LANGFORD WINS FROM JOE JEANNETTE

Floors Husky Heavyweight Three Times in 6 Rounds.

Jeannette Proves to Be Ugly Customer—Langford Puts Him Down Twice in Opening Round, and Beats the Performance in the Fifth—Jeannette Hurtles in the Last Session, but Too Late.

Sam Langford defeated Joe Jeannette in a grueling six-round bout at the National Athletic Club in East Twenty-fourth street last night. Langford scaled at about 165 pounds, while his antagonist was fully ten pounds heavier.

Jeannette was knocked down twice for the count in the first round, and was scored again in the fifth round. Langford, while a better ring general, was slow to take advantage of opportunities, and at one period looked as if he was under a pull. Jeannette used a long left effectively, and in the last round he made a fine rally. Charley White was the referee. The big clubhouse was packed. The men agreed to box straight Queensberry rules.

First Round.—Jeannette shot a quick left to the face after the hand-shake and jumped away from a double swing. Langford followed him swiftly and put both hands to the heart, which brought a clinch. As they broke Langford repeated and Jeannette clinched. Langford landed a terrible hook on the point of the jaw. Jeannette fell, and Referee White counted nine. Langford, believing that he had scored a knock-out, rushed viciously and landed a tremendous right hand punch on the kidneys. Jeannette took another count. When Jeannette got up he rallied. Langford plied in with a storm of blows but Jeannette shook him up with five stinging left-handers flush on the mouth without a return. They were clinched at the song.

Second Round.—Jeannette opened with a left-hand facer. Langford missed a great right-hand swing for jaw. Jeannette fell but jumped up quickly, and jabbed Langford on the mouth and nose with cutting lefts. Langford cut loose, Jeannette covered. Just before the bell Langford got in a volley of hard swings. The gong practically saved Jeannette.

Third Round.—Langford got home a solid left hook on the jaw, then got to close quarters and a heavy exchange of swings and jabs followed with honors about even. Langford landed another kidney blow. Jeannette stood off to the end of the round with left-hand facers. The round was even.

Fourth Round.—Both men indulged in rough slugging. Langford landed a hard swing on the ear. Jeannette blocking and covering. Langford's assault was vigorous. A left on the mouth held Langford.

Fifth Round.—Langford led, Jeannette cutting his left on the head, clinched. Langford broke and mixed. A terrific uppercut which landed squarely on the chin, gave Langford a clean knockdown. Jeannette was clearly groggy. Langford then went in for a knockout, but missed a red-hot uppercut, and in so doing jumped a foot off the floor.

Sixth Round.—Langford rushed. They got into a slugging bee and both were half turned around by hard smashes on the jaw. Jeannette rallied. Langford seemed taking it easy. Jeannette was warned for holding after which he jabbed Langford, apparently without much opposition. It was Langford's fight, although it was the general opinion that he would have to put up a much better argument if he hoped to beat either Ketchell or Papke. Jim Barry challenged Langford to meet at an early date.

In the preliminaries Kid Rose and Adam Brown drew, Young Oviary defeated Young Wagner, Bill Leary and Harry Johnson fought a draw, and Combs Schmitt outpointed Harry Mansfield.

GIANTS EAT THE SQUABS

Good Diet for the Pennant Race Secured in Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The New York Nationals won both games in Boston yesterday. They needed them, for the Pittsburgh put the Cincinnati away twice and jumped to second place. The Cubs were surprised by the Cardinals, who downed them in a ten-inning game, and now Chicago isn't quite so sure of two pennants as it was twenty-four hours ago. Another team to win two games was the Phillies, who had the Brooklyn as opponents. Wittse won the first game 4 to 1, and Mathewson took his to the tune of 8 to 0. Tuckey pitched for the locals in the first game 3-3 Flaherty in the second.

