

RELIEF FUND ALL GONE

More Than $28,000 Contributed to Help Earthquake Sufferers.

LONDON, May 26.—Some remarkable details of the disposition of the world's charity to the Italian earthquake sufferers are furnished by the Daily Mail's Rome correspondent.

The president of the Central Relief Committee has furnished the following figures, which, however, are only approximate.

The relief sent by foreign countries was valued at $1,750,000, of which the cash subscriptions were approximately as follows:

Great Britain, $600,000; Argentina, $400,000; Germany, $400,000; France, $300,000, and the United States, $200,000.

The foregoing sums do not include provisions from abroad, huts and warship relief.

The Italian government voted $5,000,000, and imposed surtaxes equivalent to $14,000,000, the latter being distributed over a series of years to be expended in restoring public services in the earthquake area.

In addition to these amounts the Vatican received $1,200,000 from the Catholics of the world, much of which has already been distributed by the Sicilian and Calabrian clergy.

This is a total contribution of $28,020,000.

The central committee disbursed $4,450,000, and engaged very large sums for rearing orphans and other charities, which must continue for years. It has at its disposal now only $16,575.

CLEW TO BANDITS

Secret Service Men Picketing Several Suspicious Houses in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 26.—United States Secret Service men in Chicago, acting on information received from Washington that the train robbers who held up the Union Pacific Overland Limited near Omaha on Saturday night are in hiding in Chicago, are to-day picketing suspicious houses said to have been indicated in the Washington telegram. An arrest is expected soon.

The clew that leads the Washington authorities to believe the robbers came to Chicago was run down by postoffice inspectors and immediately communicated to the Postoffice Department in Chicago. Inspector Stuart and a corps of men began work on special information received from the Washington inspection department.

Captain P. D. O'Brien declared his conviction from inside knowledge in his possession that the robbers near Spokane on May 15 and near Omaha were the work of employees. Captain O'Brien added that in his opinion the two robberies were engineered by the same gang, operating with an understanding as to when and in what manner the robberies should be perpetrated.

COMPANY DEFIES MEN.

Quaker City Traction Gang Will Not Recognize Employes' Union.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—It has been learned that the Rapid Transit has no intention of meeting a delegation of its union employes.

Adopting the attitude which was maintained when the labor issue was prominent last autumn the company will reiterate its purpose to deal only with its employes as individuals.

John B. Parsons, president of the company, has not yet replied to the letter sent by the men yesterday requesting a wage increase and improved working conditions. It was intimated that there would be no response to the letter other than a formal acknowledgment to the effect that the communication would be referred to the directors at the meeting on Tuesday.

Pending receipt of a reply from the transit officials, members of the union of street car men are preparing to hold a great mass meeting to demonstrate against the company, and they will be joined by thousands of exasperated citizens.

FOREIGN NOTES

AMOY, May 26.—A disinfecting station for passenger traffic from Amoy to the Philippines has been established here under the supervision of A. D. Foster, of the United States Marine Hospital Corps. It will enable communication with Manila, which has been suspended during the quarantine period.

MANILA, May 26.—Property of various kinds having been misused from the navy yard at Cavite, a marine guard suddenly surrounded a gang of several hundred Filipino laborers as they were leaving the yard and forty of them were found to have various articles concealed about their persons. It is estimated that seventy-five managed to throw their loot away before they were captured.

LISBON, May 26.—The Portuguese Red Cross has received $1,000 from the American Red Cross, to be devoted to the relief of the sufferers from the recent earthquake in the Ribatejo district. Shocks continue intermittently in that region, two violent shocks occurring to-day, but no damage was done.

MONTREAL, May 26.—A dispatch from Quebec says that Oliver Asselin, correspondent for a Montreal French newspaper, was sentenced to fifteen days in jail for striking A. L. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works of Quebec, following a debate in the House.

FRENCH SEAMAN WALK OUT TO ENFORCE LAW

MARSEILLES, May 26.—Twenty-six additional ships have been abandoned by their crews, as a result of the strike of sailors, and the service to Algeria, Tunis and Corsica is suspended. Foreign vessels, unaffected by the strike, are now carrying important government papers.

President Fallieres yesterday signed a decree substituting government transports for the regular ships in the trade between France and Algeria. By this means many of the passengers in needy circumstances, who are put to great hardship by the strike, will be cared for.

The sailors are on strike for the enforcement of the law, which provides that all workers shall have one rest day a week.

EMERY CLAIM TO BE SETTLED AT LAST

WASHINGTON, May 26.—A protocol which provides for arbitration of the so-called Emery claim, a vexatious matter which has been pending between the United States and Nicaragua for about two years and a half, was signed last night in the home of Secretary of State Knox.

The protocol provides for a tribunal of five members, two representing the United States, two Nicaragua and the fifth to be chosen by the four representatives. If the four members representing the United States and Nicaragua are unable to agree on the fifth member the King of England will name the man.

CONY CASES TO-DAY

Four Men Will Be Arraigned in Tests of Sunday Law.

Four men prominent in the amusement business at Coney Island will be arraigned before Magistrate Tighe in Brooklyn, to-day, on warrants issued to test the Sunday laws.

The police refuse to divulge the names of the men who are to be used in making the test, which may be carried up to the Court of Appeals. It is said one is the proprietor or manager of a big amusement park, one the owner of a Japanese pool game, another the keeper of a moving-picture place and the fourth the proprietor of a hit-the-baby-and-get-a-cigar establishment.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Hanlon will represent the Mayor and the Police Commissioner at the hearing to-day. The plan pursued in issuing the warrants, it is asserted, was to have them cover several forms of Coney Island amusements.

Attendance is not restricted to members, but persons wishing places reserved for them at the dinner, should notify the secretary in advance, if possible.

SMALLEST MAN DYING

BOSTON, May 26.—Major Rodina Nutt, said to be the smallest man in the world, is to-day dying of heart failure at his home here. His height is 3 feet 10 inches, and for fifteen years he was exhibited by P. T. Barnum. He is said to be a fifth cousin by marriage of King Edward VII., his great-grandmother having been Jennie James, who was Queen of Scotland.

THINK! THINK!

