As a result of visits to Police Head quarters in New York and Newark the Attorney Says Jury's Graluitous Free Speech Committee has made remarkable progress in its efforts to establish liberty of utterance, and there is little prospect of any police interference at Emma Goldman's meeting in Newark to-night, at 83 Magazine SBURG. The Commissioner was evidently im pressed by the number of persons who had come to the defense of the freedom of speech, for he replied that he would instruct the police captains of the city not to interfere with Miss Goldman's meetings, and would also instruct Captain Carson, of the Wes 125th street station, to notify the hall-keeper that Miss Goldman's meeting was not prohibited.

Later investigation showed that this had been done, at least so far as the Harlem Liberal Alliance meeting is oncerned.

The meeting in Newark to-night was at first prohibited by Captain Christy, of the Third Precinct, where upon Leonard Abbott, for the Free Speech Committee, wrote to Mayor Houseling in protest. The Mayor re-plied, in a courteous letter, that he had instructed the police not to interfere.

Yesterday Ben Reitman, Miss Gold manager, visited Newark and that the hallkeeper, Charles Pfeiffer, had already cut off the lights in his assembly room and expected to refuse the hall which he had let. Dr. Reitman then took the hallkeeper to the police captain and asked that the police captain and asked that official to assure him that the meeting would not be interferred with Captain Christy refused to do this until he was told of the letter from the Mayor. He then called up the Chief of Poworse. WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 21 .--International President Thomas Lewis of the United Mine Workers, declared with ringing tones at the convention of the anthracite mine workers here to-day that the operators of the Cen tral Pennsylvania bituminous districts would not be successful in their efforts to get the mine workers to break the existing agreement and accept the proposed reduction in wages of from 11 to 16 cents a ton.

Among the resolutions introduced to day, and upon which the committee will act later, was one disapproving of the action of the Luzerne and Lackawanna County Courts in ignoring the requests made by the United Mine Workers that new miners ex-amining boards be appointed and that they contain an official of the union. If this is done it is argued that there will not be so many fraudulent mining certificates. Another resolution

Car Crashes Into Tree and Burns After Fatally Injuring Man; Occupants Disappear.

A speeding automobile struck a man or Jerome avenue, near the Yonkers city line, yesterday, hurled him a score of yards, and then pitched him aside to die. As the auto, in which were two men, sped on it suddenly swerved, crashed into a tree and overturned. The joy-riding chauffeur and his compan'on fled. The car caught fire. The dead man was James Sinn, of 211 Ashburton avenue, Yonkers. He was a motorman. His car had just reached the end of the run, and Sinn was talking to two friends when the auto struck him. The others, who narrowly escaped his fate, were Aloystus Gordon, of 159 West 173d street, Manhattan, and James Mullen. of 4171 Third avenue, Manhattan.

The auto is owned by Edward A. Kertscher, whose home is at Fort Washington road and 181st street. He is a manufacturer. Yesterday after-noon, at his office, 13 Lawrence street, he declared that he knew nothing of the accident till he was told about it over the telephone.

Police Seek Chauffeur

The police, after interviewing Kertscher, began a search for James Plunkitt, his chauffeur, who has driven the car for three years.

Chief of Detectives McGowan and Detective Mears, of Yonkers, and De-tectives McAvoy and Murther took charge of the case. They found no clew to the identity of the second man supposed to have been in the machine. According to Gordon and Mullen, who were standing with Sinn when he was struck, the car was makin record breaking speed and approache without warning.

Shea. former president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and who was in charge of the famous teamsters' strike in Chicago, was found guilty yesterday before Judge Foster, in the Court of General Sessions, of attempted mur-der. Shea was remanded to the Tombs until to-morrow, when he will e sentenced. The max mum sentence is twenty-five years.
While in Chicago Shea met Alice

Waish, waitress in a Des Plaines street restaurant, and prevailed uron her to accompany him. They lived together for five years. On May 21, 1909, the girl learned that Shea had a wife and eral children in Massachusetts, and attempted to leave him. He knocked her down and stabbed her twenty-seven times, inflicting serious wounds. The girl testified against him.

PREMIER'S FALL PLEASES FRANCE THAT WANT GOOD SERVICE

> Passing of "The Red Beast" Causes General Rejoicing--- No New Cabinet Yet.

PARIS, July 21.-All Paris was agog with excitement to-day over the downfall of the Clemenceau government and with speculation as to who would be his probable successor as Shortly before noon President Fallieres held a fifteen minute conference with Clemenceau and later received the presidents of the Senate and Chamber and Minister of Justice Briand, who is being prominently mentioned as the man most likely to be called on to head the new ministry.

Despite the popular clamor in favor of Delcasce, Clemenceau's successful enemy, it is scarcely considered likely that he will be named by President Fallieres to head the new cabinet owing to Germany's strong opposition to him and the great desire of th Kaiser. It is the general belief to-day that Cruppi, Minister of Comm Pinchon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Picard, Minister of Marine, will be called upon to accept their old portfolios in the new cabinet.

portfolios in the new capinet.

It is a question which is the greater, the surprise at the suddenness of Clemenceau's downfall, or the joy at his retirement. Catholics.
Labor Unionists Socialists, Bonapartof a letter which an employer of garment workers has received from this notorious strikebreaking agency. Here ists, Anarchists and Moderates alike, hated Clemenceau for individual grievances and feared him in common "We are interested to know if we because of his remarkable success in the adoption of American boss rule tactics. Those who rejoice at the downfall of the government are making their satisfaction very evident. The General Confederation of Labor and postal employes are very much elated. The offices of l'Humanite are to-night lluminated with red lanterns. Jean Jaures declares that "with Clemen ceau disappears the most dangerous man in the republic."