Wittse was very effective and received glib support, particularly from Devlin. Joyce also played fine ball, while Bridwell was on the spot. Not only did Devlin field brilliantly but he gave a splendid account of himself with the stick, by a homer over the left field fence. Dahlen did a large amount of work very cleverly. Sweeney played a fine game of ball. Devlin sent the ball over the left field fence in the second and started the scoring. In the sixth, the locals scored on Beaumont's double and McGann's single. New York proceeded in the seventh. Devlin hit safely. Seymour walked. Devlin's hit scored a run and another followed when Bridwell hit safely, filling the bases, and Wittse was passed, forcing in a run. In the last Seymour banded for two bases, took third on Devlin's sacrifice and scored on Dahlen's bad throw to Sweeney after nailing a liner off Barry's bat.

The New Yorks made four in the first and ninth innings in the second game. Flaherty pitched and retired in the ninth as Bowerman batted for him in the eighth. Then Ferguson finished the game. Before the inning was over four runs were made off him. Mathewson was in his finest form. It looked very much like a no run, no hit game, but Becker, the new man, hit safely in the sixth. Two more hits were made in the seventh and in the ninth: one was made off Taylor. Dahlen again fielded splendidly and Graham caught finely for the locals.

Tenney opened the affair by being passed to first. Doyle bunted and Flaherty threw to second, giving an opening, of which the New Yorks did not avail themselves. Bernahan bunted safely and the bases were filled. Donlin singled, scoring Tenney and Doyle and putting Brenahan on third. Mike taking second on the throw in. Both scored on Devlin's hit. In the last Mathewson, Tenney and Doyle walked, filling the corners, and Brenahan singled along the left field line, scoring Matty and Tenney. Donlin banded to right for a base, scoring Doyle, and while the Bostonians were engaged in running him down between first and second Bridwell took the opportunity to make for the rubber and got there. The nearest Boston came to scoring was in the seventh, when Beaumont and Dahlen singled and Sweeney walked, Graham going out on strikes.

C., Broadway and Twenty-ninth street, on next Thursday night, when he is matched to meet Fred Bradley of Boston in a six-round bout in the wind-up. The winner is to meet the victor of the Langford-Jeannette scrap. As an additional attraction, Matchmaker Jimmy De Forest has arranged four six-round bouts. Charlie White will act as referee and the first bout will be put on at 9 o'clock sharp.

BLACK HAND MAN CAUGHT, FIGHTS HARD

Police Grab Him After Explosion in Tenement.

Twenty-Four Families in Double-Decker Terrorized by Report in Jam on Wrecked Stairways—Reserves Called Before Panic, Is Quelled—Italian Storekeeper Was Intended Victim.

Following a terrific explosion in the big tenement house at Nos. 9 and 11 Tenth street at 3:30 A. M. yesterday, policemen John Mahoney and William Agnew saw a man staggering down Tenth street. He was covered with blood and badly hurt.

"What's that explosion? How were you hurt?" one asked.

The man attempted to escape and was only conquered after a liberal use of night sticks. The Tenth street house they found in an uproar. Some of the twenty-four families were in the street screaming for help, others were scrambling down the stairs, falling over each other as they came.

The front of the house was badly wrecked and the walls of the hall entrance were jarred out of place. In this hall was the remnants of a bomb.

Giovanni and Rosalie Canjalasi, brothers, who run a bakery on the ground floor, have been receiving letters demanding money. The last letter read in part:

"Pay $500 or Die."
"You pay $500 or you and your family die by fire and dynamite."

Giovanni is now living at 425 East Thirteenth street, and his brother at 221 East Houston street. Rosalie slept in the bakery. He was roused by a knock at the door. Before he could open it the explosion followed.

The prisoner was recognized as Salvatore Selena, a barber, of 27 Stanton street, who was arrested six months ago on suspicion of having thrown a bomb in the doorway of a tenement house in East Sixty-third street.

The bomb was found to have contained nails, shot and other hard missiles, including a peculiar substance just after this whole should have been put into the bomb the police cannot imagine.

Didn't Run in Time.
At the Mulberry street station Selena said he had hurt himself on the sign while running.

"I don't know," replied the prisoner when asked how he had been hurt about the back. The police believe, however, that Selena failed to properly time the explosion and that he was hit in the back by some of the nails and shot. His condition was such that he had to be treated by a surgeon from St. Vincent's hospital.

