school will end on March 18. Registration for the spring term will begin on February 15.

For information and registration apply at the office of the Workers' School, 208 E. 12th street, Telephone Stuyvesant 4574, or at Workers' Educational Centers.

Organize Clipping Bureau.
NEW YORK.—The Workers' School is organizing a clipping bureau to clip and file articles and news items bearing on the political and economic struggles in the different countries. This bureau aims to provide comrades with a ready access to various sources of information, and will prove a valuable asset to the party membership in New York.

COMMUNIST!

PROPAGANDA made by the DAILY WORKER and THE WORKERS MONTHLY can be effectively followed up by books and pamphlets of the Communist movement.

If you sell a worker a sub to the Daily or the Monthly, try to clinch him by selling some of the classic or current Communist publications.

INFORMATION which cannot be fully contained in Communist periodicals is often made public by publication in book or pamphlet form.

EDUCATION for yourself and your fellow worker is at hand in any one of the hundreds of pamphlets and books for sale by the Literature Department of the DAILY WORKER.

Beginning January 15, 1925

the Workers Party Literature Department will be Managed by the DAILY WORKER.

Catalogs and Price Lists Furnished on Request.

Classics of the Communist Movement.
New Communist Publications.
Revolutionary Novels and Song Books.
Subscriptions for All Magazines Taken.

For any book or pamphlet in print, address Literature Department,

'DAILY WORKER' TAKES OVER THE PARTY LITERATURE DEPARTMENT

CHANGE TAKES EFFECT JANUARY 15.

The last step of the general program for the centralization of the party press will go into effect on January 15. On this date the administration of the party literature department will be transferred to THE DAILY WORKER. Thus the management of THE DAILY WORKER, The Workers Monthly and the Literature Department will be properly centered under one control.

This amalgamation will make possible not only a great saving in overhead expenses and an increase in the efficiency of all the branches of the party press, but it will also make possible for the first time a really organized and functioning distribution machinery.

DISTRIBUTION ALSO CENTRALIZED.

Beginning also on January 15, the army of DAILY WORKER agents organized into The Daily Worker Builders will take on the sale and distribution of the party literature as well as THE DAILY WORKER and The Workers Monthly. The Workers Party Central Executive Committee, in deciding to amalgamate all branches of the party press, also decided to amalgamate the distribution machinery.

It is therefore necessary that Workers Party units which have literature agents apart from their DAILY WORKER agents, combine these offices or form a DAILY WORKER committee under centralized control of the branch thru the appointment of a committee chairman.

BRANCHES MUST HAVE DAILY WORKER AGENTS.

It is also more necessary than ever that every party branch and shop nucleus have an active and capable DAILY WORKER agent, directly connected with the DAILY WORKER office. Out of the more than 1000 party branches, not more than 400 have active DAILY WORKER agents. Which means that 60 per cent of the party branches are not giving organized support to the party's English language press; which in most cases means that they are not giving any support at all. For successful distribution of our press we must have organization and for organization the first step is the election of DAILY WORKER agents in every party unit.

In those branches which have not yet elected their press representative, the next branch meeting is suggested as the proper time and place to overcome this delinquency.

A Comrade "Keeps His Shirt On."

IT was a session of a branch executive committee. "Comrade Chairman," George Smith was saying, "Howinell can we set the date of this meeting when no one has a calendar on him?"

"Keep your shirt on, Comrade Smith," the chairman answered, "Here's a 'Tool Box' I got from the DAILY WORKER and it has a calendar in it." He put a circle around the date decided and the meeting was set.

The committee arranged the order of business to allow for discussion. For there's nothing a Bolshevik likes more than discussion—unless it's more discussion.

As soon as the branch meeting opened the DAILY WORKER agent was on his feet. "Comrade Chairman," he said, "our C. E. C. decided that the first order of business is the DAILY WORKER, and unless it is, this meeting does not go on unless you drag me out!"