COMRADES: You are NOT thinking. I repeat, you are NOT thinking, and therefore you are not acting. The thing that is holding back Socialism to-day more than anything else is the fact that you are NOT THINKING. If you were thinking or half thinking you would not be acting as you are. WAKE UP, COMRADES! In the name of Liberty and all else that is dear to you, WAKE UP! Use the brain that you have and ACT! ACT! I SAY, ACT! NOW, before it is too late! Before the voice of THE CALL is silent. ACT! Comrades and Brothers, you are NOT thinking, you CANNOT be, else you would rise as one great whole and instantly and for all time put THE CALL where it belongs financially. YOU HAVE IT IN YOUR POWER. WILL YOU EXERCISE THAT POWER BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE? ACT! ACT! You do not realize your power. You can only estimate it by thought. Therefore THINK, I say, THINK, and I KNOW you will then ACT. You will ACT AS ONE—a mighty force as ONE MAN—AS ONE MIND. For years I have cast my vote, as many of you have done, for one of the two so-called "great political parties." With you I have given them a chance to show what they would do. They have had more than a fair chance, no one can deny. The results we all know. NOW THINGS MUST BE CHANGED. BUT you must think and act or no change will ever come. I sat with a friend the other evening (one who has always believed like myself in a "square deal," but who has always thrown his vote and all his work into the parties now with the reins of government) and our conversation turned to the questions of the hour. He said to me, "The people do not realize their power." This shows you how matters stand. "The people do not realize their power." YOU are the people. YOU do NOT think. If you did you would ACT, and all the things which are yours you would receive. ACT, COMRADES, ACT! NOW IS THE TIME, AND YOUR FIRST ACT SHOULD BE TO SAVE THE CALL.

MURDER LAID TO CZAR'S SOCIETY

Duma Accuses Black Hundred of Killing Herzenstein—Begins Interpellation.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 26.—The Duma has adopted an interpellation charging Dr. Dubrovin, the president of the League of Russian People, as well as the members of the league, with organizing murders such as that of Professor M. Y. Herzenstein, a member of the Duma, who was assassinated in 1907, and with being at the same time members of the secret police.

The demand also was made that the government take steps to stop the league's criminal activity. The interpellation was referred to a commission with instructions to report on May 29.

The session was very disorderly. Professor Milukoff, leader of the Constitutional Democrats, was howled down by the members of the Right. M. Zamislavsky, the spokesman of the conservatives, tried to treat the main features of the question as a joke. The interpellation was supported by all parties except the extreme Right. A second interpellation, which alleged the ill treatment of the inmates of Russian prisons, was also presented in the Duma, and was referred to a committee for investigation.

JOIN CENTADRINK FIGHT

Thousands Are Signing Petition to Cancel Contract Made by City.

In its effort to have the permit to allow private pay drinking fountains in the public streets revoked, the Newsdealers' Association is securing thousands of names to a petition to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This petition calls on the Board of Estimate to cancel immediately the contract made between the city and the Centadrink Company, which will enable that concern to place its fountains under the elevated stairways. That public sympathy is with the newsdealers is shown by the enormous number of signatures secured.

Mayor McClellan, because of the agitation in which The Call has been a prominent factor has set Friday morning for a rehearing, although he at first declined to give any hearing on the ground that he had already signed the contract.

This is a fight by the newsdealers to prevent politicians from making a living. In the association are many cripples who would find it difficult to get any other profitable newstands if, at the expiration of their present permits, the local authorities refused to renew on the ground that the Centadrink Company had prior rights under its contract.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—As the result of an investigation of convictions in this country, in connection with the alleged "Beef Trust," the British Embassy has forwarded to the government of Great Britain a report that the operations of the trust, result in England getting an inferior quality of beef. The report was prepared by George Young, second secretary of the embassy, and a member of the Victorian Order. Alarmed by the rumor that the beef trust controlled the prices and the quality of meat products, the British government some months ago, instructed the embassy to investigate the situation thoroughly, and to report findings.

CHEAP POWDER KILLS

Government Experiments Show How Miners Are Murdered for Profit.

(National Socialist Press Bureau.) WASHINGTON, May 26. — The United States Geological Survey has just issued an official list of "permissible explosives" for the use of miners and operators. This list will be supplemented as rapidly as the explosives are tested at the experiment station at Pittsburgh. It is pointed out that at the present time many mine explosions occur because of the cheap grade of powder which is used. This is due to the fact that cheap powder gives a longer flash and flame. The list contained seven explosives which are regarded as safe, manufactured by six factories. Twenty-nine different explosives were tested at the station, submitted by twelve manufacturers. The manner of testing these explosives is best described in the words of Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, the expert in charge of the technologic branch, Geological Survey. "The explosives were given four tests under different conditions in the large steel gallery at the station," said Dr. Holmes. "This gallery is 100 feet long and 6 feet in diameter, and is filled with fire damp and air, fire damp, air and coal dust, or coal dust and air, of various mixtures, and the explosive is discharged into each mixture ten times. If it fails to ignite the fire damp or coal dust in any instance it is considered satisfactory and termed a permissible explosive. "It may be wise to point out differences between the permissible explosives as a class and the black powder now generally used. With equal quantities of each, the flame of the black powder is more than three times as long and has a duration 1,000 to more than 4,000 times that of one of the permissible explosives, and the rate of explosion is similarly slower. The length of the flame is an important consideration in the relative safety of powder. "Money spent with Call advertisers is money well invested. SOCIALIST WOMEN OF BROOKLYN BUSY

The Women's Agitation Committee of the Socialist Party of Kings County met last Saturday at the Labor Lyceum. The delegates reported that their districts had successful meetings. The 19th A. Several districts have decided to hold another meeting because of the general interest shown. Women who are interested in the social problem, and have not yet joined the Socialist party are especially invited to attend. The concerted action of the organized Socialist movement gives the opportunity for joining in with others who are doing work for the uplifting of mankind. The next meeting of the committee will be the first Saturday in June in the Labor Lyceum. Plans for outdoor work will be taken up, and full reports of the May meetings will be given.

MUST MAKE BLUFF GOOD

Should Either Jail Miss Goldman or Leave Her Alone.

(National Socialist Press Bureau.) WASHINGTON, May 26.—In an editorial regarding the recent police interference with Miss Emma Goldman's lecture in New York, the Washington Star remarks: "Unfortunately no record was kept of the woman's speech, which caused the police interference. If she is to be watched thus closely some measures should be taken to demonstrate her dangerous character so plainly that there will be no public dissent from the official action. For a long time Emma Goldman has been rated as a fire brand, and it has been frequently declared that she would be deported as undesirable, if it were possible to secure sufficient evidence, and if the laws permitted. Yet nothing has been done, either because she does not fall under the statute or because she is too shrewd to overstep the lines in her public utterances. "Just at present this woman remains in the middle ground of semi-tolerance, which is particularly dangerous. She is neither treated as a radical worthy of absolute suppression nor given the full freedom of speech. Consequently she is able to pose as a martyr, and she is undoubtedly assembling a following which may at any time give her serious trouble. If it is impossible at this time to rid the country of her presence or put her in prison for a long term, she should be let absolutely alone.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN DIES AFTER FIGHT

Efforts are being made to-day to identify a man about twenty-eight years old who collapsed and died after a fight in a saloon kept by Maurice O'Connor, at 189 Park Row. The man who struck him escaped, and the police are trying to locate him. The men, one of whom was older and bigger than the other, had been in the saloon several hours drinking when the big man hit his companion two terrific blows on the point of the jaw. The other man staggered against the bar, O'Connor says, and fell. Patrolman Gilroy, of the Oak Street station, was called. Dr. Bushman, of St. Gregory's Hospital, responded to a hurry call and pronounced the man dead. In one pocket was a postcard which bore a picture of Northport, L. I., and was addressed to "Mr. Val. Meisse, 317 Elm Street, Hoboken."

