

DEATH SENTENCE FOR "BANGOR BILLY"

Thomas Bangor, alias "Bangor Billy," had evidently hard work to hold himself together yesterday morning as he was being sentenced to death by Judge Dike, in the criminal term of the County Court, for the murder of "Jack" Leonard, reformed "pagan," whom Barnes shot down in the dead of night as a "squealer."

Barnes nervously chewed at his red cigarette, stood on one foot and then on the other with trembling hands and shifting eyes as Judge Dike told him the verdict of the jury was justified by the evidence. Barnes is to be taken to Sing Sing within ten days, and the date of his execution is fixed for the week beginning June 6. He will not die that week, however, as his appeal to the Court of Appeals will not be determined by that time.

The sentence of Barnes brought to the courtroom yesterday morning the largest crowd possible for it to accommodate, and a hundred or more men and youths crowded in the corridor unable to squeeze in. Extra precautions were taken by the court attaches to keep any possible communication from getting to the convicted prisoner, as it was believed well within the realm of possibility that some of Barnes' desperate friends might attempt something of the sort.

When Barnes was brought in it was evident that his nerve was more or less shattered and that he was bracing himself to the pitch he kept up during the trial. The brace fooled many of the spectators, but it didn't fool the two hungry court attendants who stood on either side of him, not even when Barnes took out his handkerchief and attempted to conspicuously use it. Lawyer Edward J. O'Reilly had little to say for his client, and Barnes nothing.

Judge Dike said: "You have been convicted by a jury, after a protracted trial, of the crime of murder in the first degree in having shot and killed one John T. Leonard. The previous history of one who is to be executed is always of interest and of value to the judge. The development of this case has brought to the surface from the underworld the workings of that dangerous class of criminals known as 'pagan' more than in any case of late years. That you were a part of this gang there is no question. At the time you were arrested for this crime, as well as on two previous occasions, you had on your person nitroglycerin, fuses, a dark lantern, percussion cap and a revolver, a veritable arsenal for safekeeping. That you knew John Leonard I have no doubt. That you resolved to put him out of the way, believing he was an informer, after his pardon by President Taft, I also have no doubt. Your demeanor during this trial has shown you to be the most cold-blooded killer that the courts of this vicinity have had to deal with for a long time. You shot your victim down without a moment's warning. The verdict of the jury on my simply justified by the evidence. My duty is simply to enunciate what the law says shall be your punishment."

CLERK WINS DAUGHTER.
WHITE PLAINS, April 25.—The fight made by James T. Judge, one of the clerks in a New York city department store, to get possession of his two-year-old daughter, Mary Agnes Judge, who has been in custody of her aunt, Loretta Morgan, of Mount Vernon, and who has refused to give her up, resulted today in Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins handing down a decision in which he grants to the clerk the custody of his child.

TWO EX-FIREMEN DIE SUDDENLY

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 25.—Charles Hamilton, fifty years old, a former member of the Jersey City fire department, fell dead last night as he was walking past a rat poison factory in Grand street, this city, where he had been employed for many years. He lost his job several weeks ago.

Charles J. Clark, another ex-Jersey City fireman, died suddenly yesterday morning as he was getting dressed in a furnished room house at 158 Pavona avenue. He was sixty-five years old. Clark was well known as an old-time baseball player. Both bodies were sent to Hughes' morgue.

THE "HUB" IS SHOCKED

Boston Hears of an Elaborate Swindling Game Whereby Its Citizens Lose a Million.
BOSTON, April 25.—An elaborate system of swindling, in which a corps of young women confederates were used as "steerers" to lure to a New York gaming resort Boston men of means, who had been singled out as likely bait by the local faro operators, has been unearthed by secret agents of the Department of Justice.

Not only did George W. Coleman, the boy bookkeeper of the National City Bank of Cambridge, fall into the trap to an extent that wrecked the institution, but many other prominent citizens of Boston were snared and "nipped." Many of these have already told their stories to the Suffolk grand jury, but most of them chose to keep their losses secret rather than suffer publicity.