"Keep your shirt on," the chairman answered, "I can make a better speech than you can for our daily and I'm going to do it first." And he did—with the result that, every day, he has a policy to insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925 but one comrade—as all the policies were sold out.

The chairman was at a loss what to do—and the DAILY WORKER agent was again on his feet. "Comrade Chairman, you keep YOUR shirt on," he said, "I have a 'Tool Box' with me, with a policy blank in it and I'll thank the comrade for his money." Which he did.

As in all good branches, applications for membership were up for reading. The chairman spoke: "Comrades, of three applications before us two came in from the 'Tool Box' sent out to the readers of the DAILY WORKER. We welcome the new comrades in our branch, and I mention this to show the part our Daily plays in the growth of our branch."

At this point a comrade arose. "Comrades," he said, "I no speak English, good. I think DAILY WORKER fine paper, but I Roumanian and I take also Roumanian pepper. Where I can buy hem?"

"That's easy," a comrade said from the audience, "I also got a 'Tool Box' and in it are all the Communist language papers. The Roumanian paper is—let's see—O yes, 'Diphtheria'."

"That's no paper," the DAILY WORKER agent said. "That's a disease. He means Desteptarea. It costs only two bucks and I'll take your sub."

The Roumanian comrade laughed good naturedly and gave him the money. And on the next order of business the Young Workers League was brought up.

A little Bolshevik arose. "Comrades," he said, "I have nothing to report this time. But, while you are on this order of business I will also use the 'Tool Box' to appeal to the young people present." And he read the fine appeal for the League the "Tool Box" contains.

Other business dispensed with, during a five minute recess to pay dues, the DAILY WORKER agent got up from the members and visitors for The Workers Monthly and The Communist International—it's so easy with the handy blanks in the "Tool Box."

After intermission the industrial organizer was on the floor. "Now, comrades," he said, "nobody can tell me they are active in their union. I'll know it when I see their paid up union book. With a handy pocket in the 'Tool Box,' everyone should have his book at every meeting. And I make a motion to that effect." The motion went over with a bang, and the DAILY WORKER agent was instructed to send to the DAILY WORKER for twenty more "Tool Boxes."

And then the discussion began. And some one got a little hot under the collar. "Comrade Chairman," he shouted, "I protest. The speaker doesn't know Labor History from a fried onion. It isn't true that the Knights of Labor were organized in 1869. He must be thinking of the Knights of the Bed Sheet—the K. K. K.'s."

"Keep your shirt on," warned the chairman. "Look it up in the 'Tool Box.'"

The comrade did, and then had this to say: "Comrades, I apologize." During the discussion, I noticed some comrades making noise in the "Tool Box." There are pages in it for that purpose. I learned also that it has facts in it on the Labor movement. I realize what a useful little book the "Tool Box" is. We have used it tonight for almost everything. And on the page for addresses I will put down the names of some friends I want our agent to send one to.

And I say this: "From now on, not only will I keep my shirt on but, I will put the 'Tool Box' in it."

COMMUNIST!

IN one year of its existence the DAILY WORKER has proven its worth to our Party.

IT is a record to be proud of. A record of accomplishment for the Revolutionary Labor Movement in this country.

IN every single fight for the working class on the political field—in every single battle on the industrial ground—the DAILY WORKER has carried the Communist banner, cemented together the Left Wing of the Labor movement—has proven also its strongest weapon.

OUR Party has grown in this time—and the DAILY WORKER has been an important contributing factor in its growth. The DAILY WORKER has brought the Communist message to thousands of workers—has proven the magnet that has drawn them into the ranks of the Communist Party.

FOR the Workers (Communist) Party membership it has performed a great service. The best expression of Communist principles, of the tactics of our Party, in the pages of the DAILY WORKER, has served to clarify the Party, to cement it into one, single, fighting unit—to Bolshevize it.

