Capitalism Can Show no Symptom of Improvement Thruout the British Isles

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, as Germany staggers under the heavy burdens inflicted by the Morgan-Dawes plan, and the French franchovers on the brink of chaos, little attention is given to conditions in Great Britain. This land, at least, is held by capitalist apologists to be an impregnable citadel of capitalism. Great Britain certainly will continue to be a capitalist strongend if the leaders of the British labor party can have their say. These include especially J. H. Thomas, who was servetary for the colonies in the recent "labor" government, seather as the strongent of the colonies in the recent "labor" government, seather as the strongent of the strongent in the colonies in the recent "labor" government, seather he declares that if he had the power to put socialism into operation by his one vots, he would refuse to do it, "because the majority of the people do not believe in it." bor rule, "consisted of an open alliance with British imperialism into operation by his one vots, he would refuse to do it, "bor rule," consisted of an open alliance with British imperialism into operation by his one vots, he would refuse to do it, "bor rule," consisted of an open alliance with British imperialism into operation by his one vots, he would refuse to do it, "bor rule," consisted of an open alliance with British imperialism into operation by his one vots, he would refuse to do it in the case of oppressed Egypt, these two worthies were down to the season of the British workers thru a Soviet republic.

"United We Stand, Divided We Fall," is the motto alike," declares John L. Balderston in the New York World, "of Stanley Baldwin for the property-owning classes, and J. H. Thomas and Frank Hodges for the workers."

Balderson, of course, knows he is committing a falsehood when he says that Thomas, Hodges, Growden or MacDonald speak for the British workers. The report of the British trade union delegation to Russia is conclusive proof of this. This writer lies as much in this instance, as he does when he verhoaly proclaims that, "It is certain th

In this England of Baldwin and MacDonald, according to Lloyd George's recent tearful confession in the house commons, there is nowhere to be found any real sympton improvement; 25 per cent of British pre-war foreign trained in the sympton of the and 15 to 20 per cent of pre-war national income has disappeared.

While the British press frantically pioints to Soviet rule, charging that the recovery of industry and agriculture there is not as rapid as it should be, it is admitted that production in England, untouched by the ravages of external and civil war and intervention, is today below what it was in 1912.

There are today 1,259,000 registered unemployed workers in Great Britain, who have received more than a billion and a half dollars in doles since the war. Efforts to ship these jobless workers to Canada and Australia offer no solution sincy both of those colonies have unemployed problems of their own. To refuse this amelioration of the sufferings of the workless would produce a worse crisié than the present drain upon the treasury.

The temporary safety of British capitalism rests in the

The temporary safety of British capitalism rests in the ability of the Baldwins, Asquiths and Lloyd Georges to unite with Thomas, Hodges, MacDonald and Snowden, in a tory-liberal-labor-socialist bloc against the interests of the work-ers. That is what the World's correspondent means when he says, "United We Stand; Divided We Fall!" But even the British working class will develop sufficient strength to throw off the yoke of the "united opposition" of capitalism. That is what helps develop a serious crisis in England, as well as in Germany and France. The struggle for bread is as keen in the British isles as it is on the continent. Capitalism has its troubles everywhere.

HERE IS A VOICE FROM THE SHOPS

A Message from Detroit Shop Nucleus No. 1.

Dear Comrades: A message to the comrades who are building the DAILY WORKER. The newly organized Shop Nucleus No. 1, Detroit, with only fourteen members is stepping forward in the DAILY WORKER campaign. At its last meeting the nucleus has ordered 2,000 copies of the May Day edition. Altho the nucleus is recently organized and much handicapped due to the small membership and finance, —t is planning for a large DAILY WORKER campaign, giving an example for other comrades of larger branches to follow: Also made an arrangement in financing the selling of DAILY WORKER, Workers Monthly and other literature at the shop gates, beginning with 100 copies of the DAILY WORKER.

Comrades, let us celebrate this May Day with a large

WORKER.

Comrades, let us celebrate this May Day with a large edition of the May Day special and make our masters take note that we are here to fight them to the finish.

Yours for Communism,

At the very time we receive this letter of wonderful work by our comrades in the miscleux. Comrade Airrod E. Geets, city DAILY WORKER agent, brings further attention to the "plendid setivities of our comrades in the shop. He writes:

"Here is semething that you might enlarge upon in the column. France's Frenzied Finance

The lid is off in France and the resulting odor nything but pleasant to the ruling class.

saything but pleasant to the ruling class.

The Bank of France has been doing a little counterfeiting, it seems. A mere trific of 2,000,000,000 france over. the legal limit has been issued and without the legalizing off its action the currency is just so much waite paper. The director of the inatitution threatens to close up shop unless the government stands back of him. It appears that the committee which acts in a supervisory capacity refused to sign the bank's statement unless the excess circulation was admitted, but with the aid off Herriot the matter wise patched up. It was unexcess circulation was admitted, but with use ain of Herriot the matter whs patched up. It was understood that the premier would issue a decree legalising the inflation, but his advisers informed him that this procedure was illegal. Before a vote of the chamber on the question could be secured the Herriot cabinet fell.

the Herriot cabinet fell.