DUMA DARES DISCUSS RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

ST. PETERSBURG, May 26.—The Duma has begun the discussion of a law legalizing the sect of Old Believers. This is the first of a series of important measures designed to put into effect the principles of religious liberty enunciated in the Emperor's manifesto of May 13, 1905. The sect embraces fifteen million worshippers, the largest dissident body in Russia. The bill grants the Old Believers the free practice of their religion, but denies them the privilege of proselytizing among the members of the Orthodox Church, of preaching in public or of using the title of priest for their clergymen.

MINISTER TO PROBE FRENCH NAVAL GRAFT

PARIS, May 26.—Minister of Marine Picard has personally taken charge of the investigation into the conduct of several high naval officials who are charged with withholding damaging evidence from the department of the navy officials by a marine supply contractor. This is the second investigation of the affair, the first having been abandoned through official influence. The present commission, headed by Picard, has found a number of important documents missing and the investigation bids fair to develop into a scandal in which many will be involved.

SAYS HE IS SLAYER OF MRS. GUINNESS

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, May 26.—A young American sailor is under arrest at Frederiksted, near Christiania, as a self-confessed murderer. He told his captain that he helped Mrs. Belle Guinness kill four persons on her farm near Laporte, Ind., and that he then killed Mrs. Guinness herself. The case has been reported to H. H. D. Peirce, the American Minister to Norway.

DELAY CAR FENDERS

The receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway have received an extension of the time allowed them by the Public Service Commission in which they are to equip their cars with fenders or wheel guards of approved design. The time originally set was August 15. Now it has been made July 15 for 500 closed cars and October 15 for all cars.

FALL KILLS BOY

Morris Bloch, six years old, fell from the sixth floor of 368 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, the home of his parents, to the yard, fifty feet below, and is dead to-day. The boy was playing on the fire escape with two little friends when he lost his balance.

OWES CITY $300,000

N. Y. Central Has Unlawfully Used Twelfth Avenue for 25 Years.

Before it gets through, the New York Central Railroad is likely to find its defiance of public opinion regarding the depression of its "Death Avenue" tracks one of the costliest things it has ever done. Every day something new is being brought to light, showing its unfairness toward the city, and its trickery in delaying every plan for the betterment of the city's interests. Outside of the question of whether or not its alleged franchise is worth a dollar, it has been secretly encroaching on city land, and there are many places where the city of New York could, without a day's delay, rip up many tracks, even if the United States Supreme Court should decide that the franchise is good. One of the most startling discoveries is the fact that the railroad, for about twenty-five years, has been unlawfully using Twelfth Avenue and every city street from 60th to 72d without having paid the city one dollar of rental and without having the slightest claim. At the lowest estimate the value of these streets is about $1,000,000, and even if the city were collecting only 5 per cent for rental, it would mean $500,000 a year. Through official neglect, about nineteen years of rental never can be collected, because New York can only collect now for the past six years under the law. Even on this basis, the Central owes New York about $300,000.

HAVE NEW LEAD IN REGISTER MYSTERY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 26.—The police to-day took another lead on the Laura Register murder mystery, and are looking for a man who disappeared from Providence shortly after the murder was discovered. The police have been told that this man was an intimate friend of the dead woman, and every effort is being made to find him. The authorities have also been told by D. A. Newton that he heard a woman screaming on the night of the killing at 10:05. It is now thought this was the Register woman, and it is believed the definite fixing of the exact time of the murder may aid in solving the mystery.

8,000 COAL MINERS OUT ON STRIKE

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 26.—Eight thousand coal miners are on strike here, refusing to accept the long ton scale recently adopted by the Kanawha Coal operators. The miners asked that the check off system be adopted but this the operators refused to do. All miners in the Kanawha fields are affected by the strike and many mines are idle. The miners of the Paint Creek fields, several thousand in number, are at present working on the long ton scale and it is rumored that they may also strike this week.

CAR STRIKE NEAR IN EVANSVILLE

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 26.—The street car company is making preparations for a strike to-day and everything points to a long struggle if one is once inaugurated. The street car employees demand recognition of the union, and this has been positively refused. Watchmen armed with rifles are guarding the barns, and the police have detailed for an extra force to-day. Both union and non-union men have been employed by the company and the union now demands that the non-union men be discharged and that union men only be employed.

PRISON SENTENCE FOR TOLSTOY'S PUBLISHER

ST. PETERSBURG, May 26.—Nicola Selden has been sentenced to six months in the fortress on the charge of having published Count Leo Tolstoy's "Thou Shalt Not Kill" and other political pamphlets. Tolstoy has written to the Magistrate asking to be punished instead, declaring himself to be the one guilty of violating press regulations. He asked to be prosecuted, and urged that Selden be set free, being, as he is, but a passive offender. The Magistrate, however, refused to comply with Tolstoy's request.

TO PHOTOGRAPH SOUND

CLEVELAND, May 26.—Professor Dayton C. Miller, of the Case School of Applied Sciences here, says he has discovered a means of photographing sound. By the use of his newly perfected device he believes it will be possible to distinguish in films the difference between the tones of a human voice and the tones of a musical instrument.

AMORY'S 101 QUERIES

with you in not prosecuting Mr. Ryan, after you had expressed an opinion of his guilt?

In that same campaign you publicly declared: "If elected, I shall obey my oath of office as I understand it in letter and spirit."

Will you admit that in 1901 you asked me to furnish you with evidence of the criminal acts of Metropolitan Railway officials?

Do you recall that I furnished you with voluminous written evidence in 1902?

Do you care to state why you hired a chartered accountant named Teele to whitewash the Metropolitan Railway officials?

Will you deny that your public statement was deliberately formulated for the purpose of protecting the very criminals you had promised to prosecute?

In April, 1902, you were furnished with written evidence and the evidence of two witnesses that Daniel Mason, your own former law partner, and William H. Page, Jr., another lawyer employed by the Metropolitan Railway Company, had attempted to bribe me while a state's witness, with $200,000 to withdraw the charges against the Metropolitan Company filed with you?

Have you ever done anything about them? If you have, will you state what you have done? If not, will you state why you have not acted on information coming from such high legal source?

Will you deny that your public statement was deliberately formulated for the purpose of protecting the very criminals you had promised to prosecute?

Will you deny that your public statement contained nine material allegations which were false?

Will you deny that you were furnished with written evidence and the evidence of two witnesses that Daniel Mason, your own former law partner, and William H. Page, Jr., another lawyer employed by the Metropolitan Railway Company, had attempted to bribe me while a state's witness, with $200,000 to withdraw the charges against the Metropolitan Company filed with you?

were first elected District Attorney? In view of your statement of March 20, 1904, and in view of the published statement made by one of the grand jurors who investigated the Traction Trust in 1903, which published statement follows, will you deny that you have protected the Traction criminals, and have saved them from indictments and prosecution?

