This is Saturday. For many readers of The Call it is pay-day. For many others no day is pay-day. It is doubtful if the most wonmind in existence could invent a form of oppression which could cause more pain than falls to the man in the Army of the Unimployed. Men and women out of work are not afflicted by any one ill merely. They are pursued and cursed by all the ills that flesh is heir to. There is no escape. Unemployment means a body nicked by hunger and disease drawn out to the last limit of endure. It means a mind distraught to a point where madness is relief. The Jobless Man who is the head of a family suffers his own physical d mental ills, and to them has added those of all his dear ones. They suffer from deprivation, while each pang is doubled and each ain tripled and multiplied again by the sufferings and humiliations those they love. The higher and deeper and holier their love for ne another the more terrible are the woes of a family of the Unaployed. And in the United States at all times, in the best of es, there are hundreds of thousands of such families. While in se hard times!

If Capitalism bred no other ill but Unemployment; if Capitalcould cure Unemployment after producing it-still the horrors Unemployment are such that it alone would warrant the total struction of Capitalism. But Capitalism's Civilization has reached point where the Army of the Unemployed is a Standing Army. In Body Found Hanging to a Tree in erica the Permanent Army of the Unemployed will never be stered out of the service of Capitalism till Socialism is musred in.

The man who stands for Capitalism may profess sympathy the Unemployed. But, this sympathy will not show itself in the eastern suburbs. The verdict of ks for their relief. 9,000 TAILORS HAVE WON MOORS BOMBARD Bosses Signing Rapidly and Union Already Plans Celebration.

One thousand more tailors returned to work yesterday, settling with 120 All Alfonso's Warships Rushing to more contractors. This makes a total of 9,000 strikers who have returned to work under union conditions in Manhattan and Brooklyn. The Brooklyn strikers scored another victory over the bosses' association, which began breaking up the early part of settling with the union.

The Brooklyn union also decided to call out the forty workers employed by J. Polock, of 214 Johnson av-laue, and of Levy & Epstein, of 196 Siegel street in sympathy with the strikers of Levy & Shultz. The union discovered that these contractors were making the scab orders, and the forty with the union, or until these con-tractors sign an agreement that they will not handle any scab orders.

There are now about 1,000 men and women involved in the Levy & against the garrison.

Schultz strike, but the strikers are very enthusiastic and determined to stay out until they settle.

The Canal street store keepers still keep on signing agreements with the union, and it is believed that they will all have signed about the early part ot next week.

The Brotherhood of Tailors is plan ning for a great demonstration to celbrate the victory in the strike and of the building up of a strong organ-ization, and it is expected that thou-sands will turn out in line to celebrate the victory of the nine-hour day and are lacking. the abolition of the slavery of the tailornig trade.

DERAIL SAVES TRAIN

Instead of Going Into River Cars Crash Into Telegraph Pole.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13 .-- A tunnel train operated by electricity on the Fail River branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad struck the derail on the city side of the new lift bridge across head on into a telegraph pole that prevented the car from going over twenty-foot embankment into the river. Three persons were injured, though not seriously.

The draw of the bridge was raised to allow a tug to go through the raising of the draw opened, the derail being about 300 feet from the bridge first one hitting the pole with force enough to break it off near the bot tom. There were about a doden pas sengers in the car and all of them were shaken up but only three in jured sufficiently enough to requir

SPANISH FORCES

Gen. Marina's Aid---Revolution Flames Again.

LISBON. Aug. 13 .- According to this week, four bosses dropping out dispatches from Melilla the Moors have gained a big victory over the Spanish troops at Melilla and are now bombarding the town with cannon captured from the enemy.

The Spaniards have been driven from all of their advanced positions to the interior fortifications. General Marina is reported to have led the defenders in person and to have had men held a shop meeting at 14 Mc-fenders in person and to have had Kibbon street, where it was deceided a close call from being cut off-from to stay out until Levy & Shultz settle the command.

The losses on both sides were heavy. The attacking force of Moors was the largest that has yet been thrown

Secretary Ballinger's Man Says Helena Story Was Untrue.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 .- "Absolutely untrue and without foundation," is the denial registered today by Acting Assistant Commissioner Schwartz, of the General Land Office of the story from Helena, Montana, on August 10, that the power trust has grabbed power sites originally withdrawn from settlement by Secre-tary Garfield to prevent just such a contingency, and restored to entry again by Senator Ballinger.

What is headed "an authorized statement," was issued by Schwartz today, as Acting Assistant Commis-sioner and Chief of the Field Ser-The statement reads in part as follows:

"The Acting Assistant Commission-er says that the telegram printed under Helena, Mont., date line, August 10, is untrue.

This telegram stated that on June 11, in the Bozeman land office. Jere-miah Collins filed upon 15,868 acres of land valuable for power sites, and in the interests of large paper companies.

"The acting commissioner says that at no time since the administration of Secretary Ballinger have any power sites been filed upon in Mon-tana; that neither Collins nor the Col-Land Company has made any such filings at Bozeman or elsewhere that the only filing made at n June 11 was made by Presiden of the Riverdale Land and Live Stock Company, and was an ap lication to amend an original tion made in 1898, agregating a tota area of 158 and 6,800 acres."