IN this way, the DAILY WORKER (although still in its infancy) has served our Party—the Revolutionary workers in this country—you, who hold its principles.

HAVE you done your share to strengthen it—to build it for greater results in its second year of life?

THERE is no better service to perform for the revolutionary movement than to build its best weapon. Getting one new sub for the DAILY WORKER is a simple task. Make it your duty to perform it.

And here's the sub blank.

Communist!

THE amalgamation of three established working class magazines into one, has given birth to a greater, more valuable publication in THE WORKERS MONTHLY.

THAT this is a welcome addition to the working class press of this country, is easily seen in the immediate and wholehearted response from the ranks of Revolutionary Labor.

GREATER success is certain. The best theoretical articles on every phase of Labor's problems, by the leaders of the world revolutionary labor movement, are a feature of each issue.

NO militant worker, and no Communist—of course—can be without them. The wealth of information in many features of each number are indispensable to the worker who gives thought to the problems of Labor—his problems.

THE new January number (third issue) is just off the press—with a wealth of the most valuable contents.

CHINA POWDER BARREL IN THE BROILING EAST

The Chinese Masses Are Backing Sun Yat Sen

By JACK ARMITAGE
(For The Federated Press)

YOKOHAMA, Jan. 12.—The present lull in the hostilities in China is but an armed peace, ready to burst into flame of war at any moment.

Popular opinion, judging by reports from different parts of China, will demand that Sun Yat Sen be made head of the government with headquarters at Peking.

His Foreign Treaties. Such a government once firmly established, would be a deathblow to all the aims of the powers. The position would be more acute than ever, for Sun has repeatedly and emphatically stated that he will not observe the present treaties with foreign powers. In that he will have the backing not only of China, but of all Asia, and Russia playing the leading role, it will then be up to the powers to either ignominiously climb down or to conquer Asia.

How far the armed forces of the powers could get in an easy matter, but that would hardly affect even China. To all intents there are no wars at the present moment. For the powers to conquer China would be a bigger undertaking than ever, for Sun has repeatedly and emphatically stated that he will not observe the present treaties with foreign powers. In that he will have the backing not only of China, but of all Asia, and Russia playing the leading role, it will then be up to the powers to either ignominiously climb down or to conquer Asia.

At the moment foreign newspapers are full of the most ridiculous calumnies for China. That may be well enough for foreign readers, but it will have no influence on the Chinese. Sun Yat Sen is the champion leader of the revolutionary elements in China. It is hardly to be conceived that he would sell them into the hands of their enemies, as some writers would have us believe, and that is the only thing which would discredit him with his followers.

Foreign financial interests will have to find a strong man to stem the wave of radicalism which has fast spread through China. The question is not, will there be war, but where will it end? The situation at Peking is a match which may set in the power barrel of the orient.

The Communist Press and Shop Nuclei

By MARTIN ABRAM.

ANTONOV who reads the glowing blue cover of the Spanish, the Russian revolutionary newspaper of years ago; anyone even remotely acquainted with history and development of Pravda, the organ of the Russian Communist Party, and its powerful connection with the Comintern and the masses of Russian workers, need not be told of the significance of the importance of the paper. The Comintern, second, first the scorpion capitalist press of America! How did the Spanish, Pravda, and other working class newspapers attain such immense influence? That is not enough. There are not only class papers that do not, nor are ever likely to have any real hold on the hearts and minds of the workers. The success of the revolutionary organs in Russia lies in their close contact with the masses of the workers. The needs and aspirations of the struggling workers. Pravda succeeded because it spoke the needs and aims of the workers. But more important: The workers themselves spoke in Pravda. It made the paper their own by writing letters in it of their lives they lived and worked. Hence, Pravda was, or is, not just a paper. It is the blood, the muscle, brain and body of the workers. Pravda is the worker. The famous "Workers' Column" or "On the Job" column was a living paper.

