

MEATLESS SABBATH IN UPPER EAST SIDE

Strike Against Exorbitant Prices Deprives Ghettoes of Good Meals and Many Other Good Things.

It was not the kind of a supper East Siders usually have on a Sabbath eve that was served last night at thousands of homes in Harlem and the Bronx Ghettoes. Even the very poor manage to buy the weekly little chicken and the pound of meat that goes to fatten the "Turkey." But, alas, there was not even a bone to pick yesterday and none will be today.

Of course, there was an old minestrone, "geltle fish," and lots of it. It took the place of all other dishes and was used as a substitute to the various delicious preparations that make Saturday a day of joy. Fish, especially "geltle fish," as cooked by the Jews, is not to be appreciated. But when it comes alone, as it did yesterday, unaccompanied by the juicy "jaffened" niddle soup, brown broiler and fat piece of breast, it has not, to say the least, the virtue of good companionship.

This Sabbath is to the Jew what a dry Sunday is to the Gentile, with the exception that exorcise regulations can be avoided by going around the corner to the rear entrance. Meat boycotts are enforced by crowds of vigilant women, who, unlike Gagnor's officials, cannot be bribed. If you happen to break the law—their law, there is something doing.

The woman, Mrs. Ida Newman, of 1887 Second avenue, did not seem to know just what she was doing. But she turned yesterday and laid two chickens for the lesson. The crowd had discovered these chickens as she came down the stairs of the 19th street elevated road and snatched them. Policeman Allgren dispersed the crowd and rescued the woman—but not the chickens. He also arrested Mrs. Beckie Mozel, of 345 East 96th street, who was fined $2 by Magistrate O'Connor, when she was later brought before him.

There was no other trouble for the good reason that the butchers kept their doors closed to their stores. The case of the women was placed plainly yesterday by Mrs. Anna Pastor, who is leading the strike in the Bronx. She said: "The price of meat has been too high all over the city, but higher still in the Hebrew butcher shops. We used to pay 14 and 16 cents for a pound of good meat. Now they want us to pay 18, 20 and 22 cents for less than a pound, and they will not take the bones out."

"In this neighborhood," Mrs. Pastor went on, "many families of ten and twelve live on $12 and $15 a week. When meat was 14 cents a pound they were often only able to afford it once a week. Think of it—meat once a week for growing children and for a man who has to labor to support a family. Now, when I go into the homes of these families I find what a frightful struggle it is for them to pay the advanced price. And I find, too, when they have bought their meat even at 22 cents a pound, much of it they are unable to eat, and there are large bones in it that cannot be used for any purpose."

ICY WATER DROWNS TWO

GREENWICH, Conn., April 8.—James McCabe, twenty-seven, of South Norwalk, a foreman of the New York Telephone Company, and Harry Powell, aged thirty-five, of Hoboken, another employe of the company, were drowned today in Hockwood lake, at Sianwich, near the estate of E. C. Converse.

The men had been engaged in numbering telephone poles and were returning across the lake in a canoe. They had reached the deepest part of the pond when the canoe upset. The accident was seen by another telephone man, R. L. Gordon Torrens, who said that the men started to swim to the shore, over an eighth of a mile away. McCabe, the foreman, soon became exhausted, and Powell, who claimed to have been a sailor, went back to rescue him. After several minutes Powell was obliged to give up the struggle to save his exhausted companion, who went down. He swam some distance nearer the shore, and went down also. Torrens took off his shoes and outer clothing, and swam out, but just before he reached Powell the man disappeared. He had difficulty getting back, as his limbs were chilled through.

300 REFINERS STRIKE

Sugar Workers at Edgewater, N. J. Walk Out for Uniform Wages.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 8.—There was lively times at Edgewater this morning when 300 of the 300 employes of the Warner sugar refinery, whose extensive plant is on the Hudson river, opposite 130th street, Manhattan, walked out on strike.

Joseph Sallinski refused to join the strikers. When he returned from dinner he was brutally beaten. Policeman Dinan saved the man's life by use of his night stick. Mayor Clahan swore in a number of deputies to aid the police, and during the afternoon Frank Adams, Lee Rice, Louis Kolish and Frank Sivivis were arrested, charged with inciting a riot. Recorder Darris fined each $2.50 and costs, and warned the strikers that if recaptured, they would be taken to Hackensack.