FIGHT BIG FIRE

Hustle Buckets at Conflagration That Threatens Town.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 13 .- The most out of work and property estimated thrilling feature of the destructive at $500,000 destroyed in a fire that fire which wiped out practically all of the town of Milton, south of Mildricks Copper Works at Belleville, N. ton, or Bread Kiln Creek, early this morning, was the appearance of women as fire fighters.

Women and girls mounted hand engines, climbed ladders, scaled walls and "hustled" buckets, both full and empty. In fact the women and girls to be of much service, and by the time setemed to be full of grit. Their pluckiest work was the rescue of the Milton M. E. Church, while burning, from the flames, and the saving of that edifice with but slight damage.

Automobiles also proved efficient aids to the fire fighters, for one of the Georgetown hose carriages was brought to Milton, a distance of eight miles, in a jiffy, by being mounted or automobile trucks. Automobiles also brought in extra food supplies and relief firemen from other towns, while the fire raged.

Fireproof Building Halts Flames.

The fireproof building of the Susse: Trust, Title and Safe Deposit Company undoubtedly stopped the progress of the fire and aided the firemen in saving the three big packing house and lumber yards in the path of the flames. As it was, it is estimated tonight that $125,000 will not cover the money for another by being ragged and hungry and not working. But such is the case.

Capitalists always want cheap labor. The one thing that a Capitalist wants more than cheap labor is cheaper labor. The Army of the Unemployed, being sufficiently hungry, must work cheapif it gets work. A starving man does not insist on high wages. The Army of the Unemployed compels others to work cheap-if it gets no work for itself. A wise workman does not insist on a raise in wages when a hungry and jobless man stands at the factory door. Either way the Capitalists' Profits are protected.

continues. The best that can be done is to educate the Working plea of his mother. The justice's Class to organize industrially and to organize politically. Workingmen and workingwomen should organize industrially so as to compel the Capitalist to pay the highest possible wage for the shortest possible working day while Capitalism lasts. They should organize politically so as to abolish Capitalism and substitute Socialism. Workingmen who are Socialists understand this. Workingmen who are not Socialists do not understand it. They must be taught. There is no force that can reach them so quickly and teach them so effectively as a Socialist and trade union daily paper. That is the work that The Call is to do. The Call is published to bring about the organization and education of the Working Class. So, reader, when you get your pay envelope today you are asked to take one-sixth of its contents, One Day's Wage, and send it to The Call, 442 Pearl street, New York City. Mark your letter "Wage Fund." The money will be used to pay the debts and to provide for the improvement of The Call. There soon will be a Sunday Call. The paper will be improved in many ways. Today you will notice the Woman's Page. I shall write a letter soon to the women who support The Call. The paper could not have been started and published all this time had it not been for the help of the women. When you send The Call One Day's Wage today do not forget that it will come back to you many times over. In all your struggles with the boss, The Call will be on your side. You cannot overestimate its power for good. Because The Call will print and publish the fact to the world will prevent the Boss from trying many

It depends on y-o-u. If you send your One Day's Wages others will. See how many new names are to be found in the list. Some of the old ones are missing. They will be there later. They can be relied upon. There have been no large individual contributions as yet. But there will be. It is a fact that The Call is in the hands of its friends. Its future life and power and usefulness are assured. This time ALL are going to do their share. That includes y-o-u. Don't forget the street and number-442 Pearl street. I will give One Day's Wages to help out either this week or next. I think the Souvenir Edition will be just the thing, and a Sunday Call would be very nice to have. I know we need a daily paper. I feel as if I could depend on what The Call states in its columns. I miss it very much if I don't have it. The first thing I do when I get home is to look at my

VICTORY IN FRANCE.

(Special to The Call.)

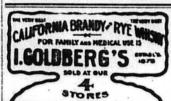

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Great satisfaction is expressed by the leaders of the Socialist party here at the decided victory just won by the Socialists in the city of Toulous in the municipal elections. The Socialist ticket received 10,280 votes as against 9,458 for the Radicals. This is taken as an indication that at the general elections next year the Radicals will lose heavily to the Socialists in all the industrial centers as a result of the government's policy of repression of labor unions

GIANTS MOVING UP

Down the Cubs for Third Time by Score of 6 to 2.

CHICAGO. Aug. 13.-The Glants n their specialty of raising havec with the Cubs' pennant prospects today cut in with some ball playing which was too strong and fast for the threetime champions of the National

The powerful hitting which the Giants have developed lately ran up a big lead for them at the start of a big lead for them at the start of the game and they won without ever being seriously challenged. They have now won eight straight games in hostile camps, five in St. Louis and three here in the Chance-Evers balliwick

The New Yorkers compressed their hits into two innings of scoring had Chicago pitchers chasing in out of the box in a procession. Mesers. Kroh, Higginbotham and Hagerman went against a swirl of biffing and banging and it wasn't until the hard pressed Chance dug up Overall that a pitcher was found who could hold he Giants in check.

