night Justice Crane determined just before 3 o'clock in the afternoon to find out what the prospects of agreement were, and he called for the jury. Word was sent back that the jury desired five minutes more.

Two or three minutes more.

Two or three minutes later the twelve men entered the court room and took their seats. Justice Crane, still believing that an agreement was only a remote possibility, told the jurymen he had sent for them to find out if they had reached an agreement, and stood ready to receive what was expected to be a negative answer.

"We have," Foreman William J. Hill replied.

Justice Crane showed his surprise, but it was a pleasant surprise after the long wait. The jury arose, and in reply to the Court's question Foreman Hill said slowly:

"We find the defendant—not guilty."

man Hill said slowly:

"We find the defendant—not guilty."

An almost infinitesimal period of absolute silence held the room and then there was a storm of handelaping and shouting and a hysterical sort of screaming that testified to the presence in the court room of a number of women. The justice's gavel banged on the desk and orders were given for clearing the room.

Thornton Hains sat as if stunned for a moment, and then jumped to like feet. John F. McIntyre, the prisoner's chief counsel, who had seemed to be on the point of a serious collapse, straightened in his chair, and he tunned, beaming, to the prisoner's chief counsel, who had seemed to be on the point of a serious collapse, straightened in his chair, and he tunned, beaming, to the prisoner's chief counted in his chair, and after a moment rose unsteadily, and with bowed head walked slowly out of the court room.

And at the same moment there was a crash at the door, and a man was through before the court officer could hold the door against him. The poficeman' daught Major John P. Hains, brother of the accused, and held him. Major Hains, had heard the shout in his room nearby and had understood its meaning. Ho paused when he heard the judge speaking to the jurymen, and, swaying, was let down into a chair by the court officer. When the Court was finished with its brief thanks to the jury the major leaped up again and rushed to his brother, who now had been told by the Court that he was free. The major, who is not very large, but is an embodiment of vitality hygreed his breehe. that he was free. The major, who is not very large, but is an embodiment of vitality, hugged his brother and his brother's lawyers and everybody within reach indiscriminately. Within a few moments the telephone had informed General Hains and his wife, father and mother of Thornton Hains, of the verdict. They were at the Hotel Astor, Manhattan. Another message had been sent to Capital Peter C. Hains in his cell in the Queens County jail, Long Island City.

Name Hat Company, 250; C. B. Rutan & Co., 175; Harrop & Gist, 150; Crowe, Quinlan & Moore, 150; Ellor Brothers & Hall, 150.

The discontinuance of the union label is rigarded as a serious breach between the employers and the hatters. The union has built up its strength from the union label. The United Hatters of America spend 350,000 annually to advertise the label. Besides this sum the organization keeps fourteen men on the road who devote all of their time to create a demand for the hatters label.

It is believed that the employers are using the withdrawal of the label as an excuse for starting the open shop. The hat manufacturers, encouraged by recent court decisions, are trying to annibilate the union of their employes. It is expected that all other labor organizations, using union labels, will champion the cause of the hatters, and will give the strikers all the moral and inancial support necessary.

16.—Twenty-five persons were believed to be dead and thirty or more injured in a wreck of westbound passenger train No. 5 on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad at Dotseor, twenty miles west of here. Ten bodies have been taken from the wreck. Details of the accident and the names of the dead and finited cannot be learned at fils time.

Gus Olson, engineer of the passenger train, was known to have been killed.

The wreck was caused by the collision of an eastbound freight train which had entered a siding, but had not completely left the main line. When the crash came the eagine and cars of the passenger struck the freight.

The engine was demolished and the cars of the passenger were overturned. Many of the victims were uinned under the wreakage and were extricated by follow passengers in the rear coaches, which were not destroyed.

"6.577 policemen made a total of $11 arrests on cruelty charges. Fourteen special agents of the society made 235 arrests during the same period."

Mr. Wagstaff told the society that economy was necessary, and that it was facing a deficit. A part of the society's building had been rented as a source of income, he said.

The report of Treasurer Bergh showed that the society had spent $146.086, while its income had been $131,762, leaving a deficit of $14,222.

DEBATE IN NEWARK.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 16.—Intense interert is being manifested here in the debate that will take place Monday night, the 18th, at the New Audiorium, Orange and Broad streets, between Prof. George R. 50,000 ACCIDENTS

ALBANY. Jan. 16.—The Public Service Commission for the First Ditrict. in its annual report submitted to the Legislature yesterday, tells of a horrible loss of life in this city do to the congested traction condition. The number of accidents in New York, says the report, is nearly it, 60%, including an average of 600 eyear killed.