The statement of the grand jury referred to was published April 24, 1903, in a certain newspaper (The World).

If I should be called as a witness before the Jerome investigating commission and asked if the District Attorney had prosecuted the Metropolitan Railway Inquiry properly, truth would compel me to say that he did not prosecute but defamed the men involved in it.

"Altogether it was the most dastardly exhibition I ever saw in a grand jury room, and for the sake of decency and right I hope never to see its like again."

"I looked to me as if every one of the important witnesses in the Metropolitan matter, from Mr. Ryan down, had been coached in the District Attorney's office before he was brought into the Grand Jury room and his testimony rehearsed."

"If I were a crook I would at once become a railroad wrecker or looter, because I would feel absolutely safe as long as the present District Attorney remained in office."

"I do not believe that any criticism, no matter how severe, of the conduct of this investigation would be too harsh."

state why you make a difference between big crooks and little crooks? When you ran for District Attorney the second time, did you or did you not state in one of your campaign speeches that—

"If re-elected I will investigate the Ice and all other forms of trusts. Rest assured I will punish the enemy of the people?"

What trusts have you indicted? What enemies of the people have you ever punished? Will you name them all?

Did you not after election abandon all effort to indict the Ice Trust? Did not the Attorney General thereupon, on petition to the Governor, supersede you in this case and with the help of James W. Osborne indict the Ice Trust?

Do you consider the Traction Trust a friend or enemy of the people? If you answer a friend, will you state in what way it has befriended the people?

You admit it has been an enemy of the people, do you care to state why you have not fulfilled your promise to punish this enemy of the people?

Will you state whether or not you believe that the Attorney General and Mr. Osborne could as readily have indicted the Traction Trust as they did the Ice Trust, had they been appointed to supersede you?

BEGIN FIGHT AGAINST EXPRESS COMPANIES

A general attack on the system and management of the principal express companies doing business throughout the country has been started by State Senator B. E. Sundberg, of Minnesota. Senator Sundberg has lodged a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, in which he declares the American, the Adams and the United States Express Companies have formed themselves into an illegal monopoly for the control of the express business throughout the United States.

The Senator asks the commission to fix a schedule of prices for the express business which will bear a fair relation to the cost of transportation.

MAGISTRATE WANTS CHINESE POLICE

Magistrate Breen in the Tombs Court suggests to-day that Commissioner Bingham might be able to keep the lid on Chinatown better if he would put a few Chinese policemen on the force.

The Magistrate was moved to offer the suggestion to Bingham after he discharged ninety-six Chinamen caught in a raid on a gambling house in Mott street yesterday. Captain Galvin, of the Elizabeth street police station led the raid, but neither he nor his men had evidence sufficient to sustain the charge of being common gamblers made against the prisoners.

On March 13, 1903, an affidavit was filed with you by me, charging four certain Metropolitan Railway officials specifically with perjury in falsely swearing to reports of accident cases and expenditures therefor. The newspapers of March 14 published the affidavits in full, with a letter accompanying it, accusing you of bad faith and neglect of duty.

Why did you not act on the information and punish the guilty persons? Why did you totally ignore the information? I asked you at that time what you intended to do about it.

Did you publicly state on March 30, 1904, before a legislative committee in Albany that— "There is not a case which goes through the hands of the District Attorney, at least in New York, that cannot be thrown in such a way as to insure an acquittal without his complicity ever being known, at least while grand juries remain what they are?"

GIANTS WIN CLASSY GAME

Raymond Shows Great Form—Herzog Scores Winning Run.

The McGraws yesterday took a game from the Rajahs. Those two lively bats, Buck Herzog and Red Murray, set a run for the Giants in the opening chapter. Then Bugs Raymond got to his work, aided by the fine defense of the Giants. The show wound up with the outwitting of Roger Bresnahan by his old boss, Johnny McGraw. McGraw made a change in his lineup that virtually won the game. He benched Harry McCormick and put Herzog in left field. The Baltimore slugger speeded got the Giants their one run. With Tenney down Doyle drew a walk. He was forced out at second by Herzog, but Buck was too fast to be doubled up. Murray then faced the ball in the left field alley for two bases. Herzog burned up the base paths for the plate and slid over the rubber as Herzog took Ellis's throw. It was a clever shove.

JEFF WILL FIGHT JOHNSON IN U. S.

CHICAGO, May 26.—James J. Jeffries has received a letter from Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter, who is in England, asking him to refrain from closing a match with Jack Johnson for the world's championship without first giving him an opportunity to bid for the fight. Jeffries expressed the opinion that McIntosh wanted them to fight in Australia or England. When Jeffries signs articles to fight, the negro, he figures he can make just as much money battling in America as he can in a foreign clime and asserts that the battle must take place in this country. Jeffries continues his strenuous training every morning.

WOMEN CHAMPS BOWL IN TOURNNEY

The Jamaica Bowling Club of Jamaica, Long Island, took the lead in the five-man competition in the national bowling tournament at Madison Square Garden last night, with a total of 2,695. It is the two men Bergstrom and Thomas forged to the front, with 1,341, while A. Lawson took his place at the top in the individual tourney, with a total of 631. The appearance of the women on the alleys drew quite a few spectators, and some good scores were recorded. Miss Littlefield made the highest, with 519 for three games. Next to her came Mrs. Fahrman, with 428. The remainder of the scores in this fixture were creditable.

OLYMPIAD FOR SWEDEN

BERLIN, May 26.—The question of holding the Olympic games here in 1928 has been settled in the negative, there being practically no chance of completing the stadium in time. It will therefore be proposed at the conference of the Olympic committee tomorrow to hold the next games at Stockholm. The delay in finishing the stadium here is attributed to the indifference of the big German cities, which are all devoting their interest and subscriptions to building a relief stations.

KLINE STOPS LAUREL IN FIRST.

Patsy Kline, of Newark, N. J., knocked out Joe Laurel in the first round of their scheduled ten-round bout at Bill Brown's gymnasium last night. A great crowd of members were on hand to see the contest, which was short and full of action. The men had been fighting only one minute and forty-five seconds when Kline swung a hefty right hook to his opponent's jaw, dropping Laurel to the floor. Joe was carried to his corner. There were several good preliminaries.

YANKES OUT OF TOURNNEY.

EDINBURGH, May 26.—T. G. Stevenson, of Boston, the only American left in the amateur golf championship contest after the defeat of Jerome D. Travers at the hands of W. A. Henderson, was eliminated yesterday. He drew a bye in the first round, but made his first appearance in the second round, when he was defeated by J. B. Pease by 3 up and 2 to play.

MARSHALL DRAWS WITH CUBAN.

Frank J. Marshall and Jose R. Capablanca, the Cuban champion, played to a draw in the seventeenth game of their match of eight games up at the Brooklyn Chess Club yesterday. The draw came after forty-five moves. The score to date stands seven to one in favor of Capablanca, with nine games drawn. The next game will be played this afternoon.