Merkle again showed the Chicago folks that he can interfere with their plans, he making several exceptional plays on ground balls. His hitting was weak, however. Hofman and Tinker all but had a monepoly of the hitting off Raymond, rocking Bugs' anointed stants for six of the seven Chicago hits. Tinker hit furiously, a single, two doubles and a home run being the grist that came to his mill, and but for him the Cubs would have been in the same even less have been in the game even than they were.

The first inning was chock full of happenings. Doyle sent up a fowl and Pat Moran came near being seriously hurt in getting after it. He went to the front of the grandstand for it and as he reached over in the boxes his spikes slipped. His knee splintered a board, and as he went down his head hit the palings hard. It was an ugly looking mis-hap, but Pat was all right to con-tinue after a doctor and players had worked over him. Doyle straightened out a single to right and Seymour doubled to the same locality. Three good ones cut the plate without Mc-Cormick offering at any of them. Murray was less passive, singling Sheckard's preserves and scor Doyle and Seymour. Sheckard booted the hit and Murray went to second. Kroh got his walking papers. Dev-lin slapped a single through short. Hagerman pitching the ball while Tinker was moving toward second to keep Murray close to the bag. Murray came through on Devlin's welt. Bridwell sent a safety skimming down the third base line, and he and Dev lin added to the Cubs' bewilderment by making a double steal. Hagerman took Higginbotham's place and struck out Merkle. Devlin and Bridwell made a tandem rush for the plate on Schlei's safe fly to left, Sheckard's throw in hitting Bridwell in the back as 'the latter neared the plate. Raymond ended the massacre with a fly to Steinfeldt. Tinker drove to center field for a home run in the second inning after Hofman had the second inning after Hofman had singled to Doyle. Doyle slipped or he would have had Hofman, in which case Tinker wouldn't have come up in that inning, there being two out. However, Chance retired by Merkle's fancy stop at the beginning of the round, so that the Cubs were no more fortunate all told than the Giants in the way things broke.

The New York policy of hitting out at the ball instead of sacrificing produced another run in the thing.

Devlin's quick recovery and the accurate throwing of him and Doyle, furnished a double play close for the inning. Next Tinker Deviln was the best batter the day, his inventory being two sin-gles and a double.

A fine catch by Hofman kept him from scoring in the eighth. Hofman played a splendid game in center field for the Cubs. He and Tinker were pretty nearly the whole Chicago team

Big Ed Walsh Keeps Home Team Under His Thumb and Wins Easily.

After a long rest Big Ed Walsi made his reappearance on the slat for the White Sox at American League Park yesterday afternoon, and after the first inning he had the Highland ars at his mercy. Warhop was hi a trifle freely in spots and did not come up to the form he displayed in two previous games. There was some good and bad fielding on both sides, a feature being a running catch by Engle, which resulted in a double play. It becomes more evident daily that the Highlanders miss the services of Chase and Lenoure. Hem. ices of Chase and Laporte. Hemp-hill, who again filled Keeler's place yesterday, led both teams in stiel work, with three figures.

Altizer and Parent opened the same with clean base hits off Warhop and lebell moved them along with a sacrifice. Altizer scored on a passed ball and Dougherty sent a fly to Demmitt, whose great throw to the plate held Parent on third hase. Davis then struck out and the Highlanders took their turn. After Demmitt had flied to Altizer Hemphill hammered a double Altizer Hemphill hammered a double Altizer Hemphili hammered a double Engle's heavy welt for a single that passed Walsh like a rifle shot. Engle made a clean steal of second and went to third on Eiberfeld's safe drive to right. The latter right. The latter was caught between bases on the throw to the plate and run down. MORGAN AT HIS ZENITH.

pont Morgan, reckoning by appearances, seemed to outrank every other American magnate; scarcely a day passed that the newspapers did not report some new achievement of h.s or obsequiously render tribute to his ever-expanding power. In the public appraisement he bulked as a supervitally preponderant man, a figure standing out with an immense and peculiar distinction, eclipsing the most obtrusive political and industrial innetionaries.

Contrasted with him, ostensible political rulers were innocuous, ephemeral personages. For a time they might vociferously command attention, but their incumbency was dependent upon the will of the magnates, and they were pushed up or pulled down as suited the policy and purposes of the great propertied interests. A long array of 'sminent statesmen" had shuffled into solemn view, and for a while he had been the cynosure of the nation, and then, like exploded rockets, had disappeared into obscurity, or into a state akin to it. Yet, in another speech, brief and burrowed, as was their power, theirs was not the portion of oblivion; conventional history, which accepts the apparent as the real documents, often perpetuates their names, ignorant of the fact that they were only the servers or servitors of particular impelling forces and interests.

Historical Omissions and Misjudg-

Yet, in large hart, these are the significant things hat fundamentally have made actual listory. Rulers have been allowed to make formal declaration. vidual happened to fill the so-called

The world does not revere a loser, unless he be a great one, and for a great cause. In considerable degree. Roosevelt fought the fight of a rapidly-decaying cause, that of the middle-class, a cause doomed to fall ignobly, and rightly so. On the surface he seemed the mids man, of the day, in point of mediate infusion of funds. The world so. On the surface he seemed the "big man" of the day; in point of fact, he was vanquished by such magnates as Morgan. Harriman and Rockefeller. They, to all appearances mere private individuals, defeated every move of him who was supposed to be invested with even greater powers than many potentates.