"The Commission has decided." It is explained in the report, "that transportation companies should run many cars as it is physically possible to operate during rush hours, that the number of seats should be equal if not exceed, the number of passegers in a short period of time, as that the only excuse for not promising such service shall be insupersuphysical conditions or events which it is impossible to forcese."

Figures are given by the Commission to demonstrate the needs of the public service corporations. During the last year the Commission har received upward of 2,000 complaint received upward of 2,000 complaint provides and events ing the services rendered by trainsportation companies and events ing complaints against the gas us electric companies, most of these ing complaints of inaccurate means.

The strike circulars being distributed read as follows:

"To Organized Labor and the General Public:

Socialists Take a Hand. members of the Socialist party

The members of the Socialist party in Cambria County are as determined as the strikers to help win this strike, and they intend to fight until the Cambria Company is glad to sign/the contract and recognize the union. They appeal to all the workers in Cambria County, both union and non-union, to help the strikers, for they know that the loss of this strike would mean a wage cut to all the workers in the county, and to win it would mean just the opposite. The men know they have a hard struggle on hand and that they have the political ring of Cambria County to fight, of which the brewery is the core.

The strikers are gaining public sympathy more and more each day, however. At first they were compelled to go to the people personally, as they could not get a statement before the public through the daily papers, until the New York Evening Call entered the arcna.

The strikers offered to pay the local

The firemen had received $15 er week and steady work. They were reduced to $12 per week and work four weeks out of six.

One of the strikers went to another own to see some men a few days ago, and while in a hotel was talking to he bartender, telling him about the strike, when out walked Charles Cole, as agent for the Cambria Brewing Company, from a side room, with half a dozen bodyguards. Cole pulled off his coat and wanted to fight the triker. To avoid trouble the striker walked out and went away, and when he got back to Johnstown he found the news had preceded him about how Cole had licked a striker.

This Cole is supposed to be a union man, but he is acting as agent for the brewery and selling beer on the strength of the union, as he still considers himself a union bartender.

A Strange Decision.

A Strange Decision.

A Strange Decision.

It is interesting to see to what learths the brewery company is good in trying to keep its trade. The sheers arranged recently for a complitie of United Mine Workers of America to come to town to talk over he strike. They engaged a room at he Merchants' Hotel and gaid all examples for the deputation. The most interesting part came, however, when he strikers' committee arrived, executing to meet the officials, but found their surprise that the brewery medials had sent three scabs as prox.

The names of the scabs were P. J.
Sasoner. J. Albricht and L. Burkset. The striers refused to meet then and told them to send the ofcials. Then somebody telephoned all resident Green arrived, but, as

It must not be forgotten that Boss

More than three hundred guests crowded the place and many others were unable to find seats. The greatest good will pre-vailed, and everybody felt satisfied that this meeting was an epoch maker in the history of the society.

Charles Edward Russell was introfuced as chairman by Secretary W. J. Ghent, and, after a few brief remarks to the effect that he felt that this meeting was going to be an inspiring and instructive event, as well as an epoch making one, he presented Frank Bohn, president of the local branch of the I. S. S., as the first Mr. Bohn said that he thought that this assembly went far toward refuting the charge that the colleges of America were the strongholds of the reactionists, and followed this up with the statement that, although the members of the extreme left of the ocialist movement, among whose he was proud to be numbered, always insisted upon the essentially working sisted upon the essentially working class character of the movement, it must be admitted that the majority of the speakers and leaders came from the colleges. The object of the I. S. S. was to endeavor to attract the 120,000 college men and women of this country to the only movement that fought for twentieth century ideas.

Chairman Russell, after poking a little-fun at the attempts to define Socialism made by people who knew nothing about it, introduced Morris Hiliquit as one who was well qualified to tell the audience what the Socialist party really stood for.

Mr. Hilliquit began by saying that he had been asked to define and give short histories of about every phase of the Socialist movement, and as he had as much as thirteen minutes to do it in he thought it an easy task. The speaker then defined the "different brands" of Socialism by saying that they were like the snakes in Ireland, there weren't any.

He then showed how the modern Socialism, was not a ready-made scheme, to be imposed upon humanity, but rather a recognition of the fact that society is constantly developing, and said that Socialism came not to destroy all of our present civilisation, but is improve it by establishing the collective ownership and democratic management of the necessary tools of production. Mr. Hillquit closed by summarising the remarkable growth of the Socialism movement in all countries of the world.

As a part of this deal it was understood that Moriarity or some other player would be turned over to Detroit for a cash benus. Until the reinstatement of Chese was assured Manager Stallings did not consent to the sale of Moriarity.