BUCKLEY FINED.

Jim Buckley, manager of the Sharkey A. C., was convicted yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions of participating in a prizefight and was fined $25. Buckley was arrested in the Sharkey A. C. on the night of November 20, 1917. It was said he was the referee in a prizefight.

KING WANTS A SCRAP

Al King is back from up-state where he fought a draw with Harry Cutch, the boy who recently put Benny Yanger away. King had the disadvantage in weight, but the boys fought six rattling rounds. King has a ten-round draw with George Epp to his credit and is now on the lookout for a match with some boy where he will not have to give up ten to thirty pounds as he is in the habit of doing.

Thibault's entry now brings the field up to seven, namely: St. Yves, Hayes, Svaberg, Longboat, Simpson, Appleby and Thibault.

SHEPPARD AND STEIN DRAW.

CUBS SQUEEZE AHEAD

Defeat Brooklyn by One Run—Lumley in Game, Makes Three Hits.

Once more the Brooklyn yesterday chased the Chicago Cubs for seven innings and caught them. Then the champions batted in a run in the eighth and got the victory once more by 4 runs to 3.

Hofman saved the game for the Cubs in the seventh. The Brooklyn had scored three runs and had two men on the bases when Pfeister was taken out and Overall relieved him. Alperman laced out a low liner to center. Hofman made a remarkable catch and doubled up Burch at second. Besides, Hofman's batting figured in two of the Cubs' runs.

Harry Lumley returned to the game after a long absence and made three hits in as many times at bat.

WELSH DEFEATS BROCK

BOSTON, May 26.—Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, outpointed Phil Brock, of Cleveland, in a twelve-round contest at the Armory A. A. last night. Welsh showed surprising cleverness and ringcraft, but that he lacks a finishing punch was made clear when he failed to stop Brock, who was in a bad way in the second round. In this session Brock, in trying for a right hand swing for the jaw, overreached himself and before he could recover his balance Welsh scored a terrific right header full to the jaw, following it with a left hook to the chin that dropped the Cleveland boy.

"THE GAME OF LOVE." "The Game of Love," now given at Wallack's Theater, is a three-act play described as a comedy-drama, by an Italian author named Federico Mariani. The play deals with a man who, because he was disappointed in love, jilted by a woman who left him for a richer man, becomes reckless in his behavior with females and avenges himself by seducing every woman that comes in his way.

Alfred Britton, an artist, had been rejected by the woman who, when the play opens, is Mrs. Richard Holmes, the wife of his friend. She, too, is not very happy, because her marriage, we are told, was not prompted by love, but was merely one of convenience. Mrs. Holmes has a little sister-in-law, and to make the trio complete there is a certain Mrs. Watson, the wife of a man who is on very friendly terms with the husband of Mrs. Holmes.

It is to these three women that the artist makes love and on whom he tries his seductive powers with the skill of an experienced libertine. When his game reaches the stage when Mrs. Holmes, his former love, actually promises to visit him in his studio, Watson, both for the grudge he bears him and for the honor of his friend, sends a bullet into the back of the irresistible Britton.

Britton lies in the hospital for five weeks, being attended all the while by Mrs. Watson, who had turned nurse. When he comes in the last act to "explain" he surprises all by announcing that he is married, fallen a victim, as it were, to the nurse.

It is to be regretted that the game of love as conceived by Federico Mariani is not played in a more interesting manner. Ever since Eve coquettishly offered, and Adam foolishly consented to bite into, the enticing apple the game of love has been played by various types in various ways. But the manner that appeals to the audience, and the only game worthy of treatment, is the one played in sincere emotions, and in compliance with psychological laws.

The author has probably meant to show that the man's corrupt attitude toward the fair sex was the unfortunate result of a bitter disappointment.

OUR DAILY POEM

LOVE'S CURE. By Thomas Lovell Beddoes.

If thou wilt ease thine heart Of love and all its smart, Then sleep, dear, sleep; And not a sorrow Hang any tear on your eyelashes; Lie still and deep, Sad soul, until the sea-wave washes The rim of the sun to-morrow, In eastern sky.

But wilt thou cure thine heart Of love and all its smart, Then die, dear, die; Tis deeper, sweeter, Than on a rose-bush to lie dream- ing With folded eye; And then alone, amid the beaming Of love's stars, thou'lt meet her In eastern sky.

THE CAUSE OF HARD TIMES.

The working class of the United States cannot expect any remedy for its wrongs from the present ruling class or from the dominant parties. So long as a small number of individuals are permitted to control the sources of the nation's wealth for their private profit in competition with each other and for the exploitation of their fellow men, industrial depressions are bound to occur at certain intervals.—From the Socialist Platform.

THE GEORGIA FIREMEN'S STRIKE.

The present strike on the Georgia Railroad is a pitiful example of the evil effect of race prejudice on the labor movement.

The railroad company undertook to put on negroes along with white men as firemen on its road. The white firemen objected and at last went out on strike.

Public opinion along the line—that is, white public opinion, for no other sort is recognized down there—is strongly on the side of the strikers. This is unusual in the South. Labor organizations are not looked on with favor in that region. Many a union organizer has had to leave town in a hurry to avoid getting a coat of tar and feathers at the hands of the "best citizens." Bourbon conservatism can stand for cold-blooded feud murders and can applaud an occasional burning at the stake. But it draws the line at labor strikes. Those are crimes it will not tolerate.

That is, it will not tolerate a strike of laborers against capitalists. But a strike of white laborers against black laborers is a different thing. Bourbon conservatism can swallow the indignity of a body of workmen going on strike in consideration of the fact that they are actuated by race hatred, which is a sacred institution in the eyes of the rulers of the South and of those who take their opinions from the ruling class.

Probably the strikers have better reason for objecting to the introduction of negroes than they care to tell. It is safe to say that the company is not putting in colored firemen just out of devotion to the principle of racial equality. Corporations do not do business that way.

The railroad company would like to reduce wages. It would like to render its employes helpless and docile. It wants to introduce negroes side by side with white men, first as firemen, later as engineers, because it knows that the negroes are likely to accept lower pay, are likely to remain unorganized for a time, and are pretty sure to hate the white workers as much as the white workers hate them.

If for any break in a force of colored men and make competent firemen workers of them, the company figures that it will be safe from labor troubles for a good time to come. It can play off blacks against whites and whites against blacks and individual against individual, and have no effective opposition to its will.

The strikers may keep negroes out of the firemen's trade for a while, thanks to the sympathy of the nigger-hating populace.

But they cannot win permanently along that line. They have got to learn to bring the colored workers into their organizations, just as they have already learned to bring immigrant whites into their organizations, and treat them as equals in the labor movement.

They may and should follow their own choice in the matter of social intercourse. That has nothing to do with the question. But in industrial affairs, their only choice will be either to have their organizations smashed by the competition of negro labor mobilized against them by the capitalists or else to give them the hand of brotherhood and enlist them in the fight for labor against capital.