Counting what was obtained through the alleged agency of Coleman from the bank in Cambridge, close to $1,000,000 is known to have been squeezed out of Boston victims in a comparatively few years by the New York syndicate.

A certain young woman is said to have revealed many inside facts which hastened the arrest of "Big Bill" Kellher, who still occupies a cell at the Charles street jail in default of $25,000 bail. Her story, coupled with other information, has sent the Department of Justice agents to New York, where they are said to be watching a house on West 44th street.

Coleman denies saying that he has $100,000 "salted down" and Kellher declared today that it was Coleman who led him to New York and introduced him to the faro sharks.

BEDS WITH DRINKS

So Lawmakers More Than They Consume Rule When They Can Handle.
MORRISON, Ill., April 25.—The city council has adopted a new plan for dealing with citizens who are prone to overestimate their ability to assimilate intoxicants. In the future, any saloonkeeper who sells liquor to an individual in such quantities that he cannot comfortably carry it, must provide a bed for the intoxicated one.

YOUNG WOMAN IN REVOLVER MYSTERY

"You can search me," laughingly remarked a handsomely dressed young woman who gave her name as Florence Crane, twenty-one years old, as she was brought into the Coney Island Police court at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and asked if she had a revolver, which her escort, Ray Canfield, twenty-four years old, of 26 East 24 street, was charged with having had prior to the arrest.

Florence was turned over to the matron, and the weapon was finally found cunningly concealed in her stocking. She was held to the Court of Special Sessions this morning in the sum of $100 for carrying concealed weapons, while her escort got off with only five days.

In the Coney Island Police Court yesterday morning (Canfield, for the first time, said that the Crane woman was his wife and she also claimed he was her husband, although neither had admitted any such relations when placed under arrest.

Canfield and the Crane woman were arrested by Policeman Martin White, who said that they had taken part in a free-for-all fight in one of the Coney Island resorts where Canfield, it is said, became jealous because a young man tried to flirt with his pretty companion.

Frank Sharp, a waiter, whose face was nicely decorated with court plaster, appeared in court yesterday morning and testified that Canfield had made an attack upon Ryan, and that in the fight that followed he tried to separate the combatants with the usual fate of the peacemaker.

Ryan had claimed that Canfield tried to shoot him, but because no revolver was found on the man he escaped with the mild sentence of five days, while the woman he said was his wife was locked up in default of $100 bail bond for having the revolver in her possession.

SCORES A FIT RECORD

Lena Goldstein Stirs Hospitals and Police When Her Antics Go Beyond Their Control.
The name of twenty-four-year-old Lena Goldstein goes down on the register of St. Catherine's Hospital, Brooklyn, as the patient with the most consistent record at performing feats and attempting suicide of all the like victims that have ever been removed to that institution.

Since early Sunday morning, when she was found at the corner of Broadway and Lorimer street, in one of these record-breaking performances, Lena started no less than twenty-two families and kept the police, the doctors and patients of the hospital, reporters and even a police court and its attaches on the jump, until she was removed to the observation ward of the Kings County Hospital in a straitjacket.

Lena's series of antics started about 4 o'clock Sunday morning when she was picked up by a policeman on the street in an apparently violent fit. The officer sent a call to St. Catherine's Hospital which brought Dr. Connolly on the run, but soon after his arrival the ambulance surgeon found that the patient was only faking.

She wanted to be taken home in the ambulance, however, and she was driven to a house in Seigel street, where she said she lived. After the police awoke nearly everybody in the house in an effort to find out where the girl belonged, Lena just laughed and started to walk off. The policeman placed her under arrest and took her to the Stagg street station.

MAKES REPORT ON THE MILK TRUST

Attorney General O'Malley Urges Drastic Legislation—Says Combination Fixes Price Producer Is Obligated to Sell.
ALBANY, April 25.—Drastic legislation is recommended to regulate the price of milk in the report submitted to the legislature tonight by Attorney General Edward R. O'Malley as a result of his investigation of the milk trust operating in New York city.