Charles Webb Murphy, of the Chicago Cubs, has not yet handed that $10,000 bonus to his players. He is apparently hiding behind a technicality in the shape of a statement that before he gives up the coin the National Commission must first abolish the rule which prohibits such bonuses. Chairman Herrmann, of the commission, says that there is nothing to prevent Murphy from making good his promise to the Cubs and that the money should be paid without further delay. view Mr. Belasco declares himself as follows:

"There is just one thing I hope for," and that is that the people who come to see Frances Starr in "The Easies: Way," will come with free and open minds. There is nothing so shallow as prejudice, and nothing so dangerous. In the role of Laura Murdock Miss Starr considers herself the bearer of a message, and this message is one that should be listened to impartially, pendered seriously and adopted intelligently by every mother who has the welfare of her daughter at heart. Young girls and young boys go out into the world and meet its dangers, and it is the mission of plays like "The Easiest Way" to remind those who treat these dangers lightly that one day they will be called on to pay the penalty.

ACTORS' SOCIETY TO PRODUCE PLAYS.

In an address to the Actors' So lety on Sunday evening, January 10 In an address to the Actors' Society on Sunday evening. January 10. Mr. Augustus Thomas suggested the formation of a play-reading committee, to read the plays of authors who have been unable to get a production through regular channels, and to produce the promising plays so discovered at special matinees, casting them from the large membership of the organization. The scheme appearing feasible and advantageous from all points of view—the actor, the author and manager, the public and the organization all benefiting—the Society has already appointed a committee to be called the Play Readers' Committee, consisting of Thomas A. Wise, the president of the society; Fanns Cannon, the vice president; William Courtleigh, F. F. Mackay, Mary Shaw, John E. Kellerd, Richard F. Carroll, E. W. Morrison, George Arliss, E. R. Mawson, Edward Ellis, Edward McWade and George Earle, Manuscripts may be sent to the Play Reading Committee, Actors' Society, 123 West 45th street, New York.

Henry B. Harris' production of Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree," which opens at the Hudson Theater on February I, includes the following well known people in the cast: Edmund Breese, Helen Ware, Ralph Delmore, Grace Filkins, Wallace Eddinger, John Flood, Francis Byrne, George Barnum, Walter Craven, Verner Clarges, William Wray and Alfred Moore.

Louis F. Werba has accepted models for the scenery of "Spirit Land," the new vaudeville act he is to present at the Fifth Avenue Theater on Monday, February 8. There will be four different sets to the act, the nature of it making unusual pictorial effects possible. Both from scenic and costume viewpoint it is claimed this act will be the most elaborate yet offered on a vaudeville stage. "Spirit Land" will soon be completed in every detail. Rehearsals are being held daily.

"Elljah," the chef, doesure of Mendelssehn's oratorio composition, will be presented at the fourth performance by the Oraterio Society of New York, assisted by Mme, Jeanne Jomeil, Mile, Janet Spencer and MM. Daniel Beddoe and David Bispham, as solcists, and provided with instrumental support by the New York Symphony Orchestra.

Mischa Elman at his next recital in Carnegie Hall Thursday afternoon. January 28, will have the Bruch concerto in G-minor as the principal offering in his program. There will be a number of smaller pieces, including the "Gavotte," by Gossed, which made an immediate hit with the public when he played on the occasion of his debut and again at his first concert in the Manhattan Opera House.

New German Trio at Klein "Pop." An interesting novelty is to lead the program of the "Sunday Pop" at the New German Theater to-morrow afternoon in the shape of a trio for violin and violoncello, by Robert Kahn, the well known composer and professor of the Berlin Hochschule. Minnie Cochrane, respectively. Mr. Avery Belvor, an American battone, will sing, among other soil, a couple of Hungarian songs by Karel Bendl.

"Lasciatemi morire" (Let me die), one of the beautiful ballad compositions of the ancient Italian master, Claudio Monteverde, and three arie by Allessandro Scarlatti, Raffaelle Bontani and Francesco Durante, will upen a song recital which is to be given in Mendelssohn Hall a week from Monday afternoon by Miss Margaret Rabold, soprano.

Other of the fair soloist's offering will be three Irish folksongs, "Elleen's Farewell," "The Stolen Heart" and "Oh! the Marriage," and two groups of lieder by Johannes Brahms and Edward Grieg. The concluding numbers of the program will be a trio of English songs by Arthur Whiting, who will be the planoforte accompanist of the recital.

Emilio de Gogorza has arranged a splendid program for his forthcoming song recital in Mendelssohn Hall on Tuesday afternoon, January 25, and it will give him some fine opportunities for displaying his versatility as a linguist, as it will be made up of songs and arie to be sung in French, German, Italian, Spanish and English. Mr. de Gogorza will have the assistance of Mr. Harry C. Whittemore, who accompanied him on his recent Californian tour.