Shop Nuclei Will Invigorate Communist Press.
Yet not even Pravda could succeed so well without something else. That is, the Communist Party organization. But, further, a certain type of party organization: The shop nuclei, party units organized in the shops, at the place of work. That spells permanent mass contact. The party in Russia is completely organized on the basis of shop nuclei, to do all party work. The Communist press gives concentrated propaganda and daily direction to the work in the shops. Communist nuclei unite in the shops. Communist workers report the conditions of work, their struggles and lives, all the little things which arise daily and which mean so much to them. These are written in and commented upon by the press and result in building the press and party.

Even now our press does not give sufficient reading matter on conditions in the shops. What dealt with the sufficiency of the press to print such information, but quite the contrary. Our party members must first be in the large shop, a condition which lays the basis for a workers correspondence. When dealt with, the cases have been concerned, too often, with individual or special cases of exploitation or with those employed in isolated or small shops. If there is nothing better, there can, of course, be the mass case. But, seriously, it will be more important and striking for our Communist press, for the DAILY WORKER, to have a party of shop nuclei. Until our party, moreover, has its base and absolute majority of membership in the large and small industries, steel, coal, railroad, etc. depends in the party and in its press will be present to a degree in the direction of anti-bourgeois deviations (yielding to the ideas of those in small industry, shopkeepers, etc.) This would not be necessarily conscious or premeditated, but determined by material objective and material considerations.

Shop Correspondents Thru Shop Nuclei.
In organizing shop nuclei, we aim to establish our party in the basic industries and thus reach the living heart of proletarianization of the Workers (Communist) Party. The influence, circulation, content and view of the press are automatically thus affected.
Even now our press does not give sufficient reading matter on conditions in the shops. What dealt with the sufficiency of the press to print such information, but quite the contrary. Our party members must first be in the large shop, a condition which lays the basis for a workers correspondence. Klan Tries to Capture Indiana's Educational Laws

(Special to The Daily Worker)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 12.—The six klan men made to another big power in the state legislature here, when Walter Hoesert, grand dragon of the six klan units, sought to have James Knapp of Hagerstown named chairman of the committee on education. It was not until the Hon. Harry Leslie, speaker of the house, will appoint the klanmen as Leslie is up to secure appointment on the committee. The klanmen are making a campaign for their educational program on the state.

Allied Arts Concert.
About a year ago the writer reviewed the first program of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. This organization gave one concert and then gave up the ghost. In connection with the death of the orchestra, until this year the ballet of the Chicago opera, the Solo Orchestra has risen from the dead.

The amalgamation call itself the Allied Arts, and has given two programs so far, with tremendous success.
The second program, given its second concert at the Riviera Theatre last Sunday, was divided in two sections, one given over to the orchestra, the other to the ballet and orchestra together.
The orchestra section opened with two compositions by the reviewer in detail. The first, a poem describing an evening party, by Arthur Bliss, and a symphonic movement by Paul Junon. Arthur Bliss is one of the best known of the new English school. Junon is a German who has written a great deal of good and sometimes bad stuff.
Miss Hager, Excellent Soprano. The third number was a set of "Four pleasant songs" by Stravinski, sung by that most excellent of sopranos, Miss Hager. They are typical of Stravinski in his lighter moods which is to say they are cryptically brief and delicate and cubistic in style. Two languorous slow waltzes, the "Valse Triste" of Sibelius and a waltz by D'Indy closed the orchestral section.

The ballet opened with a little thing called "Love the Magician," by Manuel de Falla, who is a past master at the composition of Spanish dance rhythms. The story was about a lady pursued by a ghost, and it was done in a style, as the Boston company always does things. (And as many others don't get to the opera this year and see no ballet should not be done.)
Henry Elchenheim, who used to be in Chicago, directed a pantomime in his own called "The Rivals." Elchenheim specializes in Oriental music, the wonderful Oriental music of Rimnik-Korakov and Irving Berlin, but the real authentic stuff. He has spent considerable time in the east, and his melodies are genuine.
"The Rivals" is concerned with two Chinese generals, one the headliner of the best looking in China. The handsome commander kills the sylphide in a story, as the Boston company always does things. (And as many others don't get to the opera this year and see no ballet should not be done.)