LAMPGLASSERS SAY THEY'RE NOT DEATEN

The strike of the lampglassers is growing stronger every day. Instead of men returning to work as reported in the morning newspapers, the officials of the union declare that men are quitting work and are joining the ranks of the strikers. The number of members affected by the strike were last counted yesterday.

The police are still making an active fight in breaking the strike. Union lampglassers are surrounded by police, and it is claimed that in many cases the police keep in the streets on the streets.

MASS. CHOOSES CAREY

James F. Carey, of Haverhill, was yesterday nominated for Governor of Massachusetts by the Socialist party in annual state convention. The nomination was made amid great enthusiasm.

Mr. Carey served five terms in the state legislature, 1899-1903, and has been active in the Socialist movement for years. He is at present State Secretary of the party. He has been Socialist candidate for Governor before.

John F. Hall, Jr., of Chicopee, was named for Lieutenant-Governor, and the remainder of the ticket is as follows: For Secretary of State, Squire E. Putney, of Somerville; Treasurer, Charles C. Hitchcock, of Ware; Auditor, George G. Hall, of Boston; Attorney General, John McCarthy, of Abington.

State Secretary Carey announced that the Socialist party organization had made a net gain of 27 per cent. in membership during the past year, and 23 per cent. increase in the number of clubs.

The state platform says special emphasis on abolition of child labor, raising of the school age and abolition of the injunction in labor disputes.

Resolutions condemning those responsible for the refusal of Tremont Temple and People's Temple for the Debts meeting were adopted.

A committee of ten will serve as a nucleus of a Pouren defense conference. Massachusetts Socialists say they will fight vigorously "to save Pouren from extradition and this country from disgrace."

GREAT MASS MEETING AT COOPER UNION

That the Cooper Union Auditorium will be packed with workmen next Friday night to listen to the speakers of the Socialist party is already assured, and all those who wish to obtain seats should be on hand at an early hour.

The gospel of Socialism will be presented to the audience by orators of national reputation, and the first great mass meeting of the present electoral campaign held directly under the auspices of Local New York will be an event calculated to fill the participants with a spirit of enthusiasm that will cause them to renew their attacks on capitalism with redoubled vigor and make this campaign an epoch-making one in the history of the Socialist movement.

The speakers of the evening will be Joshua Wanhope, candidate for Governor; Gustave A. Strebel, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; H. L. Shobbin, candidate for Attorney General; Robert Hunter, candidate for Assembly in the Second District; and Edward F. Cassidy, Vice President of "Big Six."

With born head to seventy, to seventy.

Socialists' Festival.

The Great Labor Festival to be given by the Socialists at the Cooper Union, New York, Sept. 5, will be a grand success, it is believed by the Socialist movement in this city and throughout the country.

Word Parties in Brooklyn.

Not the least of the many ways in which the Young Socialist League of Brooklyn is increasing the young people of that borough in the Socialist movement is the series of word parties given by the league this summer. These parties were given at the Young Socialist League, every one and four hundred members, and will be continued until the winter season. It could be given in the winter and in the spring and in the summer.

Socialist Wedding.

At the wedding of Miss Emma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wagoner, of Brooklyn, to Mr. Benjamin Abrahamson last Saturday, a collection of several dollars was taken for the Young Socialist League of the City. The collection was made by the Young Socialist League of the City, and many of the generous guests joined the league.

NEWARK STRIKERS STAND FIRM

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 2.—Over 500 persons attended an open-air meeting held by the Socialist party Monday night at Belmont avenue and Court street, and when E. T. Neben, one of the speakers, read a circular handed him by a committee of the girl strikers of the Lewis Cigar Company, which described the brutal treatment to which the girls had been subjected by the bosses and their hirelings and asked the public not to buy any of the Lewis Company's cigars, he was applauded to the echo.

Neben also showed up the police department, and told how the police allowed the girl strikers to be beaten and abused by thugs supposed to be in the employ of the Lewis Company. The girl cigarmakers are standing as firm as ever, and are determined to win their fight for better conditions despite the opposition of public and private detectives and strong-arm ruffians.