WHAT IS BINGHAM'S LATEST "LAY"?

It is a trick well known in the criminal world, when a theft is to be pulled off in a crowded place, to raise the cry of "Stop thief!" and set the throng upon some innocent man, in order that the real thieves may carry on their operations under cover of the excitement without danger of detection.

The police know that trick as well as do the thieves whom they alternately harry and protect. Whether the police learned it from the thieves or the thieves learned it from the police, it would take too much study to determine.

Whenever an especially vigorous cry is raised by the guardians of law and order against Emma Goldman and her friends, we know that the police authorities either wish to distract public attention from some scandalous conduct of theirs in the recent past or else that they have some new and particularly dirty deal to perpetrate.

The conduct of the police during the past few weeks may be enough to explain their present activity. The murder of Louis Prober, the outrages committed under Bingham's supervision against the striking bakers and the striking teamsters, and various other abuses of police power, together with the complete failure of the force to prevent burglaries, holdups and other common crimes, have roused indignation which Mulberry Street may well wish to pacify.

Still, we have our suspicions that there is more to come—that the new spasm of anarchist-baiting is not intended only to bring forgetfulness of past abuses, but that it is meant as a preparation for the springing of some new scheme or to forestall some new exposure that the department fears.

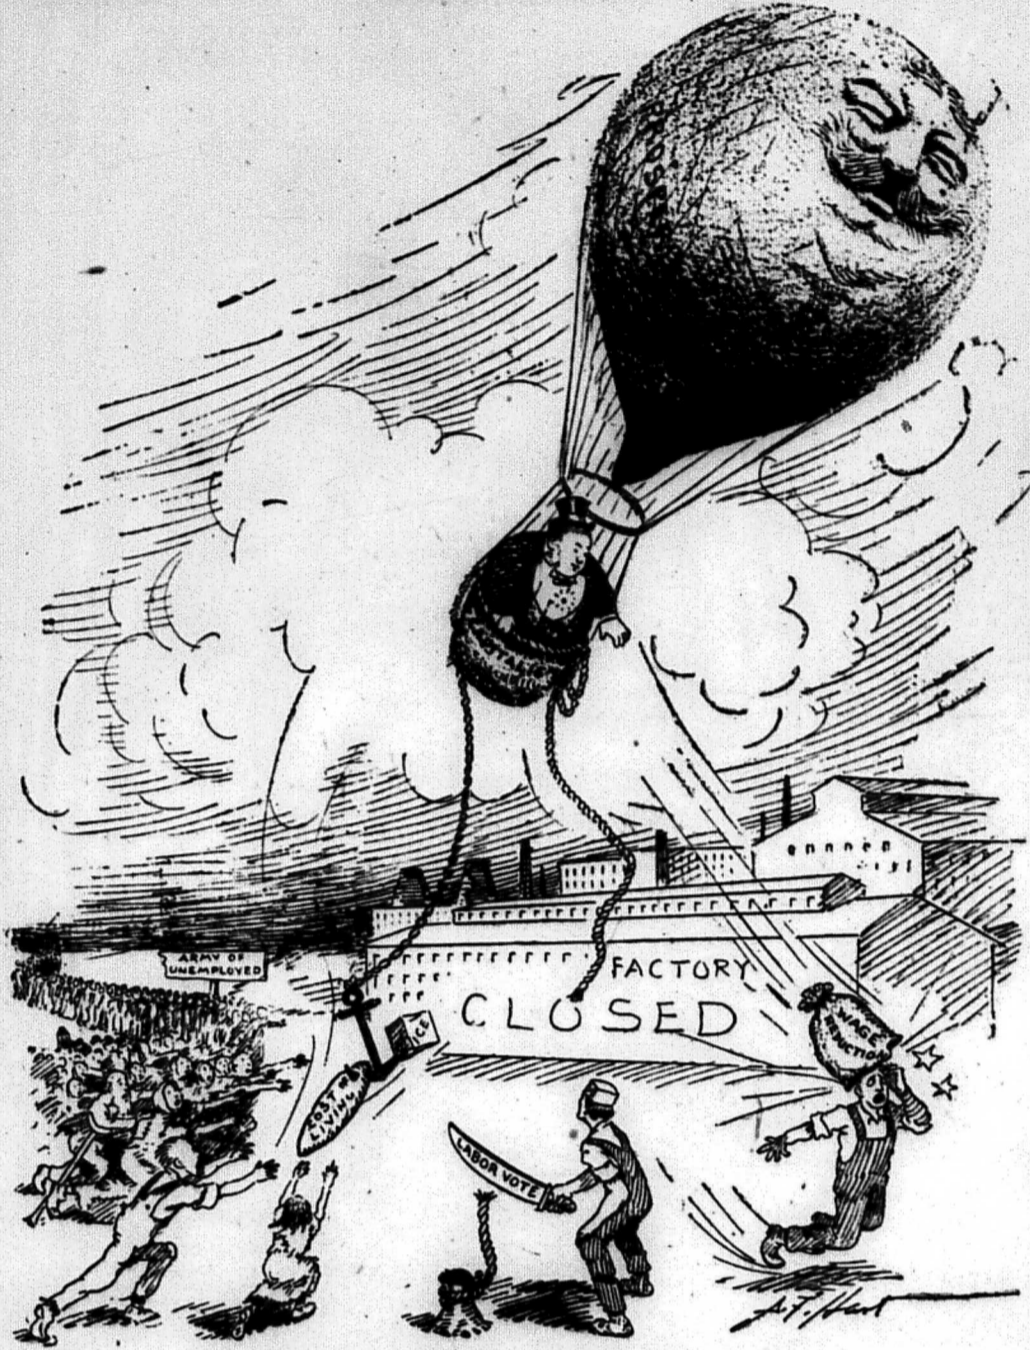

Is it that still more drastic measures are contemplated to be used against striking and locked-out workmen?

Is it that the Commissioner and his underlings apprehend another exposure of the big system of collusion by which they protect and tax the white slave traffic and incidentally levy blackmail on the rich debauchees for whose gratification it is carried on?

Or is it just that Bingham is getting tired of waiting for that double salary that he has been hankering after so long, and thinks an exhibition of his vigilance in suppressing Anarchist meetings will make the powers that be come down with the cash?

Time will tell whether it is one or the other of these motives, or all of them combined.

Meanwhile, there is no excuse for anyone who is not very stupid or else willfully blind to be misled by the hue and cry against the Anarchists. Left to themselves, the Anarchists are of small and waning importance. They count for something only when they can be used as a stage property in the presentation of some edifying and lucrative drama of police graft and capitalist knavery.

EVERYTHING GOING UP EXCEPT WAGES.

THE MAN WHO READ THE NEWSPAPERS.

By Ernest Poole.

We stopped at a bank on Fifth avenue. It was open. Yes, honored father, there is a bank in this town that keeps open day and night—in order that money may pour!