The report calls attention to the general subject of the anti-monopoly laws. To a great extent these statutes have not brought the relief hoped for, because they are evaded by so-called "gentlemen's agreements" or understandings which it is practically impossible to reach.

The attorney general recommends the continuance of the anti-monopoly laws, but says the state must now go further. "It must regulate the price, or at least the profits, which middlemen and dealers may charge for articles of common necessity. Milk or any other article of common necessity can be handled at less expense in large quantities. This can only be done by some kind of organization or community of effort. The evil, therefore, is not so much the organization as the abuses which this organization produces."

The attorney general finds that from the testimony the following facts were disclosed: That there exists in New York city a condition which in effect is a combination which fixes the price at which the producer is obliged to sell milk in the metropolitan market, and that the producer has no voice in determining what that price is.

The report reviews the history of the litigation brought by the state in 1891 against the Milk Exchange, in which a judgment was entered in the county of Broome in 1895 dissolving the corporation and annulling its charter on the ground that it was a combination to limit and lessen the supply of milk in the state of New York. That six months later, after this judgment of dissolution had been entered, the Consolidated Milk Exchange was organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey and carried on a similar business to that conducted by the Milk Exchange, formerly, and some of the original incorporators of the Milk Exchange were also the original incorporators of the Consolidated Milk Exchange. That the latter company was permitted by the secretary of state to conduct business in this state, which it did at 6 Harrison street, the original office of the Milk Exchange. That the said Consolidated Milk Exchange, through its committee on values, monthly fixed the price of "value" which it would pay for the succeeding month, and that the Sheffield Farms-Stawson-Decker Company did the same thing. That these prices on an average the year round were substantially the same and that all the milk dealers in New York city bought milk at this price.

HOWL FOR DEMOCRACY

Bailey Wants to Go Back to the Ancient Jeffersonian Principles Again.
WASHINGTON, April 25.—Democrats were surprised today by a clarion call from Senator Bailey, of Texas, for a return to the "old methods" of party politics, in which he decried the election of Representative Foss in Massachusetts, intimating that he did not consider it a "true Democratic victory."

"If, rejecting all the issues and faces, we set our faces resolutely in favor of our ancient principles, without stopping to count whether it spells victory or defeat, we will make our future secure. Among the many strange things that have come to pass in the political affairs of the country, the strongest of all is the suggestion of Theodore Roosevelt as the Democratic nominee for the Presidency. It is as absurd as if the followers of Thomas Jefferson had been asked to support Alexander Hamilton in the early days of the republic and exemplify how completely many of our people have been won to the idea of the man, and away from the idea of great principles." Concluding the interview, he said:

"Undoubtedly the former President has supported several Democratic policies, and to that extent deserves Democratic approval, but all well-informed men know that the former President has at one time or another denounced every fundamental principle of this government which Democrats have taught him to cherish."

WILDWOOD PRINCIPAL WEDDED.
WILDWOOD, April 25.—Miss Mabel Campbell, formerly of this resort, and Lanning Myers, principal of the Wildwood public school, were married Saturday at the home of the bride's parents in Mt. Airy, Philadelphia. A wedding reception was held in the evening at the home of the parents of the bridegroom in Pine avenue.

MAY INVESTIGATE THE THIRD DEGREE

WASHINGTON, April 25.—A Congressional investigation into the methods of the police of the country with reference to application of the "third degree" will doubtless be made. The senate judiciary committee today ordered, by unanimous vote, a favorable report on the resolution for this purpose introduced by Senator Heyburn. This calls for a special committee of three members of the senate, to be clothed with ample powers to send for persons and papers and administer oaths.

The committee also voted for a thorough inquiry into the practice of employing persons in the espionage of jurors.