Vanderbilt's methods and his duplicity in the disposition of this project were strikingly revealed in the court proceedings instituted by the State of Pennsylvania. It appeared from the testimony that he had made from the testimony that he had made a "gentiemen's agreement" with the Reading railroad, the bitterest competitor of the Pennsylvania railroad, for a close alliance of interests. Wanderbilt owned $2,060 shares of Reading in his word the Reading management went ahead to expending as their shour retailating in various effective ways. At this point J. Pierpont Morgan, whose career we shall duly describe—stepped boldly in. Morgan was Vanderbilt's financial agent; and it was he, according to his own testimony on October 13, 1855, before the scribe—stepped boildy in. Morgan was Vanderbilt's financial agent; and it was he, according to his own testimony on October 13, 1885. before the court examiner, who now suggested and made the arrangements between Vanderbilt and the Pennsylvania Railroad magnates, by which the South Pennsylvania Railroad was to become the property of the Pennsylvania system, and the Reading Railroad magnates were to be as completely thrown over by as deft a stroke of treachery as had ever been put through in the business world.

To their great astonishment the Reading owners woke up one morning to find that Vanderbilt and his associates had completely betrayed them by disposing of a majority of the stock of the partly built Bouth Pennsylvania line to the Pennsylvania Railroad system for $5,600,000 in 3 per cent railroad debenture bonds. It is interested in his real sentiments. Asked by a reporter why he did not consider public convenience in the running of this trains, he blurted out: "The public damned!"

It was assuredly both a superfluous question and answer; but expressed spentiment. He was made the target for large fortunes. For once in his career Vanderbilt met in the Pennsylvania Railroad a competitor powerful enough to force him to com-

Its history was a succession of corrupt acts in legislatures and in Congress, and comprised the usual process. where Vanderbilt was much more of corrupt acts in legislatures and in Congress, and comprised the usual process of stock watering and exploitation. By a series of manipulations ending in 1850 Vanderbilt secured a controlling interest in this railroad, so that he had a complete line from New York to Chicago and thence far inte the Northwest. During these years he also secured control of other railroad lines.

aritans were employed on the interior; 60 stoneworkers were imported from Europe. The capaciousness, the glitter and the cluttering of splender in the interior were regarded as of unprecedented lavishness in the United States.

All of the luxury overloading these mansions was as was well known, the fruit of fraud piled upon fraud; it represented the spoliation, misery and degradation of the many; but none could deny that Vanderbilt was fully entitled to it by the laws of a society which decreed that its rulers should be those who could best use and abuse it. And rulers must ever live imperiously and impressively; it is not fitting that those who command the resources, labor and government of a nation should issue their mandates from pinched and meager surroundings. Mere pseudo political rulers, such as governors and presidents, are expected to be satisfied shuse it. And rulers must ever live imperiously and impressively; it is not fitting that those who command the resources, labor and government of a nation should issue their mandates from pinched and meager surroundings. Mere pseudo political rulers, such as governors and presidents, are expected to be satisfied with the plain, unornamental official residences provided by the people; thereby they keep up the appearance of that much-bespoken republican simplicity which is part of the mark of political formulas. Luckily for themselves the financial and industrial rulers are bound by no circumscribof political formulas. Luckily for themselves the financial and industrial rulers are bound by no circumscribing tradition; hence they, have no set of buckramed rules to stick close to for fear of an indignant electorate.

The same populace which glowers and mutters whenever its political officials show an inclination to pompregards it as perfectly natural that its financial and industrial rulers should body forth all of the most obtrusive evidences of grandeur. Those Vanderbilt twin palaces, still occupied by the Vanderbilt family, were appropriately built and fitted, and are more truly and epoclically historic as the abode of government than official mansions; for it is the magnates who have in these modern times been the real rulers of nations; it is they who have usually been able to decide who the political rulers should be; political parties have been simply their adjuncts; the halls of legislation and the courts their mouthpieces and registering bureaus. Theirs has been the power, under cover though it has lurked, of elevatmouthpieces and registering bureaus. Theirs has been the power, under cover though it has lurked, of elevating or destroying public officials and of approving or cancelling legislation. Why, indeed, should they not have their gilded palaces?

A Sudden Transformation

The President of the United States lived in the subdued simplicity of the White House. But when William H. Vanderblit ate it was a great, lofty dining room, twenty-six by thirty-tokins, "no good poker player could seven feet, wrought in Italian Renaisses, with a wainscot of golden-hued, poker players."—Washington Star.

