The Old Party Politicians Are Very Much Worried About Farm Discontent

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the politicians are worried about the "embattled farmers." This includes not only the spokesmen of the Coolidge republican administration, but the democrats as Coolings republican administration, but the democrats as well. Both begin to wriging more than ever under the thumb of increasing mass discontent among the land workers. They sails that there is much meaning in the new wave of the farmer-labor movement awesping from North Dakota. Montan and Washington, down thru the middle west into Oklahoma and Texas. The farmers are bent on an independent class attack on both the Wall Street parties that have made them so many empty promises offering futile remedies.

Some of the western states, now the centers of the greatest discontent, were ardent supporters of Coolidge at the polls last year. In little more than 12 months the balance has turned. The farmers are on the warpath against Coolidge.

That the republican administration at Washington is fully aware of this turnover was shown in the hurried trip made by President Coolidge to Chicago to address the American Farm Bureau. Before this gathering of politicians, bankers, rich farmers and little, business men, who feed off the working farm population, Coolidge gushed rivers of only remedy, only remedy, only remedy, only remedy the control of the working of the control of the working of the control ned about the prices received for their products. Eve concerned about the prices received for their products. Even the reactionary strata represented by the Farm Bureau yelled its disapproval of the remedies offered by the New England farmer, Coolidge, who once had his picture taken pitching hay. He appeared with a stand-up, stiff linen collar that made him look as if he didn't often get close to the soil. When the picture was published in the kept press, for political purposes, it had quite the wrong effect among real dirt farmers. It was to them a good comic.

The farmers have taken the starch out of Coolidge's pretensions before the Farm Bureau. Other advances are now in process of initiation. The 1926 elections are coming on and the republican grip on some western states is openly menaced. It is announced that "Silent Cal" is now ready to appoint a commission to dispose of the surplus production of the farms. This is supposed to refer especially to the corn belt centering in lows. But again, it would help little to dispose of the surplus if the price is below the cost of production. So far the president has set his face against all forms of price figure.

One of the greatest assets of American capitalism is its home market. It protects its manufactured goods for the enjoyment of this home market thru high tariffs, shutting out foreign competition. Similarly, one farm panacea now offered is high protective tariffs for farm products. But this would only help complete the circumference of a vicious circle. Higher tariffs on farm products, would mean an increase in the price of those same products, resulting in a mounting cost of living for the industrial workers. This tain their living standards. Every inch gained, however, would be seized upon by the private owner of industry to increase the cost of industry's products, that the farmer must buy, thus in turn raising his cost of living.

The drive toward the movement for independent political

The drive toward the movement for independent political action shows that increasing numbers of farmers realize the vicious grip in which they are held under the present sold system. In the words of William Boúck, president of the Western Progressive Farmers:

Western Progressive Farmers:
"WE KNOW THAT THERE IS NO CURE FOR THE PROBLEMS CONFRONTING THE FARMERS UNDER THE PRESENT CAPITALIST SOCIAL SYSTEM."

The politicians at Washington are worried. They have great need to be worried.

Moral and Unmoral Nations

As a holiday theme the ultra-imperialist New York Times edi-torialized on the morality of the nations that created the Locarno treaties. These nations, thru accepting the terms of the various pacts drawn up at Locarno are in a distinct class. These are moral pacts drawn up at Locarno are in a distinct class. These are moral nations, while Russla is outside these nations and therefore unmoral, The Russo-Turkish pact signed a few days ago also threatens to impair the morality of Turkey. However, the Times does not despair had hopes for a revival of Turkish morality.

If Turkey humbly bows befor the decisions of the council of the league of nations and consents to England robbing her of Mosal she will then demonstrate a proper appreciation of morals and prove herself fit to associate with the other moral nations.

In that case Russia, according to the Times editorial, will be ond the pale of such eminently moral nations as France, Italy gyond the pale of such eminently moral nations as reader, italy and England, who are signatories to Locarno and old members it god standing of the council of the league.