Senator Heyburn introduced his resolution originally because he was moved by the reports of police cruelty in the William Seyler case at Atlantic City. Seyler was accused of the murder of Jane Adams, a case of country-wide interest, and as alleged, he was brutally treated by the police. The committee generally felt that the facts ought to be inquired into, and that light should be shed on the reports of gross brutality in various parts of the country which are constantly heard. It is believed the senate will pass the resolution.

The committee is not limited as to the scope of its inquiry, and if the resolution goes through, police officials, prosecuting officers and others will be summoned from New York and other large cities.

BATTLING IN ALBANIA

Much Artillery in Action—Large Loss to Cover Great Turkish Defeat.
CONSTANTINOPLE, April 25.—Serious fighting has been renewed in Albania, in the Demnicia district, where incessant artillery fire is heard. The Albanians have cut nearly all the telegraph lines.

Explaining the budget in the chamber of deputies today, the finance minister, Djavid Bey, announced that the deficit would be $6,800,000. Turkish (a Turkish pound is equal to about $4.40), instead of $4,500,000, as estimated.

This would be covered by the issue of a loan, and further loans, he said, would be needed for some years to cover the ordinary expenses.

The minister, however, was optimistic over the country's finances, and the crop prospects this year indicated an extraordinarily abundant harvest.

NOW! WHOSE GOAT DID THEY GET?
The police of the Miller avenue station in Brooklyn have "got somebody's goat." Lieutenant McCormack doesn't know whether it is the property of the Chicago White Sox or the collector of the eighth-five plain clothes policeman who lost their easy jobs last week; but he does know that one large, black-and-white billy is locked up with the charge of petty larceny solemnly registered against him.
For days the police have been worried by complaints that some one was making a tour of the Glenmore avenue region close behind the early morning baker and purloining such bread and rolls as might be left at the doors of sleeping residents.
A score of eminent citizens tried to look pleasant over the focus that their wives made as an eleven-year-old substitute before an complained to the station. Then Policeman James Ladley was sent to sleuth in the neighborhood. He scanned the ground for tracks, examined the grass for marks of the departing thief, and did other things laid down in the beat guides for detection of crime—but without making any progress.
Thoroughly tired, he started back toward the station, when he saw a big goat sitting at the corner. Now, goats have no business in that particular section of Brooklyn. Ladley knew this, and by logical deduction he identified the bread thief. The goat bitetis—declined to be arrested without a warrant. He broke into a hot race, a warrant. He broke ahead of the copper, and making laps toward the Miller avenue station. At Barbey street the pursuing policeman met Sergeant Atwater, who joined the chase. As the procession neared the station Ladley blew his whistle.
Lieutenant McCormack came on a run with his night stick. The goat turned into the station house—where all of the reserves turned out to assist in making the arrest.
"What shall we charge him with?" asked the lieutenant.
"Intoxication," Ladley suggested.
"No, sir," said the lieutenant. "There wasn't a saloon open in this precinct yesterday."
They compromised on the larceny charge.

HEINZE'S TRIAL SET FOR THIS MORNING

Three Indictments With 31 Counts Charging Misuse of Funds and Overcertification of Checks.

Fritz Augustus Heinze will go on trial today on three combined indictments, containing thirty-one counts, alleging misapplication of funds and overcertification of checks while president of the Mercantile National Bank.

In the afternoon attorneys for Heinze argued motions limiting the government's case. They alleged that the prosecution has subpoenaed books from many banks and nearly a hundred witnesses who "know nothing" regarding the case at bar.

Argument on a motion to quash the combined indictments charging Heinze with violating the national banking laws in connection with his dealings with the Mercantile National Bank were heard by Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court.

FLY COPS' SNAP GONE

Russell Cuts Detective Bureau's Clerical Force—Men Will Do Real Work.

From orders and reports posted at Police Headquarters yesterday it was learned that Inspector Russell, since taking charge of the Detective Bureau, has made a heavy reduction in the clerical force.

Not less than a dozen detective sergeants, who had been engaged for many years in making inconsequential entries upon Central Office records, are now doing detective duty or have been assigned to precinct desk duty.