Elchenheim scored this libretto with very good music. It has all the noise and rattle of the Chinese national art. There is enough melody to make it in tellible to western ears.
Variety in Program.
There was a great deal more on the impossible to review in detail. There was a burlesque of a circus, played to a marked circus tune. There were attempts to "Organize in the Underworld," a masked ball pantomime, set to variations on a well known operatic aria. The "Frazz" dances in Horodina's opera "Price Iger," and a lot of short individual works.

The scene painter for the Allied Arts is Nicholas Remisoff, who did many of the scenes for "Organize in the Underworld." There scenes are done in the fashion, highly colored, extravagant but with enough melody to make it in tellible to western ears.

English Comrades Begin Forming Factory Groups

WHITING, Ind., Jan. 12.—Sixteen families have been driven to the street early today, homeless and bereft of all belongings, by a $100,000 fire that destroyed a work of criticism entitled "Mammont." The book is a study of literature and all the arts from the point of view of economics. The author advances the thesis that all art is propaganda, whether consciously or unconsciously. He examines the art beginning with Homer and the Old Testament, and coming down to the present day, inquiring to what extent they have been used to serve and glorify the ruling classes. This volume is the first in a series of studies of culture from the point of view of the class struggle; the other works already published are "The Product of Religion," "The Brass Check," "The Goose-Step" and "The Gostings."

The R. I. L. U. and the Daily Worker

By EARL R. BROWDER

DO you members of the trade unions, you who carry on the fight from day to day and from year to year for the revolutionary class struggle, you who are on the real firing line of the Communist movement of America—do you realize what THE DAILY WORKER means to you in your fight?

How Do You Find Your Fellow-Fighters?

Perhaps you hadn't stopped to think about it but it has been mainly THE DAILY WORKER which furnished the means of your finding one another so that you could fight together, so that you could work out the programs upon which you unite, so that you could carry your programs out to the working masses in your particular field of battle.

We have had enough experience to learn that THE DAILY WORKER is our most powerful weapon. The miners know it. It was when THE DAILY WORKER first appeared that the tens of thousands of rebelling miners in the United Mine Workers of America began to powerfully mobilize their real forces against the treacherous Lewis machine, and thus to lay the foundations for a fighting union of miners. It was THE DAILY WORKER which rallied the support of wide circles of the working class to the striking textile workers in Paterson. It was THE DAILY WORKER which connected up the thousands of fighting carpenters who supported the candidacy of Morris Rosen in the election in the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and thus for the first time in the history of that organization broke the unimpeded rule of reaction. It was THE DAILY WORKER that made it possible for the militant members of the machinists organization to launch a powerful campaign against the R. & O. plan of class collaboration, and to organize a strong resistance to both the reactionary administration of Johnston and to the fake "progressive" Making a Left-Wing Movement.

These things are only a few samples of the manner in which THE DAILY WORKER has sunk its roots deep into the life of the American labor movement. In the trade unions, a movement which will be the foundation of the revolutionary unions of the future, the American section of the Red International of Labor Unions.

It must be remembered, in judging the supreme value of our daily, that even if the specific work in the separate unions and industries, could, possibly, be carried on in a fashion without THE DAILY WORKER, yet the real task of establishing a left-wing movement would certainly fail of its complete success if we did not have the daily... This is because a real left-wing movement is impossible unless it is a class-movement, not a party or sectional movement, and it must extend at all costs beyond the boundaries of the separate unions and industries, setting up the bonds of solidarity between the revolutionary workers of all unions and industries, organized and unorganized. It is precisely because THE DAILY WORKER has done this needed thing that today we can say the left wing is a reality in the American labor movement, that the R. I. L. U. has set its roots firmly in the American working class.