The strike resulted because the workmen demand a uniform scale of 18 cents an hour. They now receive 15, 16 and 17 cents. They also want pay for their dinner hour, and double price on Sunday, with the privilege of taking her into the factory. President Charles Blaine Warner says he will close the factory sooner than pay what he characterizes as ridiculous demands. The company increased the pay 20 per cent only a short time ago. The company threatens to fill the places of the strikers if the latter do not return to work.

REAL MAPLE SYRUP SCARCE. Not Standard Oil Glucose Trust Will Supply a Substitute.

UTICA, N. Y., April 8.—The maple sugar and syrup season is practically at an end in this section. It has been one of the shortest seasons in a score of years. The warm weather of the last ten days caused the maples to bud and the flow of sap to stop, with the result that only about 50 per cent of the usual amount of sugar and syrup has been manufactured.

Part of the product is not of good quality as usual, because the weather caused the sap to sour. A large part of the product of the Adirondack counties was sold under two years' contract, made two months ago with Chicago firms, at 75 cents a gallon for syrup. The firms will net good returns, as the short crop has served to stimulate prices.

T-ELL FROM SMOKESTACK. RAYONNE, April 8.—High wind caused the instant death of Bernard Thompson, twenty-five years old, of 22 Halford avenue, while he was at work on a smokestack on the Babcock & Wilcox boiler making plant on Hohart avenue, Bergen Point, today. He was about 100 feet in the air adjusting an extension rope when the wind toppled over the stack and he fell with it. Two fellow workmen were the only witnesses of the accident and they had a narrow escape from being hit by the falling stack.

New York's Gas Service The Best in the World

It will take $10,000 tons of coal and 90,000,000 gallons of oil to furnish gas this year to the consumers in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx.

From this mountain of coal and sea of oil your Company will give you gas of 22-candle power, a gas of higher grade than is furnished in any other American city. It requires 20,350 cars to transport the coal, each carrying 40 tons, that means a train 127 miles long.

Before gas became the chief lighting, heating, cooking and power fuel, the one-ton coal cart was a familiar sight in our streets. Imagine 810,000 coal carts passing through our crowded city every year, and the consequent dirt—and your drudgery.

In 1902 there was a coal famine. You had to have gas, and 62,250 tons of coal were imported from Wales at a cost of three-quarters of a million dollars.

Nowadays we take the coal, extract the work, drudgery, dirt, ashes, smoke and part of the price. We do all the handling and shoveling, and you get all that is of value in coal—the cleanest and most perfect of fuels.

Your company desires to serve your interests in every way. Information cheerfully given at any gas office.

ARMY OF GIANTS AT HOME. Get Right Down to Practice in Spite of Cold Weather—May Play Thd. Afternoon.

An army of Giants, which looked like a hundred as the men piled off the train, but which in reality was a little less than fifty, was piling into New York and up to the Polo Grounds by Manager McGraw yesterday.

One of the busiest workers was Mathewson, who like all his mates, looked to be in robust health. He didn't do any pitching, but ran flies in the outfield and tried sprinting to first base.

"We are long on health," said McGraw, as he pulled down a high throat. "You can see for yourself what kind of shape we are in and for what we've got we will play the best sort of ball."

"Why, that we are prepared to play the best ball that is in us," McGraw said. "Last year," he said, "we out-hit every team on the road and couldn't hit at all on our home grounds. The boys think it is looking into those yellow seats that did it."

TOE HOLD FINISHED TURK. PITTSBURG, Pa., April 8.—Paul Bowser, the local wrestler, is today being praised for his work against Cars Ezer, the "Terrible Turk," last night, when, with a tortuous toe hold, Bowser forced the Turk to give up in ten minutes.

HIGHLANDERS WALLOP VIRGINIA LEAGUERS. RICHMOND, Va., April 8.—The Highlanders left early this evening for New York after walloping Richmond's Virginia Leaguers by a score of 12 to 2.

POOR MENACED BY HIGH PRICES

Tuberculosis Stalks Among Workers Below the Poverty Line, Claiming Many Victims.

That the city has only about 15 per cent recovered from the panic of 1907, and that the high cost of living has materially retarded the recovery, is brought out in the semi-annual report of the relief department of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.