Impossible to Stay the Trust Movement.

The irresistible progress of the trust movement, and the all comprehending power of the magnates, can be better cetimated when it is recalled that it was during Roosevelt's administra-tion that the most aptagonistic campaign thus far essayed against the at this time did not arise from trusts was carried on. (1) At least it any misconception that he was the seemed so if invective and suits at richest man in the United States. despite his pretenses was an instru-ment of the trust magnates, which fact was connoted anew by the circumstance that he was the Presiden who signed the act striking out the mprisonment clause from the anti-rebating act, and assuring magnates and corporations full immunity from eriminal prosecution. (1) That is, against the "bad" trusts. How, even, the outward acts of officialdom were being made to conform to the interests of the ruling that fundamentally have made actual history. Rulers have been allowed to make formal declaration of wars, but capitalists have commanded them. When it pleases the interests of capitalists have peace, titular rulers are ordered to arrange it. Should rulers be so obtuse or stubborn as to stand in the way of capitalist interests, revolution follows. If, in a parliamentary country, laws are somehow enacted contrary to the interests of the dominant capitalist class, those laws are effectively voided. All of which proves that, although presidents, kings and emperors may mightly pose as the "creators of policies," yet after all they are only the sounding-hoard creatures of money forces marshaled in the background, unnoticed by orthedex histories.

True, indeed, Roosevelt, or those inspired by him, could darkly intimate that it were well for the coal magnates to come to terms; otherwise they might suffer criminal prosecution for violation of the act forbidding railroads from owning coal mines. But the magnates, well realizing how often they had heard this clap-trap sort of talk, and how empty and futile it all was. and how empty and futile it all was, President of the United States, theoretically representing 85 000.000 of people, being compelled to parley and treat with a few magnates on their "The one man who controlled the operators," wrote A. > Morgan's Organization of the Stee Trust.

What was the exceptionally strong and ably-planned trust to which Moody thus so airily refers? It was the great Steel Trust. Need it be remarked that this was by no means Morgan's only such progeny? In the organization of so many trusts did he participate that the term "Morganization of Industry" ran rampant like an obsession. With these other trusts, however, it is hardly necessary to deal; as a crystalline example of Morgan's commensurable magnate of 1902, lay methods, the Steel Trust will doubt-

This trust, let it be proclaimed at the outset, was no paltry affair of a tew hundred million dollars. It was an enterprise worthy of the application of a "great general of finance." The pen may stumble in writing it. but somehow one will continue to get the fact into print that this trust came into being with more than a billion dollars oppital. And we feel irresistibly constrained to linger upon that billion dollars. The ordinary human mind is capable of much; it to visualize it, is a task to be for-sworn. Quite idle is it for the work-ers to attempt the visualization; their tole part is to produce the billions, not to see them, much less have the use of them. Contemplating that billion dollars further, we are driven to note

EDITORIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The readers of The Call who have been following Mr. Mysre "History of the Great American Fortunea." and the Socialist meanment in general will be interested in the following announcement by Charles H. Kerr & Company:

"This remarkable work, which has attracted widespread attention in the course of its serial publication in the Worker and The Call, will shortly be brought out in three handsome volumes. From the beginning of the serial publication of this work, an incessant stream of inquiries has poured in as to when it would appear in book form. The first volume will be issued in September, 1803, and two other volumes will appear as rapidly as they can be published. The author has given the publication of this book to our cooperative association of working people, because he has good reased to believe that almost any capitalist house would sooh be induced a suppress the book when its revolutionary importance case came to the attention of the great capitains of industry. We have little working capital, but our publishing house is owned by over two thousand Socialists who can not be bought off.

"We shall publish the book, so far as the author has completed it, in three handsome volumes, printed on fine book paper, with sight engravings in each volume. The first, dealing with conditions in Settlement and Colonial Times and with the Great Land Fortunes, will be ready in September. Volumes II and III, will deal with the Great Raliroad Fortunes, and we hope to publish both of these by the end of 1909. The price of the work will be $1.50 a volume, but to these who remit $3.50 in advance, we will mail each of the three volumes, by sending $1.50 at once.

As I am looking at the heading of our new page devoted to the interest of women, I cannot help smiling to myself. For I have been thinking, dear reader, what my great-grandmother and your great-grandmother. in fact, all our great-grandmother, in fact, all our great-grandmothers would say if they could see this page. Under the heading "Woman's Sphere" they would probably expect to find cooking recipes, household hints, dress patterns, beauty secrets, information on what is more particular to the cooking recipes. mation on what to say and what to wear at weddings, christenings and funerals, and perhaps some advice on how to keep your husband's affec-tion, And what would their wondertion. And while ing eyes behold?