MASS. STREET RAILWAYS SEEK NEW AGREEMENT

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The Boston & Northern Street Railway Company, which operates practically all the street railways north of Boston in the eastern part of Massachusetts, has notified the various unions of the motor-men and conductors that it desires a conference to amend the present working agreement.

The present wage scale when adopted two years ago was not entirely satisfactory to the men, but was arranged as a compromise by a committee which included the international officers of the men's union.

The action of the company in reopening the agreement comes as a surprise, but since the company desires it reopened it is stated that the men will demand the wage scale requested at the time the agreement was signed.

PARRY THINKS BRYAN NEED NOT BE FEARED

Expresses Confidence in Both Old Party Candidates.

Tells Vice-Presidential Candidate Kern That He Is Opposed to Intimidation of Voters and Takes Occasion to Tell Where He Stands—Democrats Wonder How Trades Unionists Will Like It.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 2.—David M. Parry, ex-president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and original anti-labor union agitator, declares that he is no longer afraid of Mr. Bryan.

A letter to John W. Kern, Vice Presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, brought forth this declaration from Mr. Parry through asking the latter for his opinion on the "prosperity" placards which are being posted in factories on behalf of the Republican campaign.

Mr. Kern said he wanted the opinion of Mr. Parry on "this proposition of boycotting or coercing workmen" to vote the Republican ticket. The placards read "on the day after the election of Taft and Sherman this factory will start up in full force."

In reply Mr. Parry says he disapproves of attempts to influence voters by such methods and concludes: "I am more sympathetic with the statement that Mr. Bryan is the enemy of industry than I do with the statement that Mr. Taft is the creature of the trusts, and as for Mr. Kern's possible election being a menace to business, it is positively absurd."

This declaration is taken to mean that the election of either Taft or Bryan will be satisfactory to Mr. Parry. How this announcement will be received by the union labor supporters of Mr. Bryan throughout the country is a matter of local conjecture.

Mr. Kern's action in writing Mr. Parry for his opinion has also caused some concern among local Democrats who are acquainted with Parry's unpopularity among trade unionists generally.

SPRINGFIELD NEGRO NOT GUILTY.

Famous Riot Was Over Man Now Imprisoned.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Earl Hallam yesterday signed a statement that George Richardson is not the negro who attacked her on the night of Aug. 14. It was the charge against Richardson, followed by his arrest and removal to Bloomington, that precipitated the recent riot that disgraced the city, caused the loss of many lives, and necessitated the calling out of 5,000 militiamen to restore order.

An alleged mob leader named Abraham Rayner has been arrested and charged with murder in connection with the recent outrages. Other arrests are being made daily.

CLOUDS GET UP C. P. R.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 2.—Ten thousand passengers on transcontinental trains of the C. P. R. were held up on Friday morning by a heavy fog between here and Thunder Bay owing to vast washouts, due to disturbances. Most of the passengers were swept into the valley. The company is feeding the passengers, most of whom are from or for New York, Boston, Chicago, Toronto and Montreal.

ARGUE POLITICS WITH FISTS.

SAYVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Barrister Julius Franer, on a visit to his home in Sayville, yesterday had an argument with William Whelan before the village justice. When they disagreed, they resorted to their fists. The justice was called in and they were ordered to stop. The justice was called in and they were ordered to stop.

THE POPULARISTIC LIFE WORKS CONTINUES.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—Dr. W. H. Fox, of New York, chairman of the National Committee of the People's Party, arrived in St. Louis to campaign for the Socialist organization for the People's Party. Chairman Fox said the People's Party will hold a million votes in the November election.

BEN. HANFORD SAYS!

that we are to elect our first Socialist members of Congress this year."

Mr. Hanford, on account of his health, will be unable to take the stump but will instead write campaign articles regularly for the Socialist press.

WHO BEN HANFORD IS.

Ben Hanford, Socialist party nominee for Vice-President of the United States, was born in Cleveland, O., in 1861. His mother died in his infancy, and some years later his father married Frances Jane Thompson of Bangor, Me. She is a woman of rich and cultivated mind and rare character, and Hanford declares his debt to her is incalculable. Under her instruction he acquired a taste for study and reading, and to her influence he attributes most of whatever may be good in his character.