"During the six months just ended the association received applications from 7,912 families, and in aiding 3,527 families it spent, for food, $21,304; rent, $1,372; clothing and shoes, $6,730; coal, $3,432; medicine and special milk, $8,976; all other relief, $6,892.35.

The statistics of application and relief during the months following industrial depression are a fair index of the degree of recovery reached by the poor. Our work for the past six months shows that the poor are still reaping the aftermath of the panic.

The increase has forced many families below what social workers call the "poverty line." That is, high prices make it difficult for them to provide themselves with enough food to keep them in normal strength or even moderate health.

NEW EPILEPSY CURE. Slicklin, Woman's Remedy for Pain-Suffering Striker, Is Effective.

A sympathetic crowd gathered around a young man who seemed to be in the throes of an epileptic fit at Belmont and Thurford avenues, Brooklyn, last night. It was in the glare of many car lamps and the pain shown on his face was such as to cause sympathizers to turn away.

"I'm a Philadelphia railroad man, a striker. I'm starving," the man cried. Then he went into another frenzy just as Mrs. Elizabeth Berger, of 145 Amboy street, and Policeman Gustav Shorenbrand arrived. Taking a quick glance at the man, Berger said: "I'll revive the poor fellow," she said, and with one or two quick jabs of a tiny stickpin she made good her word.

Policeman Shorenbrand arrested a man on a charge of vagrancy. He said he was Louis Ellis, twenty-one years old, living on Rivington street, Manhattan.

FOSS'S MONEY LOOKS GOOD

Therefore Democrats Are Willing to Suggest Him for Vice President of the United States.

(Special to The Call) BOSTON, April 8.—Those Democrats who have begun this early to coast around for available candidates for the presidential election of 1912 have already suggested Eugene N. Foss as a possibility for second place on the ticket.

It is a long time since the Democrats have had a candidate who would give anything excepting oratory and advice. Henry Gassaway Davis, who has many barrels, was nominated with Parker in 1904, but after Grandpa Gassaway received the honor he set back and held onto the purse strings so tight that his party almost starved.

There is another thing wherein the makers for an available candidate have made a mistake; there is nothing unusual in the overturn that took place whereby Foss became a member of the house of representatives for a long while.

It is possible for a man of any or no belief to get public office. It was through this condition of affairs that Foss, stock speculator, was sent to Washington. He has run for other offices many times.

Of course they are reckoning without the voters of Massachusetts. Just now plenty of the voters are against the tariff and against those supreme bodies, Lodge and Crane. Tomorrow the same voters may jump on the opponents of the tariff and declare that it was high protection and nothing else that made the Old Bay State what it is.

But this tale of Foss being pressed into service has its counterpart in a story from Ohio. There, it is authentically rumored by the Republican campaign managers, that Nick Longworth has headed the distress of his party and will run for governor of the state and save Taft and the Al-Grich tariff bill.

Rose Stanley admits to eighteen years of age, is a bride and a member of the famous Stanley tribe of gypsies. She is dark eyed and handsome. Yesterday Rose was a prisoner in the Harlem Court.

Miss Cella Weinberg, a comely young woman, of 196 East 101st street, told Magistrate O'Connor that the young gypsy came to her house Thursday to tell her fortune. She ushered her into the parlor where Mrs. William Volpe, a caller, was.

Both tales are probably true. It is more than two years to the presidential campaign, yet both parties need money at the present moment. They need it for the coming congressional campaign, and they need it for that great preliminary work of manufacturing public opinion. That requires a vast sum, and some of the earlier contributions are looked for from Foss and Longworth.

CAFE DE L'OPERA BEATS WAITERS

Could Not Pay Wages in Spite of High Charges for Poor Food.

In spite of the fact that in summer it was necessary to pay a dollar for a five-cent slab of half loaf mutton, and in winter you had to pay four times as much for badly prepared food as you would have to pay in another place for well prepared food, the Cafe de l'Opera had to close its doors.

Overcharges for food and drink were supposed to be compensated by the superiority of the decorations, and those foolish enough to enter the restaurant were supposed to find relief from the insufferable food in looking at the walls and ceiling and in considering the fact that no one was allowed to sit at a table unless properly clothed according to the ideas of the managers.