They would find news about other They would find news about other women clamoring for the right to vote in great public meetings and demonstrations, and not only clamoring for it, but even going to prison for their cause and even ready to die for it like the Christian martyrs of

They would read about wonderfu They would read about wonderful doings of women the world over; wo-men being doctors and dentists. law-years and ministers, architects and engineers; women piloting steamboats and airships, running automobiles. and airships, running automobiles, guarding light-houses, shoeing horses, and acting as police officers. They would read of women professors teaching at colleges, of women explorers on dangerous voyages of dis-covery, of women scientists adding to the wealth of human knowledge, of women inventors bringing forth new devices for the jay or the comfort of mankind, of women excelling in literature and art, and of women being elected or appointed to high and important offices; and our great-grandmothers would probably shake their heads and exclaim, as a tyrannical father of the old patriarchal type is made to exclaim in a well-know German drama: "I no longer under-stand the world!"

How could they understand it? For since our great-grandmothers' day this world, and especially woman's world, has indeed undergone. a complete transformation. In their day as in all the preceding countries, it was rightly claimed that the home was woman's sphere, for woman found a great amount of socially necessary service to perform within the home. The majority of things that each individual family required manufactured by each indvidual housewife within her own four walls Our great-grandmothers when the flax and weaved the cloth, they did all their own cooking and baking and preserving, they cut and sewed all their children's garments and their own, they often made their own cur-tains and carpets, pillows and quilts. and manufactured tallow candles and soap. Besides, the rearing and train-ing of children was left chiefly to them, as the public school system was still undeveloped, and children wer

But then a great social transforms tion took place. Machines were invented that could make a great num ber of things in a very short time, but they were far too large and com-plicated and expensive to be used in the individual househid. They necessitated the building of factories where many people could work to Now, because the household necessities that had formerly been manufactured at home were manufactured in factories, as cause they were the very things that women had been manufacturing for ages, it was only a natural and logical consequence that women followed their work from the home to the fac cial producers. This great change in the method of production is at the bottom of the equally great change of woman's sphere. All other changes have followed it as inevitable results.

nized social producers in factories, they naturally looked about for other means of employment and self-sup port besides factory work. Thus on occupation after another was invaded Less than a century ago United States open to women day only three remain that women have not entered. The widened field of occupation necessitated a broader scope of knowledge. So women de into high schools, colleges and uni versities, and into the practice learned professions. Together with the transformation of woman's sphere came woman's struggle for equal so civic and political rights.

Until then the world had been a man-made world. Woman was only an adjunct of society. She only served society indirectly by serving her own family. But when the world became a world of men and womer the terrible injustice and inequity of man-made laws and customs began to he keenly realized. fight for the right to control their own earnings and property, for the right to have some control over their children. Sor juster legislation to guard their interests and protect their rights. The present world wide demand for political equality is only the last, logi-cal step in woman's struggle for jus-tice; and already the battle is partly won. Already women possess some children, for juster legislaton to guarwon. Already women possess some or of suffrage in a great number of

But the greatest and most encouraging sign of the great change wrought in woman's sphere is the wakening of woman's social science Everywhere among modern womanhood, even in such hitherto unprogressive countries as Spain, Italy, Turkey, Persis. The sphere of modern woman knows no bounds, no limitations, no narrow limits fixed by time worn customs and laws. Her sphere, man's, is the great, wide world. Her sphere, noblest and most sacred duty, like his, is to do what Lucy Stone, the gallant pioneer, expressed in her dying words, to "make the world better."

THE LIFE OF A FLY.

By Theresa Malkiel.

She was hatched in a humble dwell-ing, the offspring of a plebian mother and father-ordinary, small, black flies. In contrast to her elder she was unusually large and beautiful, with powerful glittering wings that aimed high from the moment they imbued with life. imbued with life.
The parents, contented with their lot and quite old, lived in the shop of a candle maker, who let them grow and multiply without hindrance. Their whole life in that dingy moss covered shed was full of sameness; the same route of travel over the dirty walls and ceiling-the same tallow for food; the same reafing of a

Our fly, however, was the possessor of a rebellious spirit, and becam and unexperienced, she decided to leave her kin and the old homestead Entired by the bright warm rave of the sun attracted by the delicate scen of the field flowers, she crossed the family threshold without regret. "How different though lossoms are from the colorless tallow!" she exclaimed in sestany. "How delictous to the palate!" Her exclamations of delight were brought suddenly to a stop by a loud buzzing overhead and something large and black obstructed her vision. She had barely time to move off when the black terror came down on the very petals our fly had occupied but a moment before. It was no other than Mistress Bee.

who came back to the blossoms. They were hers by right she affirmed; by right of might, if nothing else. The fly trembled and the thought that it was much safer to live under a mother's wing crossed her brain. Young and fickle as she was, her ten, for a new vision had interrupted her meditations. From a garden state, then there came to be a new across the square, beautiful red roses ideal, a new standard of duty, a new howed to her and seemed to promise appeared in their crimson gradeur! the poor fly regretted once more the loss of home, humble though it was And now return to it was cut off from her forever. Setween her and home lay a steat distance to travel, which was much harder now that she was crippled and all the enthusiasm gone from her. Besides, would she be able to live the dull gray life of home? Would she be equal to the ordeal of withstanding the sneers and ridicule of her former companions? No: that had made across the internal with the old home and its traditions, with the first ray of sunshine she had felt from without. What did it matter? She had but one life to lose and—she must make it worth the losing. There was middle way for her—she must inge further. True, some of the no middle way plunge further. fancy trappings were gone, but there were still enough left to keep up appearances; her leg was crippled, she would try to fly and conceal it.