Unless the 2,000,000,000 francs worth of paper are given some sort of a legal camouflage before the regular statement of the bank is due on Thursday, French exchange will take a bad tumble.

The entire affair, which would never have seen the light of day had it not been for the cabinet crisis, is illuminating as showing the thin ice on which supposedly powerful governments are skating in these parlous times.

Coupled with the sensation that the disclosures have made is the anxiety due to the uncertain result of the German elections. It is felt that the position of France as the dominant power in continental Europe has been seriously weakened by the exposure of the basic weakness of her finances and that the German georemment whether monhe exposure of the basic weakness or ner manner and that the German government whether monrehist or republican, will be encouraged to make we demands.

areand or reputous, white eathering to save demands.

Even among the allied governments, nominally with France against Germany, there is to be heard a note of satisfaction over the ridiculous position in which the bully of Europe is placed.

The House of Morgan is greatly pleased. It feels sure that the French government will have to accept any terms it cares to make for the new financing nocessary to save the franc pending returns from any taxation measures that will have to be introduced. It looks as the French hegemony in Europe is definitely on the wane.

With the French government in pawn to the House of Morgan it will be able to continue its support of vassal states and the plundering of Germany only insofar as this fits in with the plans of American imperialism for world control.

The Church Militant

There are two warring behools among the followers of Christ, the it must be confessed neither school walks the chalk line very strictly. But in the piping days of peace, one section presents the alleged founder of their creed as a man of peace while another section dressed him up in the habiliaments of war. Whatever position Jesus of Nazareth took two thousand years ago, does not matter very much today when the warring capitalist groups clash ore world markets or spheres of influence. The preachers don the war paint at the point of agun. The capitalists will stand no nousems from n. The capitalists will stand no nonsense from a gun. The capitalists will stand no nonsense from their men of god.

A rather lively scrap has been causing some excitement in the methodist thurch for the past year or more. The United States government, not being engaged in war has allowed the scrimmage to proceed more or less unhindered excepting the attentions of sundry stoolpigeons from the department of justice who take note of the pacifist leaders with a view to filling jail cells, when we proceed to eliminate the "yellow peril" or some other menact to our "liberties."

But Wall Birrect has its caucus in the methodist its facts are not to the part of th But Wall Street has its caucus in the methodist

But Wall Street has its camens in the methodist church. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes is one of them. In an address before the American Legion is a local hotel a few days ago, he denounced those who were attacking the militaristic and imperialistic policy of the United States. He scored the resolu-tion presented to a methodist conference a year ago denomening war. "If the occasion were to arise again I am sure that I would do as I did dur-ing the last war," said the bishop. Ominous Signs

Ominous Signs

The decrease of almost a half million tons in the unfilled order of the United States Steel corporation last moath, the drop in the price of wheat, continuing depression in the coal industry, a falling off in car loadings, all point to the shaky foundation on which American "prosperity" is built.

Production is far, far in advance of domestic consumption and the standardisation of industrial processes brings ever increasing numbers of recruits into the permanent army of unemployed than narrowing the domestic market.

The outstanding feature of the present period in the United States is the frenzied attempt of the capitalists to increase the domestic market. Advertising schemes on an enormous scale, special deferred payment plans for selling everything from automobiles to perfumery, "own your home campaigng" that tie the guillible investor to the mortgage shark for the rest of his life, changes in styles of wearing apparel as sudden as changes in the weather, great public and semi-public improvement projects, every one of these phenomena have for their purpose the extension of the market for the flood of commodities that American industry turns out.

The official American labor movement is living guge shark for the rest of his life, changes in styles of wearing appared as sudden as changes in the organization of the unsure projects, every one of these phenomena have for the projects, every one of these phenomena have for the projects, every one of these phenomena have for the projects, every one of these phenomena have for the projects, every one of these phenomena have for the projects, every one of these phenomena have for the projects of the proje

The recent strike in the heart of industrial Italy caused as much uneasiness at 100 Broad street, New York, as it did in Mussolian's office. Is the fascist regime about to topple? Morgan water to look over the situation.

Morgan may decide to put his millions behind Mussolin and his fascist cutthroats or he may decide that the socialists can serve his purpose better. He is paying the piper. It is up to him to call the tune. Italy is today a dependency of Wall Street. The iron battalions of Italy stood back the Austrian legions on the Piave, but the iron dollars of Wall Street were busy back of the linesputting an iron collar around the necks of the Italian bourgeobje. And behind the iron dollars of Wall Street stand the army and navy of the United States.

There are $0,000 reserve officers in training in the United States today. They form skeleton units that can be filled with cannon fodder on short notice. It is necessary only to call up 20 conscripts for every officer and an army of 1,600,000 men is in existence.

These simple figures shatter all the "peaceful progress of American civilization" dope. They show that the United States today is on a war footing—or what?

For war, of course.
Against whom?

Note the cruise and the "war game" of the greatest fleet ever assembled in the Pacific.
Only fools think that the rulers of the United States are not preparing in earnest for a war of conquest of which our part in the late world war was only the first act.