International Solidarity Solidarity of the revolutionary workers by groups, by industries, and on a national scale—that is a large task that our movement has undertaken, and has only been through THE DAILY WORKER that great progress has been possible in this direction. But even these steps are not enough. In the present age of imperialism, the final stage of capitalism, labor solidarity does not extend beyond all national boundaries. It cannot be sold yet to exist. And it is precisely in the field of international solidarity of the revolutionary workers of the world that the services of THE DAILY WORKER to our movement have been emphasized.

International solidarity is more than a phrase or a sentiment. It can only exist on the basis of real contact of the workers of the different countries, of a knowledge of their manner of life, of their working conditions, of their problem, of their struggles, of the history of their organizations, of their programs, of their contacts in international conferences, congresses, etc. Such necessary international contact is only possible on a highly organized scale. Tremendous outlay of energy is necessary, at great financial cost, with great organizational burdens—and it is only when all the rich results of such efforts can be made available to the tens of thousands of the workers everywhere, at a low cost and every day in the year, that it becomes possible to lay the foundation of international solidarity. Think of my overwhelming riches of international information and contact with the workers all over the world that THE DAILY WORKER has made available for the American movement. This important struggle of the workers of every land is reported by the best writers and the best fighters in the movement. Every important problem that confronts the labor movement, nationally and internationally, is studied and analyzed by the best informed and best trained thinkers of the international working class in the columns of THE DAILY WORKER. All the great advances made by the Russian working class, the first section of the proletariat to become the ruling class of its country, are described and reported in detail. Out of the small contributions of the 20,000 to 30,000 supporters of THE DAILY WORKER has been built up a mighty machine for organization and struggle, a part of the international, revolutionary army of the proletariat.

Yes, surely, on this first anniversary of the birth of our fighting daily, we can be proud of the watchword on the plished. We can say without hesitation that it is THE DAILY WORKER which has established the Trade Union Educational League to penetrate into every nook and cranny of the labor movement with the message of the safe International of Labor Unions.

Comrade Sol Fishman is 15 years old and one of the older members of the Junior Groups in Chicago.

Juniors, this is our Birthday Party! Tho we are the littlest readers of THE DAILY WORKER, we have everything in common with it, for we are it, and it is we.

Isn't THE DAILY WORKER a power just as we?

Isn't THE DAILY WORKER young, energetic, audacious and militant, just as we?

Isn't THE DAILY WORKER "always ready" to fight the battles of the exploited workers and farmers? Doesn't THE DAILY WORKER show the truth about the workers' struggle for emancipation from capitalist exploitation into the teeth of the capitalist lying sheets, just as we little Juniors heroically about the truth about the vicious capitalist system into the teeth of our false educators?

So you see, in fact, we and THE DAILY WORKER are synonymous.

And the little Communist David who threw the stone at the greedy capitalist monster Goliath in Robert Minor's Birthday cartoon in this edition is really us.

We Juniors, offsprings of the masses, are destined to lead the way in the United States out of black reaction to a workers' government, to the United States of Soviet America.

THIS IS REALLY OUR BIRTHDAY! We are going to celebrate as true Communists.

It has been THE DAILY WORKER that has finally put the revolutionary labor union movement of America upon a permanent basis. But we cannot be content with congratulating ourselves on what has been done. It is necessary to make every small achievement the starting point for a greater one. It is necessary to extend the small struggles for every small achievement in which we are now engaged only the beginning of greater struggles. It is necessary to deepen our program and widen the scope of its influence always and continually.

There is one fundamental prerequisite to all these tasks which face us. That is to BUILD THE DAILY WORKER and to INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925.

Last time be the watchword on the first anniversary of the first English-language Communist daily in the world.

Supporters of the Red International of Labor Unions will unite in enthusiastic support of our greatest weapon—the DAILY WORKER.

You Probably Never Thought of it!