If, however, Vanderbilt anticipated that the Pennsylvania Railroad would remain docile or passive while his competitive line was being built, he soon learned how sorely mistaken he was. This time he was opposing no weak, timorous or unsophisticated competitors, but a group of the most corputionists. Their methods in Pennsylvania and other states were exactly the same as Vanderbilt's in New York State; their political power was as great in their chosen province as his in New York. His incursion into the territory they had apportioned to themselves for exploitation was not only resented but was fiercely resisted. Presently, overwhelmed by the Guabling financial and political weapons with which they fought him. Vanderbilt's methods and his duplicity in the disposition of this project were strikingly revealed in the court proceedings instituted by the State of Pennsylvania. It appeared from the testimony that he had made a "gentlemen's agreement" with the Rister of Pennsylvania. It appeared from the testimony that he had made a "gentlemen's agreement" with the Rister of Pennsylvania. It appeared from the testimony that he had made a "gentlemen's agreement" with the Rister of Pennsylvania. It appeared from the testimony that he had obtained on this agreement. Strangely confiding in his word the Reading management went ahead to expending man his trains, he bilirted out: "The public be damned:"

It was assuredly both a superfluous question and answer; but expressed ro sententionsly, and published, as it throughout the length and breadth of the land, it excited deep popular resentment. He was made the target for general denunciation and execration, although unreasenably so, for he had but given candid and succinct utterance to the actuating principle of the whole capitalist class. The moral' of this incident impressed itself sharply upon the minds of the masterly rich, and to this day has greatly contributed to the politic manner of ly rich, and to this day has greatly contributed to the politic manner of their exterior conduct. They learned that however in private they might safely sneer at the mass of the people as created for their manipulation and enrichment, they must not declare so publicly. Far wiser is it, they have come to understand, to confine spoilation to action, while in outward speech affirming the most mellifluous and touching professions of solicitude for public interests.

Adds $100,000,000 in Seven Years.

Adds $100,000,000 in Seven Years.

But William H. Vanderbilt was little affected by this outburst of public tage. He could well afford to smile cynically at it, so long as no definite move was taken to interfere with his privileges, power and possessions. Since his father's death he had added fully $100,000,000 to his wealth, all within a short period. It had taken Commodore Vanderbilt more than thirty years to establish the fortune he left of $105,000,000. With a greater population and greater resources to He Expands in Splender.

It was at this time that he, in accord with the chrysalls tendency manifested by most other millionaires, discarded his long-followed sombre method of life and invested himself with a gaudy magnificence. On Fifth avenue, at Fifty-first and Fifty-second agreets, he built a spacieus brownstene mansion. In reality it was a union of two manisons, the southern part he planned for himself, the northern part for his two daughters. For a year and a half more than 606 artisans were employed on the interior; 60 stoneworkers were importing the contract of the contract o

...... HUMANITY'S LITTLENESS.

It seems to me that these modern discoveries as to the periodic decay and re-birth of cosmic bodies, which we owe to the most recent advanc with the law of substance, are especially important in giving us a clear process of evolution.

In their light our earth shrinks into the slender proportions of a "mote in the sunbeam," of which unnumbered

"Good luck rings! Only five cents each. Buy one and have good luck all the year."

Poor wretch! His greatest good luck would be to sell a dozen rounds of luck at a nickel apiece in the course of the morning. And he might be my brother or your son, my sister, with a man's good strength and a mau's ability to give in useful and happy service were he given the opportunity.

Oh, women, how long will you suffer these things to be? You can end them when you will, for when you rise the whole world will rise and speedily demoish a system where men and women pray in vain for honest work and cannot get it.

mined will not be so cared for. "Children of the Nation" is a noble title if aplied to all the carthquake sufferers, but if the little ones known to be of the working class, hereft of father and mother, are to be mere charity orphans, subject to the pitiless cold care of institutions and charity rates or to a beggar's life, then I say, "Shame upon the Lalian government, which so treats its children and so divides them into classes."

TRAMPS. \

TRAMPS. I

There is much talk of solving the tramp problem, especially acute this year, by founding colonies, wherein the tramps who will work will be sifted from the tramps who wont work, and rewards and punishments dealt out accordingly. Nothing which concerns us women? Only this—that a large proportion of, us are destined to have loved children who will travel the weary path of trampdom and know the disintegration of character which aftereds the change from a tramp who will work but can't get it, into one who wont work. May we do hefte we know that agony and may our sons die, too, for there is no escape under the present system where workers underbid each other in the labor market and men are cheap. This from a story by Numquam, hits, the point:

"No, marm," said the tramp in the same grave, steady way; "not thet; but maybe fur future you'll be kinder, an' not think as them as aren't no use to nobody. Tramps is men, an' does men's work. Poughkeepsie's letter suggests at once the question of motherhood pensions; that is, provision by the Government for the care of mothers of or some time before and after confinement. It is a question that should be freely discussed in the Woman's Department of The Call. That and old age pensions should receive the earnest attention of all earthquake orphans whose social position cannot be established will be measures are cures for the misery of the working class, but because they are measures which will in some deliging class life and vitality and help us making ends meet must lack ideas. In the ideas, in the point:

Soak one heaping cupful of dried split peas over night, then strain, pour over them two quarts of hot water, and bring slowly to a boll. Set at the sides of the range, where they will simmer gently till soft, then rub through a colander and return with the liquid to saucepan. Bring to a boll, stir in a tablespoonful of flour rubbed into a iablespoonful of butter. Season with a few drops of onion juice and with salt and white pepper. Stir until smooth and thick, and serve with a handful of croutons, or fried bread dice, on the surface of the soup.

SOME RECIPES.

Readers of The Call are invited to contribute to this department recipes which they have personally tested. Any such recipies which are used will be credited to the person sending them in.

Split Pea Soup.

Soak 's pint of beans all night, then boil till roft, adding a small piece of fat. Soak 2 tablespoonfuls of tapioca for 's hour. Put all into a pie dish with a little parsley, thyme, salt and pepper, and add the water in which the beans were boiled. Put some bread crumbs on top, and grate a little cheese over them. Bake till it is nicely browned.—Ruth Mills.

Creamed Onlons.

Cook one quart of uniform rized, silver skinned onions in bolling salted water. When quite tender drain and turn into a baking dish; cover with a cream sauce, sprinkle the top with fine buttered cracker crumbs, and finish cooking; brown crumbs delicately.

Cream Sauce.

Melt four tablespoons of butter in a saucepan. When melted and bub-bling add three tablespoons flour. tenspoon salt, and 's tenspoon pepper Stir to a smooth paste and add slowl cream, stirring constantly. Beat until smooth and glossy. Pour over boiled

A LAPP LEGEND.

"Grymta," said Klemti, "was an old woman who lived long, long ago. She knew everything that can be learnt about spells, for her father had been a mighty magician, and she had inherited his drum. Grymta lives in the tent of her son, who had many children, and the youngest of them all was Grymata's favorite; she was never too weary to hush him when he cried, nor too feeble to carry him if he were tired.

"One day the Sickness (i.e., small-pox) broke out among the Samclats; many fell ill in the tent of Grymta's son; but all who lived recovered before the reindeer had eaten the neighborhood bare—all but Grymta's favorite. One evening her son came into the tent and said: "To-morrow we must set out again, although many of us are still weak. The snow is deep and the reindeer are growing thin for want of food. If they should die, what would happen to us? The little one must lie still for a week yet, said Grymta, 'you must wait ft him. 'That I will not do,' answere the son, and there was much talk. The end of it was that Grymta waleft behind in a tiny tent that her seput up; and he gave her a sledge, an a reindeer to draw it as zoon as she could move. So the rest went away and left her. SWISS CHILDREN'S GAME

The children in Switzerland have some most remarkable games and chief among them is stilt walking. This sport is not alone confined to the children, but is engaged in by the people of Switzerland as much as skiing is in the Scandinavian countrier. Of course, we all know what stilts are here, but it is a sport fraught with considerable danger as enjoyed by the children and grown-ups of the Swiss republic. There the stilts vary in height from six to fifteen feet and sometimes, when there are contests on for racing and jumping and vaulting, very serious accidents occur.

And then stilts are often used by people when they want to get over

And then stilts are often used by people when they want to get over wet places or when they want to travel faster than they could by walking. Generally a long pole is carried in their hands by which they balance themselves. When winter comes there is skating and almost all of the sports our boys and girls enjoy in this country. At Christmas time they have the Christmas trees, and make gifts as we do and sing carols as did the children in England many, many years ago.—The Housekeeper.

During a lice.

During a recent examination of applicants for the position of mail carrier a colored boy appeared before the civil service commission.

"How far it is from this earth to the moon?" was the first question asked him. "How fah am it from deen't to de moon?" he repeated, as he began to reach for his hat. "Say, boss, if you'se gwine to put me on dat route, I doesn't want de job," and with that he left as though he were escaping from some calamity.—Circle

THE HATTERS' STRIKE.

The organized hat manufacturers of the country have taken the aggressive against the hat workers' union. The union label has been so successful a device for strengthening the union and making it difficult for the manufacturers to exploit hat workers to the limit of human endurance, as they desire to do, that the bosses, encouraged by the anti-union decisions of the courts, have taken the bull by the horns and decided to throw out the label altogether, to deprive the purchasing public of any means to discriminate between union and scab products.