The fly looked tremblingly about; night was approaching fast and she had to seek shelter. Loud laughter and strains of wild music attracted windows were wide open and she en-tered undisturbed; to her great deshe found herself among many s of her kind. Some of them others of her kind. Some of then shouted: "Welcome into our ranks!" shouted: Others whispered: "Beware, the road is short and silppery." When the fly saw them arise with a loud buzz, she knew that there was nothing else left to her but follow them. The gay to her but follow them. The frightened fly tried to free herself; she turned and twisted, but to no avail; the grip was too firm In a few minutes her cruel captor noticed a younger and more beautiful fly not far from him and left the half strangled one to her own fate.

She was broken in body and spirit and, thinking that the end was near dragged herself to the farthest cor ner of the room—to die in peace. But when her destination was reached, she found that instead of a blind wall she had encountered a door leading to another less brilliantly lit room. There, as in the first room, she say many of her sisters in misfortune they were gathered around something which looked very appetizing. The former cruel experience still fresh in her memory, she tried her best to free herself once more. Alas! it was not to be; all the vigor and strength were gone. She sank slowly deeper and deeper in the mire until merciful death ended her misery.

THE THREE GRADES OF ETHICS.

By Charlotte Perkins Gilman.

There are three grades of ethics for the human race.

First, and lowest, and oldest, that with which we begin—personal ethics. Personal ethics are about as limited as anything you could imagine. Personal ethics consist in keeping ourselves clean and healthy. And ver few of us are perfect yet, even in per sonal ethics. We are mostly clean but, not as healthy as we might be. However, that standard is within our reach.

Secondly, family ethics. This is secondly, family etnics. This is much larger, much more recent. We were members of the most rude, primitive tribes for thousands of years before the family was evolved—the family with a male head. That brought with it new ethics. The father cr the oldest son was the great leader. All the wives and the children and the servants and relatives were under the dominion of the oldest male. The property belonged to him. The fam-ly was a little social unit of immense service to the world. It carried a supreme standard of ethics for years. It slowly grew into that higher form of social grouping, the state. vitally colored by the Hebrew ethics The ethics of Christianity have made but slight impression on our stand-ards, at yet. The Hebrew ethics came from the old patriarchal house. tribe, and the tribe grew slowly to the ideal, a new standard of duty, a new code of honor, a new line of service, the third grade of ethics. Then came the call for statesmanship. Then we began to consider the interests of the whole, irrespective of blood relation-ship. Then came devotion to counship. Then came devoted try, which was taught for years by the simple symbol of the King. The King stood for the people. You re-member a line from one of Shake-speare's plays—"Hall, Royal England It was nothing but a man. comes: It was nothing out a man, nothing but the King. But he repre-sented England. That is why the idea of the King carried such weight. lates of the King carried such weight.

Each King represented the whole people, and each man gave his devotion to the King, and through him to the state. Assyrian duty to the King nize their civic responsibilities and dutes?

We forget many things; we tinually forget, in the stress and pres-sure of daily living, the peculiar char-acteristics of the human mind. The human mind is one unbroken stream which has flowed on from the time when the first creature began to think into it. We have our brains. But modified by heredity; it represents the brain behind it. There is a chance of improvement in each young brain. But as fast as it is born, we selze upon it with our unquestioned author-ity, and cram into it as much of our own brain tradition, and habit, and plece of white paper, and teach it shame. We teach it that certain things are things to be ashamed of. And we do not give to the child, nor to ourselves, any reason for our ac-tion. We do it just because it was teach them our own prejudices, even to the last and least that we have. We cram into their minds what we think is good. We might be a little more discriminating in our judgment. We might have some standard in all this. We might recognize that the child is a citizen, and that he has rights as a citizen which no prejudice has a right to limit or interfere with.

Think of the way mothers struggle to prevent their sons from ing to swim! A great many of them will not let their children go near the water. Every human being should be able to swim; just as able to swim as he is to walk. A baby can swim before it can walk. There are examples of this in the Hawaiian Islands If every child were taught to swim. not one-tenth of the deaths from drowning would occur. We don't think anything about the child's right, either as a citizen or an animal; we only think that we are afraid, and so we object to his learning to swim. That is one instance where a common standard should be set up, before personal prejudice. We seem now to be carefully transmitting the habits of our ancestors. We come into this democracy of curs handicapped by just these things, instead of coming into it with a knowl-cdge of democracy. And we still grow up in our happy homes, live useful lives, and die with a comparatively clean conscience, without having troubled our heads about our civic duties, or our social duties, or our relationship to the state as a whole; From Women and Social Service.