France demonstrates its super-morality by bombing defenseless suts of the Moroccans and blasting Damascus in Syria off the map, burying in its ruins thousands of defenseless people. Italy suffers in chains and silence under the ferocious despotism of Mussolini and his brigand fascisti. England's mercenaries swarm India, Egypt, the his brigand fascist. England's uncreanaires swarm India, Egypt, the Südan, South Africa, not to mention Ireland, ready to again stife in blood the first indication of a liberation movement. Germany, which during and since the war, was considered an outlaw nation, is now inside the "moral breastworks" of Europe. Her so-called statesmen, both avoword burgeoisie and so-felal-democratic rule only by grace of Britain and France. Their morality permits them to serre with equal by ally any power that can use them against to serve with equal loyalty any power that can use them against the German working class.

Such thing as an abstract national morality that stands above economic interests and that can avoid political conflicts. The so-called morality of Locarno is impelled by a mutual desire to prolong the bandit rule of capitalism. At the same time there are irreconclable contradictions between the parties to the treaties signed the first of this month at London that will inevitably break forth into open warfare. When that time comes the finner will then have to formulate new codes and new alignments between moral and unmoral nations.

As to the treaty between Russia and Turkey neither party is concerned about the opinion of the organs of the House of Morgan, along beyond knowing what their plans may be. At a moment when the Angora government is threatened with war by the tory government of England it is but natural that Turkey should turn to the only powerful friend of oppressed nations on earth—the Union of Soviet land the state of the Angora republic will not forget, any future government of by Turkey forgets the debt it owes the great probletarian power that aided it in its hour of dire need, we can rest assured that the working class of the Angora republic will not forget, any more than the German moderatia will forget. man proletariat will forget.

The farmers have Coolidge scared. But the only way to really threaten capitalism is to sign its death warrant and carry it out.

Berger's Discourse on Taxation

Never was there a greater opportunity for a working class spokesman in the house of congress to expose the fraudulent nature spokesman in the noise of congress of earlies on the Mellon of the capitalist government than during the debates on the Mellon tax reform program. The one member that claims to represent the working class in that body is Victor L. Berger, the Mikwajkee "so-cialist." He participated in the debate, informing his colleagues, that as a socialist he considered that the measure proposed by Mellor that as a socialist he considered that the measure proposed by action.

"holds out a promise of a rapid breakdown of this system by a fear ful concentration of wealth."

Here is reformist socialism in its most dogmatic form. Instead of exposing the true role of the United States government which has reduced, the surfax of the billionaires from 40 per cent to 20 per cent, thereby relieving them of the necessity of financing their own government Berger indulges in silly talk about the concentration of wealth and the resultant "breakdown" of the capitalist system.

Such an analysis fails utterly to expose the nature of the cap st state. The present heavy taxation, which has accompanie concentration of wealth, is surely not indicative of the "breakdown oncentration of weathing is surely not marked or breakness of the capitalist system. It means that the power of the government is being centralized and strengthened and the shifting of the tax burden to the middle class simply means that this class is to be forced to pay tribute to the government that exists for the purpose of defending the power of Wall Street. A genuine tribune of the work-ing class-would expose the method by which the capitalist finances the government and not include in bourgeois nonsense about some sort of mechanical process that distintegrates the capitalist system to the extent that wealth concentrates

The revolutionist would never fail to expose the character of the capitalist state and would emphasize the fact that no matter how many contradictions may exist and how much capitalism may con centrate in fewer and fewer hands there must also be created the subjective condition, the determination of the working class to destroy the power of the capitalist class thru revolution. The revolutionist would use his position in the capitalist congress, not to win praise from the flunkeys of the old parties, but to exceriate them so that they would come to be despised by the workers in the factories. Juines, mills and upon the railroads and in the agricultural regions country

No wonder Blatherskite Blanton of Texas praised Berger as the good thing about socialism that he knew of, in the same speech ongress where he said he had no "prejudice against banks or kers, or against big business."

Threats of revolution thru mere concentration of wealth hold terrors for the capitalist class that rules by force thru the power the capitalist government.

"It might have been expected that, with the stabilization of capital, the revolutionary movement would have subsided, but nevertheless it is constantly faring up in ever fresh countries. The so-called stabilization of Capital has simply to put up with such facting an number of colonial wars (Morrock Syria) and a revolutionary