Adolphus went in. In surprise I turned to the grim chauffeur. "This is no doctor's house," I exclaimed.

"No," said he. His voice was gruff. He had not spoken a word before. "But," he added, "to get a physician as famous as this—at such an hour—a man must show his cash."

"Oh," I said. And my hands grew cold. A famous physician! What should I say, how explain the case? I heard a chuckle from the chauffeur, who seemed a prey to intense agitation.

"Wow!" he exclaimed. I frowned. "Look here," I said in peremptory tones. "What is all this? I am growing suspicious!"

"I don't know," he slowly replied. "but I think we are saving a young lady's life."

Out came Adolphus. He was, to use an American phrase, "flashing a roll of bills." A mighty roll! They crinkled crisply as he came.

"Now for the doctor," he cried, leaping in. He gave an address and we started.

Again rose a gendarme's thundering oaths. We stopped, and despite my curt explanations, in he climbed.

"I'll see," he said. "I'll see!" Three minutes later we stopped in front of a mansion on Fifth avenue. It was one of the most imposing, and at sight of the gendarme paled. Still he followed us up the steps; but when we calmly rang the bell his insolent courage forsook him, he humbly apologized, started away. I cursed him as he left!

How now? Here was I, the penniless stranger, cursing a gendarme of Irish descent, from the threshold of a palace! Imagine my perturbation. All was at stake. What should I say to this princely physician, how give my diagnosis?

The ponderous door creaked open wide. An amazed domestic stared upon us; but at sight of Adolphus the man grew stiff, bowed low and ushered us into a parlor.

Five minutes more of atrocious suspense, and then in rushed a renowned physician clad in a loose flowing wrapper of silk. His hair stood out on either side, the wrapper streamed behind.

"Adolphus!" he cried. "In heaven's name—what is wrong?" I quickly brushed Adolphus aside. In a calm, clear voice I began to explain. Calm and clear, but my soul was a furnace. I barely saw the great man's face. "Now," I concluded, "come, I beg of you, come—at once. We have been already too long away."

I looked up. The physician's face, square, powerful, middle-aged, had turned red, his jaw had dropped, his tongue lolled slowly to and fro. But before he could speak, Adolphus had coolly seized his arm, dragged him into another room, and there talked earnestly and low. The physician gave his opinion at last.

"Wow!" was all that he said. Returning to me, his face was grave. "Sir," said he, "explain the case."

I began in sheer desperation. He listened. All at once he burst into a chuckle, turned vehemently away. The insult enraged me!

"Sir," I said, "I fail to discern any cause for amusement. If in any diagnosis you find me somewhat crude—" I choked. He flushed, but put his arm of my shoulder.

"Forgive me," he said. "Proceed. I am all attention."

I proceeded. And while I talked, at a desk near at hand he was busily writing. He finished and handed the note to his friend. Adolphus read it. His eyes, which were black, now sparkled, and he seized the doctor's hand.

"My cousin and I," he cried, "will never forget this night! Thanks, thanks, a thousand times!"

Again had I been disregarded. I strode up and down; they noticed my stride.

"Here!" cried the physician, in tones so stern that I stood abashed. He held me with his harsh gray eye. "Go back at once," he commanded. "I have given my friend a note admitting you and the patient to my private hospital—" he choked—"at 7 o'clock," he added. "She must be moved at once. Understand? Her father is an old friend of mine. I have had her before. I know the case. Your diagnosis is right, quite right, so keep up your treatment as you've begun. And when you arrive at the hospital—" he suddenly turned to Adolphus. "By heavens," he cried, "I shall be there myself!"

A second torrent of thanks from Adolphus, and out we hastened into the night.

Arriving at the lady's house, we announced the hospital plan. She was a furnace. I barely saw the great man's face. "Never!" she sobbed. "Never!" But I was firm. The doctor's approval had filled my soul with a glad relief. I had quaffed again that tingling wine. I sternly led her back to bed, and there I continued my treatment—no dangerous drugs, only a soothing salt massage.

In the meantime two huge trunks had been packed. And now I could hear Adolphus, his friend and the strange chauffeur taking both trunks out down the stairs.

"Easy!" I heard in agonized whispers. "Easy! Make no noise!" At last Adolphus came in. "We will return in one hour," he said. "Have your patient ready then. There will be no moment to lose."

I was left alone with Louise and her friend. How can I describe the moments that followed, the tumult raging in my breast, relief, mad hopes for future fame, anxiety, suspense. I proceeded with my treatment. Each time that the lady implored me to stop I solemnly bade her be silent, and calmly I worked on.

I heard a ring at the telephone. A maid came running in, her face the color of ashes. I hurried out, snatched up the receiver.

"Hello!" I cried. The reply was a roar, which left my ear as limp as a rag. It came from her father, the Brute, the Bull, who was far out of town at his great estate. There had been not a spark of a fire! He scented a plot, and in shattering tones he swore he would have me arrested. I strove to be firm. I prescribed a narcotic—at which his violence leaped all bounds. I dropped the receiver and fled.

I confess that I was perturbed. But one glance at the beautiful lady Louise and her friend, their faces white with fear, their twitching lips dilated eyes—brought me to my senses. You know I am no coward. It was my privilege to calm them, cheer them, bear them up. Heaven bless that quaint carafe!

"But," sobbed my patient, "his telephone! He will awaken his friends, detectives, gendarmes—all will come!" And again she fainted away. "Thank God!" I whispered, and sat down.

MR. DRUG CLERK, YOUR PAST.

By GEORGE D. Y. WOLF.

Fellow Drug Clerk, there was a time (and that is still a fact in some less developed countries) when you considered yourself and were looked upon by others as a man of profession. You entered the drug store with the intention to learn.

Your laboratory was your college. Chemistry, botany, physiology, therapeutics and pharmacy were your best companions.

You liked your profession and were happy over any improvement that you could make in it. Your employer was your teacher and you were his student. Hours of labor and wages never disturbed your mind. Your employer took a fatherly interest in you, and you reciprocated his regard.

You ate at one table, spent the free time in pleasant conversation, and were a welcome companion in his family.

Your employer always considered you his equal and looked upon you as a future employer. And so days and years rolled away quietly and happily until you in turn became a proprietor. But those times are long gone and almost forgotten. To-morrow we shall speak of how things have changed.

THE PARIS COMMUNE.

By ARTHUR BULLARD.

CHAPTER IX.—BLOODY WEEK.

There were no means too base for these "defenders of law and order." After the capture of Montmartre they kept the Red Flag up to deceive the Federals. This more than anything else disheartened the insurgents. For how could they doubt treason when shells fell in their midst from fortifications over which waved their own flag. When the regular army captured a telegraph station they immediately sent misleading, confusing telegrams to the Federal headquarters.