Hanford learned the printer's trade in the Marshalltown (Iowa) Republic. In 1879 he went to Chicago, and on February 26, 1879, he became a member of Chicago Typographical Union No. 16. He has never been a day without his card of membership in the International Typographical Union since that time—more than twenty-nine years ago. For many years he has been a member of New York Typographical Union No. 6—"Big Six"—and he has at all times been a militant and active worker in the trade union movement.

Fifteen years ago he became a student of Socialist economics and philosophy under that gifted and wonderful teacher, Fred Long, of Philadelphia, also a printer.

Is Honored by Socialist Party.

Ben Hanford has three times been the Socialist candidate for Governor of the State of New York—in 1898 being the nominee of the Socialist-Labor party, and in 1896 and 1902 he headed the New York State ticket for the Socialist party. In 1901 he was the Socialist party candidate for Mayor of New York City.

In 1904 and again in 1908 he was nominated by his party for Vice-President of the United States, in both campaigns the national ticket of the Socialist party being Debs and Hanford.

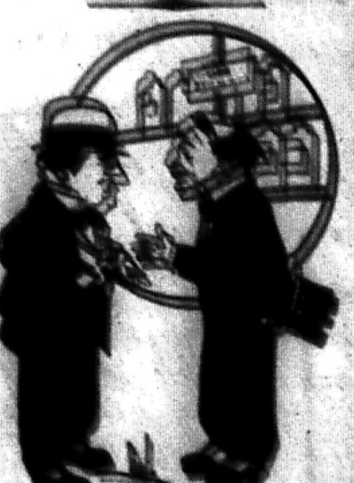

For many years Ben Hanford had been an active and tireless worker in the trade union and Socialist movement. He generally put in about three months of each year on the lecture platform and making political speeches before the annual election, but the day after the polls closed saw him back in the printing office working at his trade.

In addition to his activities as a speaker, Hanford has been a constant contributor to the labor press, and leaflets and pamphlets written by him have been printed and created by the millions. When the New York Sun looked out its union printers in 1897 Hanford wrote much of the "Big Six" boycotting that paper, and openly defied Judge Bookstaver's injunction against printer and other members of the printer's union.

Since 1897 Hanford's health has been so broken that he has been forced to give up public speaking, but he has been actively employed with his pen.

LICENSE DEPUTY FIRED ON BRIBERY CHARGES

John H. Bogart, Commissioner of the License Bureau, dismissed Deputy Chief Inspector Charles Simon Monday on the ground that he was a recipient of bribes.

It was charged that last February Simon demanded and accepted, in the Stewart Building, from an employment agent, Ida Scheinberg, the sum of $66. This money, it was alleged, was paid Simon to induce him to give her "protection" in the bureau.

It was also charged that at various times from October, 1906, and for about a year afterward, Simon took from Rose Cohen, another employment agent, small sums which altogether amounted to about $45. Then Mrs. Cohen lost her license, and it was alleged that Simon demanded $100 from her on the ground that he could obtain for her permission to continue in the employment agency business in her husband's name.

Charles Simon was in the License Bureau from 1904 and had a salary of $2,100.

LIVELY DEBATE WILL TAKE PLACE IN TROY

Special to the Call.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Everything points to a lively time on Labor Day when Joshua Wanhope, Socialist party candidate for Governor, will meet the chosen representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties in debate before the Central Federation of Labor. That the union men here are determined to hear the best on all sides is shown by the fact that the Republican State Committee has forwarded a name to debate the issues of the day with Wanhope, and that he was not of sufficient prominence so that they must be named back, asking for another. About the same condition has been submitted to the Democratic Committee, so it looks as though Mr. Wanhope may have opponents worthy of his steel.

TAMMANY CAPTAIN DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

Philip McGovern, a Tammany Captain, is dead of a fractured skull, and his friends say that he was the victim of a blackjack. The police of the West Forty-seventh street station admit that the case is mysterious, and do not deny that McGovern was probably the victim of foul play.