And yet another sure way of building THE DAILY WORKER is by getting an "ad."

When you go to your dentist—your doctor—your bank—the people you buy from—do you ask them to advertise in YOUR Paper?

There are advantages in it for them and it will help to build YOUR paper.

Write to the Advertising Department of the DAILY WORKER for information or to send in your ad.

When your union or branch has a meeting or dance—other workers in your town will know about it—they will if they see it in the DAILY WORKER.

"The Daily" and the Left Wing

BY THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE.

THE past year has been a very active year, hectic, year for the Trade Union Educational League. That we have made progress is self-evident, just as that a great deal of the credit for the past year has been due to the fact that we have had a daily paper for the past year which has faithfully fought in the interest of the working class. It has supported and given publicity to the policies and tactics of the R. I. U. of the C. U. E. L. in the American section.

The daily has supported every strike every bit of the workers against wage cuts, lengthening of working hours. It has conscientiously and faithfully urged the workers to fight for a higher standard of living, for shorter workday, against child labor, against injunctions, in fact the DAILY WORKER, the official organ of the Trade Union Educational League, has been the daily newspaper of the workers. It has at all times in all struggles of the workers, through its columns, shown them the right line.

It would be an unforfeitable mistake if the T. U. E. L. allowed the DAILY WORKER's birthday to pass without acknowledging it with the splendid achievements of that year. The Trade Union Educational League, however, considers that the success of the DAILY WORKER is the joint achievement of the Workers (Communist) Party and the T. U. E. L. and it is the duty of the DAILY WORKER to be a joint task, and we pledge ourselves that in the coming year the activities of the T. U. E. L. in building up the DAILY WORKER will be intensified.

The DAILY WORKER has sometimes been criticized by some groups of the T. U. E. L., but in no case has this criticism been justified, the DAILY WORKER was never criticized for not supporting the struggle of the left wing, but in overvaluing the right wing and undervaluing the left. This is an inevitable result, it must be remembered of the fact of WORKERS CORRESPONDENCE as a leading feature of the DAILY WORKER, which is not the daily's fault but the fault of those who are in the struggle and yet do not understand the value of the DAILY WORKER. On another page the T. U. E. L. is calling for this work. Make the T. U. E. L. pass a living thing that will stand out brightly in the DAILY WORKER.

Just let us cite a few of the left wing articles published by the T. U. E. L. since the birth of the DAILY WORKER so we can get its proper position in the everyday struggles of the workers. Born on Jan. 13, 1924 the DAILY WORKER was of invalid birth, it was the result of the Progressive Miners' committee in the struggle against the Lewis reactionary machine in the United Mine Workers. On Jan. 12, 1924.

Here was a convention of 2,200 men fighting against the strongest and most reactionary machine in the A. F. of M. In the morning the delegates were sold every day and passed around, and it is said to say that half of the delegates read the DAILY WORKER every day. What a tremendous effect that had! It strengthened the left wing and it was the result of the first three days of the convention Lewis had his own way, he killed everything down the throats of the delegates. After that the left wing steadily grew in strength, and finally smashed the convention control of Lewis and forced him to adjourn the convention before the business for which it was called was completed. The victory of the left wing, also it did not smash Lewis' control of the union, nor was it able to put a program in the hands of the workers, strengthened and crystallized the left wing and weakened the Lewis machine. Again in the fight in the Purifiers' Union against the reactionary Kaufman machine, where many of our members were slugged, the daily was on the job. In the struggle against the yellow scabbers in the I. O. O. F. U. where a number of Communists and T. U. E. L. members were expelled and removed from office, the DAILY WORKER was there; also, in the Ladies' Garment Workers' strike in New York and Chicago, in the I. O. O. F. U. and C. W. C. conventions, in the Rhode Miners' and other district miners' conventions, the daily was a tower of strength to the left wing in fighting the reactionaries and his class collaboration and expulsion policies in all unions.