HODGINS RE-ADDS WEIGHT TO FORCE

Police Captain William H. Hodgins, the fattest policeman New York ever had, is to be reinstated by order of Mayor Gaynor. Hodgins was retired by Bingham on the certificate of surgeons, who asserted that the captain was suffering from Bright's disease, heart disease, fatty degeneration and many other troubles.

As a police official Hodgins never did anything startling except to grow unusually fat. When fat on his back he was the tallest man on the force, and policemen who walked around him declared that it was worse than a long boat. But Hodgins did not mind. He kept his political connections sound, and did not care what happened otherwise.

Ex-Governor McLean Severely Rebukes Him and Defends Connecticut's Blue Laws.

McLean took the Empire State and New York city severely to task, and refused to the wide difference between spotless Connecticut and Massachusetts, and the Albany and New York periodic disclosures of graft and crime. Mr. McLean said: "When a man drops, as Mayor Gaynor did, from statecraft to ridicule, he should be sure of his subject. And if his subject be colored by both history and religion, he should be sure of his background, otherwise his reputation for scholarship and good taste may suffer badly."

PILOTS AGAIN USE A TUG TO REACH SCABS

Fifty striking pilots got busy yesterday, and after going out in a tugboat managed to corral, in about twenty scabs, who promised to shake the dust of New York from their shoes and cease causing workingmen to lose their strike and break up their union organization.

The tug steamed around the Battery yesterday afternoon and every scab ship that the pilot picked came across they hailed and put up an argument with them. The strikebreakers at first turned a deaf ear, but after talking, or rather shouting, no less than a score agreed to return where they came from.

The strikers are keeping an eagle eye on the ships and piers, and declare that no scabs have been imported in the last three days.

While carrying on their picketing yesterday Frank Muldowney was struck on the head with a piece of iron. The person who threw it was not seen, but it is the opinion of those who were present that it was done by one of the Bergs' "guards."

SAILORS ADRIFT

Picked Up 20 Miles Off Sandy Hook While Struggling to Reach Shore.

Two sailors, Christian Nelson and John Fitzgerald, were picked up yesterday twenty miles southeast of Sandy Hook by the inbound sugar laden tramp steamer Benliff and were brought to port.

The two were trying to make their vessel from the Staten Island shore in a cogshe'll of a boat and were exhausted after a futile struggle to make the shore.

LOOTERS MAY HAVE CASH.

BOSTON, Mass., April 8.—State Senator John E. White, chairman of the joint legislative committee, now probing the looting of the Southbridge Savings Bank of nearly half a million dollars, today declared he believed fully $200,000 of that sum has been hidden by the former treasurer, John H. Hall, or some of his friends, White, with Accountant C. D. Strachan, after an investigation of the accounts of the bank, say $200,000 in securities cannot be located, and all of the former directors and officials of the bank are to be examined in the attempt to locate the cash. It is rumored another arrest will be made in the case.

CHORUS GIRLS SLEPT IN JAIL.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 8.—Bluffton is a dry town and to this is due, the anti-saloon people say, the fact that there are no prisoners in the Wells county jail, which housed the chorus of a light opera company last night. The Methodist conference is in session, and all the hotels are packed to the limit, so there was no other place open to the girls.

HURTS FEELINGS OF POET-POLITICIAN

"Dear Midnight" of Love and Other Ballads by "Bathhouse John," Luappreciated.

"HURTS," April 8.—If the poetic soul of "Bath House John" Coughlan, alderman from the first ward, is so moved, he may burst into song until he is black in the face, but he must not dedicate his poems to Henry Carroll, bridge tender at the Jackson boulevard. Carroll simply will not stand for it and has served notice on the alderman that there will be a duel if Coughlan persists in his purpose.

The difficulty arose over the announcement by "The Bath House" that he was about to publish a little volume of verses, bearing the label "Dear Midnight of Love and Other Ballads." Coughlan said he would "Spring it on the public" as soon as the printer gets it off the press, and would dedicate it to Carroll.

But Carroll presents the author's "outrageous audacity." "I've had enough trouble in my life," said the bridge tender, "without having to stand for Coughlan's book of poems. I wouldn't have my people down at Pompeii Hill hear about this for all the money in Chicago."

PAST CONDUCT REMEMBERED. PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 8.—Because of the brutality of their conduct in the recent McKee's Rocks strike, police officers who are now handling the Victor Bank robbery and murder case, find extreme difficulty in getting any of the workers here to talk.