The news of the wholesale massacres, the apparent treason of Montmartre, the death of Dombrowski, all rendered the Federals more hopeless, more desperate. The fire which had been started in the Ministry of Finance was repeated in other quarters. Some were burned as a military necessity by each side. Many were caused accidentally by bursting shells. Some were the work of private spite. Some were undoubtedly the work of desperate, despairing Federals. There is no conclusive evidence that any wanton destruction was ordered by responsible officers of the Commune. These are the words of a Communard, written a few months later:

"The Athenians abandoned their city to fire and pillage to escape the yoke of the Persians; William, the Silent, delivered Netherland to the ocean rather than have it polluted by the feet of foreigners; Moscow, in a sublime holocaust, offered itself a sacrifice for all Russia! If in the month of January the Prussians had entered Paris by assault and the Parisians had burned their city, the entire world would have chanted their heroism, and with reason, for there is nothing more noble than a grand passion at the service of a grand idea. But what! This people, heroes before the Prussians, ought then to be called assassins, criminals, miserable ones, because they died for the universal republic, because in defending their religion, their conscience, their dreams, they prepared, in a wild enthusiasm, to bury themselves in the ruins of Paris rather than abandon it to despots a thousand times more cruel than foreigners." But the wild passions stirred by the horror of the butchery did not stop at setting a few public buildings on fire. Here is the story of the hostages by the officer who ordered the first execution. It is not a justification, but an explanation, of that pitiful affair.

"Since yesterday we received each instant news of the summary executions by the regular army. Many Federal units of different battalions have rallied here since the fall of their districts. We knew that a general massacre had been ordered and that neither women or children would escape. This evening (May 24) the exasperation became terrible. Knowing that the hostages were in the prison, many times the Federals went there threatening to shoot all of them. (There were several hundred.) "I went to the prison at 7:30. Before the gate I said to the Federals: 'Six hostages are to be executed; who will form the squad?' "A great number presented themselves. One advanced and said with a terrible gesture: 'I revenge my brother!' Another: 'I revenge my brother!' A third said: 'They have butchered my wife!' Each put forward his claim to vengeance. I chose thirty men and entered."

The six who were so executed included Darbois, the Archbishop of Paris, and Bonjean, the presiding judge of the Supreme Court. Other executions followed. They were all spontaneous, irrepensible acts of popular vengeance. No one execution was authorized by the Commune. From March 18 to May 28, all told, sixty-six executions were made by Federals. All but the two on March 18 took place after the army of Thiers had entered the city and begun its butchery by wholesale.

These murders of unarmed hostages, bad as they were, sink into insignificance before the atrocities of the regular army. Here is a typical incident taken from thousands of such accounts by eye witnesses.

"A horrible episode took place on the Rue Turbigo. A woman threw herself between her husband and the soldiers who pursued him, raising in her hands her three-months-old baby. Twenty bayonets nailed the body to its mother's breast. The husband, mad with rage, threw himself on the soldiers and wounded two of them before he was disabled by the butts of their rifles. His body was literally torn to pieces."

The hostages were men and allies of these fiends. On this day Dombrowski was buried in the cemetery of Reve Lachaire. Some of those who followed the body were killed by the shells which rained on the cemetery. In the morning Raoul Rigault was caught and executed. He died bravely to the cry "Vive la Commune." The same day Verneuil and Desclaux met their death in the barricades. Shortly before going out to die, Desclaux wrote these words to his sister: "Pardon me for going before you, who have sacrificed so much of your life for me. But I do not feel the courage to endure a new defeat, after so many others. I kiss you a thousand times. Your memory will be the last in my thought before going to rest." Then he walked out of headquarters, tottering along, for he was old and sick, to the barricade. Laboriously he climbed over and walked toward the machine guns of the tyrants he had fought so long toward the "rest" he needed—and had earned.

But it is wrong to give so much space to the heroism of these men whose names we know. There was nothing remarkable in it that week. For death was met with equal courage at every street corner by men and women and children whose names we do not know. The lucky ones died fighting. The others lined up against a wall, shouting out defiance to their victors, devotion to their dream, were killed by fusillade. Twenty thousand at the lowest figure died that week on the barricades or by execution; 3,000 in one batch—prisoners taken in the night of Pere Lachaise—were dispatched by machine guns. It would have taken too long to kill them in the orthodox fashion.

Twenty thousand killed! And 60,000 prisoners taken to the bull pens at Versailles! The souls of the hostages should rest in peace—they were amply revenged.

An Englishman, a correspondent of one of the London papers, who was in Paris during the bloody days, found the heroism with which the Federals met their fate even more surprising than the barbarity of the victors.

Both are hard to understand, but one story of the Englishman throws some light on the latter. He saw an old bent man, a laborer who did not know how to read, being led off to execution. The correspondent asked him what he had been fighting for. "The old man looked at me with burning eyes," he wrote. "It is always the same cause," he replied. "I fought in 1830 and '48, and now I am to die. It is the same cause, the solidarity of the human race." The English correspondent makes some witticism about the improbability of this unlettered man knowing what so long a word as "solidarity" meant. But we, who dream the same dream, will not laugh. Napoleon III. had tried to crush the dream in his prison—and failed. There is no dream in blood. He also failed. The dream still lives—all the stronger for its martyrs.

President Taft will hereafter distribute the offices down South regardless of party affiliations. If this does not break the Solid South, then nothing will, except Socialism.

Rev. Dr. Collyer, in his eulogy of H. H. Rogers, said: "He was one of the dearest men I ever met." Many others can say amen to that, eh, Tom Lawson?

The Lake Mohonk Peace Conference has honked, and Dr. Smiley, the host, has had his annual ad., and now the Powers will go on arming to the teeth until Socialism cries, Halt!

Eve, we are told, was made for Adam's express company, but the United States Express Company was made for the Platt family—at least they think so. If some of the other stockholders are to be believed.

The general staff wants 135,000 men in the regular army. What for? A bigger army means more jobs, and, besides this, there is the glory of Socialism which haunts the honest millionaires in their dreams.

During the cold snap last week the steam was turned on for the animals at the zoo, but not for many of the human dwellers, in apartments and flats. Will animals cost money if they get pneumonia?

Dr. Parkhurst thinks it is almost instinctive with us to live beyond our physical means and thus to be in a bodily condition of "overdrawn account." It is not so much instinctive with us, Doctor, as it is instinctive with the masters to wreck our health for their benefit. Hence the workers' demand for an eight hour law.

The June Cosmopolitan shows how plutocratic college professors are, declaring that our form of government is all a mistake and that "the masses should have no voice in the government." Oh, that they could devise some way once more to place an actual Caesar over us! The trusts do very well to trample on our liberties, but a single absolute head would be better and could put his foot down on this Socialistic movement, like a Chair of Russia, on Russian revolutions. The enfranchised proletariat is like the genii in the Arabian Nights, who, once escaped from the bottle, could not be put back again by the awe-struck fisherman. Just so these college professors and all others might just as well imitate Mrs. Partington in trying to sweep the ocean back with a broom as to stop the high leaping waves of Socialism. Real human freedom is coming with the abolition of wage slavery.