IRON WORKERS UNITE.

. . The report from New Castle, Pa., which appeared in yesterday's issue of The Call, contained more cheering news from the battlefield of labor than it has been our fortune to receive for some time past.

The constitution of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, now fighting for its existence against the Steel Trust is apparently a thoroughly antiquated affair. This constitution prohibits the Amalgamated Association from including in its ranks the unskilled workers, without whom no strike can be carried to a successful termination. It is very largely due to this antiquated constitution that the Amalgamated has sunk from its former high estate and is now reduced to fighting for its very life.

But the essential solidarity of labor has asserted itself in this strike of the sheet and tin workers, as it did in so many of the former strikes of the iron workers. The open shop declaration of the Steel Trust in its sheet and tin mills has produced an effect, the very reverse of that which the Trust had anticipated. Confronted by a common danger, all the hot mill employes of the New Castle plant, even those not belonging to any union, stand faithfully by the Amalgamated Association. The Tin Workers' Protective Association has largely increased its membership. The remainder of the workersthose not included in either of the other labor organizations-have been organized into a local of the I. W. W. All three organizations are working harmoniously together, and President McArdle, of the Amalgamated, has pledged his Association to enter into no separate negotiations with the Trust, but to maintain a faithful alliance with the other organizations until a conclusion has been reached.

A substantial advance toward unity has thus been made, and we sincerely hope, together with all the friends of the iron workers, that this advance may be followed by the only logical step-a complete amalgamation of all the organizations of the iron and steel industry into one powerful organization that shall be capable of meeting the Steel Trust on something like even terms. The combination of the masters has for years been an established fact. The combination of the workers cannot come a day too soon. The Western Federation of Miners has taken steps toward a complete amalgamation with the United Mine Workers. Let the various organizations of the iron and steel workers follow this excellent example. The cause for which these labor unions are fighting is too great to let any paper constitutions stand permanently in the way of their unification. "In unity there is strength" applies to the workers who have no other means of self-protection, even more than to the masters of the money bags.

A DILEMMA.

Tt is the fate of all bourgeois reforms to be overtaken by the sweep of economic development. "One step forward and two steps backward" seems to be their motto.

Only a short while ago Roosevelt started the movement for reserving to the nation whatever of forest lands, mineral lands, navigable rivers and waterpower sites had not yet been stolen by ungodly corporations and sanctimonious middle class folk. And his successor, who had solemnly promised to carry out "my policies," is in full retreat before the onslaught of the furies of private property.

The national heritage, or what little is left of it, will be maintained in its integrity according to the strict letter of the law. So we are assured by Injunction Bill's Secretary of the Interior. But the law is a notorious ass and can be made to bray as the rich grabbers

The cry has gone forth that to preserve what is left of the national domain would be equivalent to erecting a barrier to the economic development of the West. And no doubt this is true in a certain sense. In capitalistic society everything that tends to hinder the development-extensive and intensive-of capital, thereby tends to hinder the development of the productive forces of society.

arge that the government of the United States is acting the dog in the manger. They say that they can utilize these lands and water sites better than the government. And under present conditions this may even be true, for these sites constitute part of a system, the greater part of which has already been appropriated by these capitalists.

:0:-Thaw has been pronounced insone once more. But once more Thaw announces that he will continue his fight for freedom. And Thaw may continue his fight as long as he has money, after each successive adverse decision, to pay the lawyers to undertake new habeas corpus proceedings. The fault lies not with the habeas corpus process, which is one of the foundations of individual liberty and security. The fault lies with the enormous power placed in the hands of Thaw and the likes of Thaw. . The power of the Thaws consists in their possession and control of land, mills, mines, railways, etc. -that is, of the means of production necessary to the life of society. It is a SOCIAL power that they possess, a power that of right belongs to society. And if society does not assert its right, but leaves that power in the hands of the Thaws, are the Thaws to be blamed for using this power against society?

The march of capitalistic centralization goes merrily on, in the South and West, as well as in the East. According to a dispatch published yesterday from Kenosha, Wis., the Powder Trust has gobbled up the powder mills of the Lassin-Rand Company, situated in New York, New Jersey, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Kansas. On the same day it was also announced that two of the largest cotton mill corporations in the South have combined to form the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, with an authorized capitalization of $10,000,-000. The present is a favorable time for forming combinations of capital. The middle class, still exhausted from the panic, is in no mood for a fight and is anxious to avoid doing anything that may "disturb confidence" and stop the tide of prosperity from attaining to full flood. And the magnates of capital, we may be suic, will play this confidence game for all it is worth, until one fine morning the middle class will awake once more with, oh, what a katzenjammer!

"LIGHTING THE WORLD."

A TRUMPET CALL.

By Peter E. Burrowes.

As a man respects himself, and hon-rs his fellow man, a sense of the dig-lity and value of human effort grows ors his fellow man, a sense of the dignity and value of human effort grows

The Socialist especially contemplates with shame the tragedy of waste that goes on in the misdirection and loss of human work which characterizes the capitalist system; and he, more than all others, must de-plore the vain spilling of that which really constitutes life--the zeal, the energy and labors of the people.