McGovern got up at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and said he was going down Ninth avenue to Twenty-seventh street. He said that he would be back for breakfast, and his family thought no more about it until he staggered up the three flights of stairs an hour later.

Dr. Henry F. Quackenbush was called, and advised that McGovern be taken to a hospital, where he died.

THE COST OF STEEL.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2.—Through the bottom falling out of a traveling column at the Hamilton steel and iron works, Hamilton, Ont., two tons of molten steel fell to the floor, rebounding in all directions. Shards of red hot steel even struck the ceiling. John Gorman, a Canadian workman, John Gorman, and O. Whitford, workmen, are badly burned and are in hospital. Hamilton says they lost away, but because of the red hot liquid covered the floor and fell unconscious. He cannot recover.

FORAKER'S NEPHEW A SOCIALIST

Special to the Call.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—Harry Rudy Wells, nephew of Senator Foraker, son of the founder of Wellston, Ohio, and one of the richest men of western Ohio, will take the sting this fall for the Socialist party. He is the Socialist candidate for elector in his district.

Between Senator Foraker and his radical nephew there is the closest sort of friendship, but there is an agreement between them never to discuss Socialism in each other's presence.

The coal trust made Wells a Socialist.

This is his story as told by himself: "Some people are born great, some achieve it, and some have it thrust upon them. My Socialist beliefs thrust upon me, or, possibly, I achieved them.

Years ago I was forced to see that there was a class struggle—a struggle between an owning and a propertyless class. Perhaps I was in a better position to see than many people, as I was the manager and owner of a mine, where I acted as manager and wage laborer at the same time. As a director of labor and a capitalist, I used my hands as a worker and I used my head to create wealth.

"I saw through the whole thing so easily. I, as a capitalist, took vast interest and pride in what I gave society no social effort in return. But when the coal trust came along and hit me I began to realize clearer than ever that we were living the life of gold instead of the golden rule.

"I am a Socialist, a member of the Socialist party, and I shall use all my efforts toward introducing the Socialist state, where there would be no classes, no wage slaves and no more slaves, but a great republic of men and women, who own themselves and their products."

Wells is 31 years old. His wife shares his Socialist views.

DALY'S NEW PLAY HAS CURIOUS THEME

No salvation for the wicked in the moral of Owen Kildare and Walter Bickett's new play, "The Rejuvenation," with which Arnold Daly opened his season last night at the Waldorf. Once one is born into crime...

To find stability in his rather queer philosophy, the assurance of a "sociology" is engaged, which tells Conway that his role will contaminate the woman he loves and, by the good, old-fashioned road of "sacrifice," he travels back to crime and lands in prison.

Owen Kildare is the nephew of a gangster of New York tonight, and at the time the play opens he is discovered directing the robbery of one of a stunning party. Marie Deering, a settlement worker, is at the same time dragged into the den by members of the gang. She gains an influence over him, forces him to abandon his shameful career and induces him to marry. At the second act we find him at the settlement house prosing under her gentle care. All would be well, but suddenly a former "pal" of his committed a murder and the gang comes on him and asks that he hide the murderer. He refuses but finally yields, and in the long course discovered by Marie Deering, she leaves him and in the meantime Arthur Anna, who is in love with Marie Deering, gives him a dose of the philosophy mentioned above, and when Marie Deering comes back, she finds that she has all been forgotten and forgiven.

The warring of "The Devils" the one under Fiske management at the Belasco Theatre and the other under the direction of Henry W. Savage at the Garden, keeps up in the accepted spectacular style.

Three Twins is in its twelfth week at the Herald Square Theatre with the performance still going with the same swing and vim that it did on the opening night.

Miss Billie Burke, whose success is pronounced in "Love Watches," is on the second week of her engagement at the Lyceum Theatre.

The production of Clyde Fitch's play, "Gloria," at Daly's Theatre, continues as one of the most farce-comedy comedies of the past year.

There is no question as to the public's fondness for the drama with a music element when "The Working Girl," which is now in its second season at the Herald Square Theatre, with John Mason still playing the leading part, is continued.