The United Hatters should have energetic support from all workingmen and all sympathizers with the labor movement in this struggle.

The first thing to do to help them is to insist more strenuously than ever on the label. If you want a hat, absolutely refuse to buy one that does not have the label of the United Hatters of America under the sweatband. If your dealer says he can't supply a hat with a label, try other dealers. If none of them will supply hats bearing the label, refuse to buy, and wear your old hat till the hatters' fight is won. It may be shabby, but it will feel better to your head than a hat whose purchase means aid and comfort to the lockout and black-

TO "REFORM" PERSIA.

The Russian government is about to submit to the British government an elaborate scheme of "reform" for Persia. It will propose "that the Shah accept the aid of British and Russian civil agents, having power similar to the European agents in Macedonia; that the Persian budget be assisted by a joint Anglo-Russian loan; that help be given the Shah to put an end to administrative anarchy, and that liberal reforms shall be introduced in Persia."

The "anarchy" referred to is, of course, the efforts of the progressive elements, which are having increasing success, to compel the Shah to keep his solemn pledges and live up to the constitution he proclaimed a couple of years ago. The sort of "reforms" that the British and Russian governments would introduce may be judged from the methods which the Czar uses in ruling his own country and the similar methods which the British government uses in ruling Britain should lend her aid to the Autocracy in such a scheme. The patterns. change of policy is explained by the news, coming at the same time, dollars, is being taken by English bankers.

GREETINGS TO THE "HARP."

It is a pleasure to congratulate the "Harp," the monthly organ year of its existence. It has deserved the success it has won by to help themselves. sticking close to the fundamental principles of Socialism, avoiding the danger of segregating the Socialists of Irish origin from their comrades of other nationalities, avoiding the twin dangers of subord- gamble about it. May its power continue to grow.

Mr. Taft's Anderson speech reminds us of Hosea Biglow's statement that President Polk undoubtedly stood upon the Constitutionin fact, he stood and trampled upon it.

The New York Aldermen are evidently more than politicians; they are real statesmen, in the same class with Senators and Congressmen. They have learned the trick of passing a popular ordinance, with every appearance of sincere enthusiasm, carefully drawn in such a form that, as soon as it is passed and signed, it proves to be confused and unenforceable.

If Mr. Roosevelt does not make a brilliant success as a muckraker, it will not be for lack of opportunity. As President, he has spent seven milion dollars in digging up material, and it is hardly to be supposed that he will forget the facts thus learned when he passes from the White House to the editorial office of the "Outlook." At a dollar a word, he may realize a "legitimate profit" on his investment of the Government's money.

THE LITTLE JOKER.

By LOUIS KOPELIN.

The courts, "the bulwarks of our liberties," have issued some "Don'ts" for our benefit. They are:

Don't boycott Bucks stoves.

Don't boycott Butterick patterns.

Don't boycott any scab product.

The courts, not being very ladylike, have sentenced the officials of the American Federation of Labor and of Typographical Union Five years ago it would have been thought impossible that No. 6 to jail for telling the truth about Bucks stoves and Butteriek

Of course, the courts are right. It would be blasphemy to breathe that one-eighth of the new Russian loan, amounting to thirty million otherwise. Or, rather, in the language of the courts and in the judgment of the courts it would be contempt of court to call the courts a "bunch of blokes."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

Editor of The Call: Before party members voteson the amendment proposed by Local Tyler, Tex., they should give it careful consideration. On examination it will be found to have some serious de-

1. It will not permit members to vote their choice, and will probably elect some whom the majority do not desire to elect.

The method of grouping the candidates under seven letters will make it possible that the seven names a member WISHES to vote will all be under one letter. The member will, practically have to vote against all but one and under other letters he will be compelled to vote for candidates h does not favor. To illustrate: Take the copy of the "unfair list." You cannot be told not to patronize tain unfair products.

But you do not want to give aid and comfort to the enemy. You want to help the workers who have manhood enough to organize help themselves.

How can you do it? Well, here comes the "little joker!"

(No, it has nothing to do with playing cards. There is the majority desire to vote for will be under one letter. As a matter of course, only one can be elected and the others will be desired. Then, again, under another letter there may be no candidate the the majority desire to vote for will be under one letter. The result would be the majority desire to vote for will be under one letter. The result would be that the majority desire to vote for will be under one letter. The result would be that the will of the majority desire to vote for yet his amendment will compel them to elect a candidate they do not desire. various letters. Not much democracy in that.

2. The amendment makes no provision that a candidate must be nominated by a certain number of locals, or locals representing a certain membership.