George Clemenceau became Pre-mier of France October 23, 1906, and during his reign (for the French Prime Minister is practically a ruler) of almost thirty-three months suc-ceeded in establishing a record which. for brutality in the repression of all demonstrations on the part of the working class and for treason to mer ideas, has never been equaled in the history of constitutional govern-Formerly the most able oppo nent of governmental excesses, when placed in power, be-r most unqualified defender, and there is no doubt that his activitles in putting down strikes and im prisoning the advocates of anti-mili-tarism has opened the eyes of the French proletariat to the futility of expecting aid from anyone who takes part in a capitalist ministry, no mat-ter how loud he may have protested his devotion to the workers.

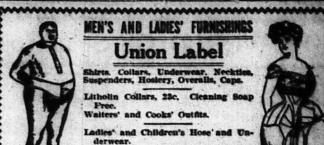

Under Clemenceau's regime the liberty of press and free speech was trampled under foot worse than in the days of the monarchies; editors and artists have been thrown into jail for daring to criticize the arbi-trary acts of the Premier and his henchmen: labor union leaders have jail for daring to criticize the arbitrary acts of the Premier and his henchmen; labor union leaders have been fined and imprisoned for directing strikes and urging the soldiers not to shoot down their brothers of the working class, and the majority of the Chamber of Deputies hav.

WHAT TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS MAY DO.

A dispatch from Washington, dated July 20, throws a new and much needed light upon the rule recently introduced by Commismer Williams at the Ellis Island immigration station, that no immigrant should be admitted who does not possess at least twenty-

According to the Washington dispatch a cry for help has come to the Department of Commerce and Labor from the farmers of the West. The outlook for this year's crop of wheat, corn and other cereals is splendid. At least 50,000 able-bodied men are badly wanted by the farmers to help them to harvest these bounteous crops. With good pay 50,000 men, or even ten times that number, could, of course, easily be secured. But the farmers are by no means anxious to pay good wages. On the contrary, they want to secure labor on the cheapest terms obtainable. In their "distress" they apply to the Department of Commerce and Labor for assistance.

The officials of that department are only too willing to help the farmers in their need. They would gladly furnish them with the cheapest labor obtainable-namely, that of recently landed immigrants, who in their helplessness would work on terms which an American workman would scorn to accept. But there's the rub. The immigrants have not the money to pay the railroads for transportation to the West, and the farmers do not wish to pay it for them.

Here is where Commissioner Williams' rule comes in handily. The immigrants will have to bring with them twenty-five dollars, and the money will be used for transporting them to the West. Thus the railroads will be making money both on the transportation of the men westward and on the transportation of the increased crops eastward. The farmers will secure the cheap labor which they need so badly. And the immigrants will be stranded in distant parts of the country where they will be speechless and friendless and compelled to work under any conditions whatsoever.

But what will the immigrants do after the harvesting season is over and the farmers no longer have any need for their services? That is a matter which does not have the slightest interest either for Commissioner Williams, who is supposed to safeguard the interests of the immigrants, or for the officials of the Department of Commerce and Labor, who evidently look upon themselves as officials hired by commerce to help it in the exploitation of labor, and of course not for the farmers.

HEARST'S CRY OF DESPAIR.

Yesterday's Evening Journal contained an editorial on the strike situation in the Pittsburg district.

The writer of the editorial was not very well informed as to details. He mixed up the strike of the Amalgamated against the open shop declaration of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, a subsidiary of the Steel Trust, with the strike of the unorganized workmen at McKees Rocks against the Pressed Steel Car Company. But this is a matter which we need not dwell upon. But the editorial brings up another matter which is worth dwelling upon.

The writer points out certain notorious facts: That the stock of the Steel Trust was originally pure water, representing no value whatsoever; that the price of the stock is continually rising, due to the accumulated profits which have been ground out of labor and which are converting the water into solid value; that the Trust is determined to break up all unions among its workmen; that the strikers are to be evicted from the houses built with money taken out of their earnings; that since the organization of the Civic Federation and the establishment of friendly relations between the big labor leaders and the big capitalists, no strike of any importance has been won in the United States, etc.

And what conclusion does Hearst's editorial writer draw from these facts? This is his conclusion:

It's hardly worth while to talk about unions and union men-union wages, when the union leaders sit down at table with go traveling abroad with his money in their pockets "to investigate municipal owner ship." If you please, when union workingmen quit the unions to save dues, and when they vote by an overwhelming majority for government by the trusts.

In plain English and avoiding polite circumlocution, this means that Hearst's man is simply disgusted.

What is the use of talking about unions and union men and union wages if you cannot thereby get them to jump from the frying pan into the fire, if you cannot fool them into deserting one capitalist camp and joining another, if you cannot seduce them into boosting Hearst and his lieutenants into public office?

What, indeed, is the use?

Hearst's man pronounces the Hearst policy a failure. This is a matter for congratulation.

That Clemenceau, who had overthrown so many cabinets, should himself be overthrown, by a novice at that game, was eminently fit and proper. From the point of view of the labor movement Clemenceau is by far the more dangerous opponent. He is the man who posed as a friend of labor as long as he was out of office, and who gave labor nothing but prisons and cold steel as soon as he was in office. Delcasse, on the other hand, has never played the demagogue. Moreover, judged by capitalist standards, Delcasse is incomparably the abler statesman. It was he that initiated the great series of agreements with England, Italy and Spain, which have contributed so much toward strengthening the position of France in and out of Europe. He has also laid bare the inefficiency and corruption which prevail in the French navy and for which Clemenceau bears his full share of responsibility. In character as well as ability the Conservative Delcasse towers high over the Radical phrase-monger Clemen-