The DAILY WORKER fought with the T. U. E. L. in the fight for the reinstatement of Alex. Howat, Jim McArthur, Tom Myerovich, the expelled Toledo machinists, and the left fight up by the T. U. E. L. in the Machine Tool International. The distribution of DAILY WORKERS to the delegates at the Carpenters' convention, carrying the program of the Progressive Building Trades Workers into this extremely conservative convention for the first time, the subsequent publicity given to Morris' arrest, the left wing candidate against Hutchison, which finally established the left wing as a separate and distinct group in the Carpenters' Union resulted in a more than credit showing in the election. All of these facts were supported by the fact that we have a daily working class paper in fact some of the lights of the DAILY WORKER.

The struggle going on now in the Carpenters' Union by the left wing against the signing of a scab agreement by Hutchison and James McArthur, the reinstatement of five members of the Local 183 of Chicago and the fight of the re-instated car-penters, are gradually raising the membership support that the country are writing for information on this struggle, their attitude being drawn from the columns of the DAILY WORKER.

These are but a few of the struggles of the left wing that have been strengthened and made possible through the fact that we have the DAILY WORKER. Hundreds could be cited such as the Pullman, Hegewich, Park, and other strikes, the fight for protection of the foreign born, the farmer-labor party movement, the recognition of the I. O. O. F. U., the re-organization, international unity, relegation of Soviet Russia, etc.

T. U. E. L. in greeting the DAILY WORKER, promises the full cooperation and support of the left wing in making the DAILY WORKER a real working class daily of editing, power, and influence. It is the sense of belonging to the DAILY WORKER to the left wing, that it is an act of faith by the masses, and on their part in the sense that the DAILY WORKER is the most ideological leader of the left wing.

"Communist ideas seeping into their brains."

It was a new outlook that confronted the American workers and their Party and its candidates. Foster for president and Gitlow, for vice president, and the Communist Manifesto, for the overthrow of capitalism in the 1924 elections.

The American system, had been fed on the shibboleths of capitalist "democracy." They had been saturated with the idea that had "right" and "wrong" capitalism; that there was even a word of labor achieving "justice" under the capitalist system, and the result of the socialist, imbued with the hope of winning reforms within the capitalist system, was quite frightened by the Communist's frank statement of aims.

The prejudice thus aroused, especially when inflamed by the misrepresentations and vilification of the well-to-do organizations of the schools, workers or non-working class elements, are closed to them. The capitalist press is with them 100 per cent. And in addition to all these mediums for reaching the masses, they now have the radio. It is against this stone wall of opposition that the Communist press must advance to win progress for our cause. But it does make headway.

At many of the meetings of the major left during the fall campaign, the DAILY WORKER was bought and eagerly read. Many individuals, such as Charles Davies, Dan Ryan, LaFollette or Wheeler, always with a copy of the DAILY WORKER stuck in their pockets, and

The Communist Press and the Elections

By J. LOUIS ENDDAHL

THE first year of the DAILY WORKER also marked the first year in which the Workers (Communist) Party entered the national political arena. It is readily admitted that the success of the Communist campaign was in great part due to the fact that our party had its "DAILY" ready at hand to help fight its battles. The Communist press is the biggest calibre press in the Communist arena during the elections.

Win Non-Revolutionary Elements

It is in the absence of the Soviet World Congress of the Communist International that we find this declaration:

"The participation in the elective campaign and the revolutionary propaganda from the parliamentarianism has a special importance for the winning over of these elements of the workers, who—perhaps the agrarian working masses—have stood far away from the revolution any movement and political life."

Year of Difficult Struggles

The year 1924 was filled with difficult phases of the electoral struggle for our party. It would have been sorely crippled without the aid of its Communist press.

It was not merely a matter of winning the exploited workers and poor farmers away from the old parties ready and at hand to help fight its battles. The Communist press is the biggest calibre press in the Communist arena during the elections.