As igng as members will accept a nomination in order to see their names in print it will be necessared to see their names in print it will be necessared to weed out the candidates in someway. The amendment is not lacking in this respect, but even provides the individual members may nominate the individual members may nominate. The prefer ballot for the election of an executive committee contain over 200 candidates, over haif of whom have no chance of election an would be eliminated if nomination bat least two or three locals were required before a name was placed on the ballot. Even though the names are divided in seven groups this amendment will insure a long, confuing list of names under each letter. A cumbersome, complicated referendum tends to make the membership indifferent and neglectful.

Among the minor objections that could be mentioned is the lack of a clear, specific wording of the manner of "designating" under which letter a name shall appear. We woul need lawyers and constitution sharps to construct its meaning. Also, failure to vote a simple mane, will render vote in this way. Then, too, the possibility of error in committing the vote is very large. With 286 candidates would be 296 columns of figures to the column. Our secturates are usually workingmen, united that the work will be done in the musual way and be subject to all the liabilities of error that go with long columns of figures. Gertrude Buell Dunn's special articles appearing exclusively in Th Call have covered the exhibit thoroughly. None of us can longer plead ignorance on this subject. T facts have been put at our disposal. The Exhibit demonstrated three things:

time to think it over and estimate its worth.

Unquestionably it was a good thing!

First.—It showed us, as never before, THE EXTENT OF THE WHITE PLAGUE!

It showed us that more people die of the White Plague in the United States than die of the Black Plague in India. It showed that the White Plague claims a victim every three minutes. T facts exhibited proved beyond question that tuberculosis is t greatest scourge of our day.

Second .-- It showed us that TUBERCULOSIS IS PREVENT

The facts on this point are numerous and beyond question Tuberculosis is the result of very well defined causes. Lack of proper sanitation is one of these causes. Overcrowding is and Tuberculosis might be prevented just as we have stamped on Cholera and Yellow Fever.

Third.—It showed us HOW tuberculosis can be prevented! There are certain catastrophes, like earthquakes, which could not prevent, even if he absolutely understood the cause. in such things as disease, once we know the cause, it is a si matter to discover the cure. This is eminently the case with tube culosis. The Exhibit was full of displays illustrating impromethods of sanitation, which would remove the chief cause of the dread disease. There were models of scientifically planned hou which, if put into general use, would do away with the evil of own crowding. There were extensive exhibits of model sanitaria for t treatment of tuberculosis. If all those infected with the dis were placed in such hospitals many would be cured, all would relieved of much suffering, and most important of all the d of contagion would be reduced to a minimum. It is amply den strated that modern science has not only discovered the immed causes of tuberculosis, but also THE MEANS BY WHICH THOS CAUSES CAN BE REMOVED.

This much the Tuberculosis Exhibit has accomplished. And these facts are worth knowing. Great credit is due to those who have so ably put these facts before the public.

BUT-

These three points inevitably lead to another question which the Exhibit has not attempted to answer.

Tuberculosis is the greatest plague of modern society. The causes of tuberculosis are known. The means by which tuberculosis can be stamped out are known. WHY IS IT NOT DONE?

This question the Tuberculosis Exhibit has dodged.

THE CALL will answer it.

Why do people continue to live in unsanitary conditions? Poverty and greed. They are too poor to build their own homes? and unsanitary houses pay higher profits to the capitalists.

Why do people live crowded together in congested districts? Poverty and greed. Private ownership of the land mel suburban homes too expensive for the wage worker. Private ownership of street cars and railroads make the cost of transportation to and from work too great.

Why are not proper hospitals built for the victims of the Great White Plague?

Poverty and greed. The workers are too poor, and our capit alist masters have other use for the public money. And besid vouldn't pay-them. Men and women with tuberculosis can still go on working, still turn out wealth for the employers. The capitalists nay come to that high pitch of humanity where they will permit the segregation of those too sick to work. They may build hos his class. But it wouldn't pay to shut up those who can still work,

The Charity Organization Society has shown us "the causes of uberculosis." THE CALL contends that THE ONE REAL CAUSE IS POVERTY.

Tuberculosis EXISTS because of POVERTY.

Tuberculosis PERSISTS because of GREED.

THE CALL will conduct in its columns a Supplementary Tuberculosis Exhibition.

hership. The one now proposed will not do so.

'wi' not permit comrades to vote their choice, as is above explained will most probably halk the will of the majority and possibly elect comrades who, ordinarily, would not receive any considerable number of votes. This is a most striking defect in a measure that is proposed in the interest of democracy and majority rule. No other objection should be necessary to defeat the proposed ority rule. No other objection should be necessary to defeat the proposed amendment. Look it over carefully, comrades, and I think you will agree, that our party will not gain anything by adopting this amendment. Fraternally yours. OTTO PAULS. 212 S. 4th street, St. Louis, Mo.