How much deeper, therefore, must be our concern to think of the impending possibility that our own sacred exertions of years to establish a daily Socialist paper in this city nay after all full and full to nothing within a few weeks of the time of within a few weeks of the time of triumphant realization. The mere possibility seems to be a loss irretrievable; it is too disastrous and humiliating to think of, and may carry with it a loss which no greater moral calamity could fall upon us. I would say to the dear comrades, you who have come through the toll and sweat of this great endeavor and given so much of your precious life for the establishment of this so deep-ly needed paper, do not halt, oh, do not halt, at this eleventh hour: let not your hands fall down now when almost within grasp of the prize. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THOSE TERRIBLE PORTLANDERS. Editor of The Call:

After reading in yesterday's Call that letter signed H. Lloyd, I found myself involuntarily exclaiming, "Poor Local oPrtland." Really, I'd bet my bottom nickel that if H. Lloyd "could express himself clearly," he would not have written "I have been instructed by Local Portland, etc.," but "I have instructed Local Portland, etc.," for nothing I have ever read smacked more of the demagogue, of the blustering, ignorant kind of demagogu than does the letter of H. Lloyd.

The first indictment which Local Portland, through H. Lleyd. finds against The Call, namely. "We have seen better propaganda work in capttalist papers than you dare to print" "dare to print," mind you—is, in reality, a most serious indictment against Local Portland no less serious an indictment than that of fairlying.

The second indictment. Rowever, is indeed just and terrible. "You said that when a man joined the movement we did not ask whether he was rich or poor." What heresy, what perfidious treachery has Local Portland's (or. possibly, H. Lloyd's) keen analytical intellect discovered behind this appar-

BRITISH LABOR EXCHANGES.

Consul General Robert J. Wynne

of London, furnishes the following information concerning the labor exchanges which it is proposed to establish in the United Kingdom and on which favorable action by the British Parliament is predicted:

The plan of the government begin by reorganizing the British Board of Trade itself, and creating a special department, which shall be concerned with the new labor exchanges and the system of unemployment insurance to be created. The country is to be mapped into ten divisions, each ated with a national clearing hou London. In these ten divisions will be set up between thirty and forty first-class labor exchangs in towns with a population of 100,000 and upward, forty-five second-class exchanges in towns of a population between 50,000 and 100,000, and 150 minor exchanges in smaller centers. In the larger cen-ters general advisory committees, con-sisting of equal numbers of employers and employes, will be appointed but these will in all cases be under the direction of an "impartial permanent official" appointed by and subject to the British Board of Trade. The president of the British Board of Trade estimates the cost at $856.

INFLATING THE BUDGET BALLOON.

What does the much-discussed Budget of Mr. Lloyd George realty That it is not in any sense "Socialist," as its vehement opponents declare, is as certain as that it is not sound financial measure, as the less scrupulous Libera's allege it to be The most remarkable thing about this strange production is that those who are really most hurt by its provisions, the mass of the people namely, protest least. The great and, as we believe, wholly unnecessary and unfair burdens imposed upon the petty luxuries of the working classes, making their small-beer and alcoholic drink generally, as well as their tobacco, cost them a heavy percentage more, are entirely disregarded by Liberal-Labor and Independent Labor champions, so delighted are they with other features in this amateur financial program. That the workers, under Mr. George's present proposals, will pay in additional taxes some tenfort more than will be extracted from the land-lords appears not to weigh in the least degree with the strange medley of en-thusiants who so vigorously cheered the millionaire-capitalist, Mr. Alfred Mond, in Hyde Park last Saturday, The "thin end of the wedge" for the taxation of the uncarned increment of land has been inserated, and all old grievances against the much more onerous and harshly levied unearned increment of capital are forgotten in one great roar of Liberal and (Inde-pendent) Labor jubilation. Now, it is safe to say that there is nothing in this Liberal Budget which will benefit the working classes of Great Britain one atom; while, as said, the heavy and wholly unneces sary additional taxation imposed upon them will, temporarily at any rate, hurt them a great deal. Teetotalers and anti-tobacco men form a very small minority indeed of our population; but they are fanatical, inpopulation; but they are fanatical, intolerant, and all-powerful with the present government. Consequently, they take this pleasing opportunity of levying taxes from which they themselves are exempt, and imposing tyrannous little restrictions which they and their families do not suffer from.

It is a nice exhibition of the action of intellect discovered behind this apparently innocent statement! With what crushing logic H. Lloyd's letter demonstrates that, in making this statement, "you ignore the class struggle and deliberately stand Karl Marx on his head!"

Is a nice exhibition of the action of the more previously deplored.

their part. In what way? That nobody has ever shown, or can show, Mr. L'oyd George's Budget is in this respect a hopeless muddle. It can have no such effect as is alleged.
There is not a clause in all its long array of strange ineptitudes which brings the people one foot nearer to they have been ousted, in a long course of historic misappropriation; nor is there a single proposal which can tend to raise their wages one fraction of a penny, or give them or their