This reduction has been made possible by a new rule which keeps minor work of a detective nature from the Central Office.

Report was circulated a few days ago that the branch detective bureaus in the various boroughs would be abolished. It was learned today that instead of abolishing these bureaus Inspector Russell plans to increase the forces assigned to them and extend the field of their activities.

Writ in Snead Case Up for Argument. Hearing is Likely to Throw Much Light on Celebrated "Bath-tub Mystery."

Trenton, N. J., April 23.—The hearing will come in the writ of habeas corpus obtained a week ago by Samuel and Abner Kallisch, attorneys for Mrs. Mary W. Snead, one of the three sisters now in jail here, charged with the murder of Oney W. M. Snead, tomorrow morning in the United States Court.

Early this morning Prosecutor William A. Mott and ex-Assistant Prosecutor Louis Hood went into conference behind closed doors.

Fort has been subpoenaed to appear before the United States Court at Trenton tomorrow. It is presumed he will be asked to tell of his early investigations in the case as far as they concern Mary W. Snead.

Chandler Riker, who represents Mrs. Caroline B. Martin, mother of Oney W. M. Snead, was not called into the conference at the court house today.

Following the conference between Mott, Hood, Kallisch and Fort, Prosecutor Mott had a long interview with Chief Justice William S. Gummere in his chambers.

SOCIALIST REFUSES TO PAY POLL TAX

Expert Powder Mixer Will Serve Six Months, He Says, for Principle, If Necessary.

GRAFTON. Ill., April 25.—J. J. Keon, a Socialist of this city, is in the city jail, having the time of his life, so he says, because he is forcing the city to spend $125 to punish him for failure to pay a poll tax of $1.50. Keon is employed at the powder mills here, where he is an expert mixer, earning $4.50 a day. He says he finds nothing in a poll tax legal, so he insists that the city keep him in jail for six months, which is the longest term possible for his "offense." He believes that it will not alter his principle and that it may make the city tired of forcing its male population to pay a poll tax.

"I'll be positively fat in six months," predicted the lanky Socialist, as he stowed away his first twenty-cent meal, consisting of bread and butter, steak and hot coffee. Three such meals are served him each day. Then the mayor, attempting to weaken Keon's contumacy, notified him that he would have to pay for his own meals and defray the expenses of his incarceration.

"That's unconstitutional!" shouted the prisoner. "Under the law the municipality is compelled to pay for the food and lodging of prisoners." "You're right," agreed the mayor, wearily. "We're up against it. But I guess we can put you to work," he hazarded.

"Oh, all right, all right," said the mayor's weak response, as he mopped his brow. "Just take it easy, smoke all you please, read when you like, sleep well at night, and don't let our worries trouble you."

"You're losing $4.50 a day while you are in jail," pleaded the mayor.

FORWARD SELLS 162,000 COPIES

Anniversary Edition of Jewish Socialist Daily Exceeds Combined Circulation of All Other Yiddish Papers.

The growth of Socialism among the Jews in this country was manifested yesterday when the returns of the thirteenth anniversary edition of the Forward, the Socialist Jewish daily, showed that no less than 162,000 copies were sold.

"This means that on the thirteenth anniversary of the Forward our circulation exceeded the combined circulation of the three other Jewish dailies in this country."

The special edition contained fifty-eight pages of Socialist articles on various subjects and many literary radical sketches on the Jewish life in America. The majority of contributors were workmen who had been victorious in a prize contest which had been arranged by the publishers for the purpose of encouraging art and bringing forward the talents submerged in shops and factories.

PRINTERS AND HUMORISTS.

By MARTIN LUTHER FLANAGAN

During the next few months there will be a flood of Mark Twain anecdotes, more or less good, and less rather than more authentic.

them. But we have in Twain, Howells and Ward three splendid humorists, three masterful writers whose work holds well today—and they came from the working class and came from the printers' case.

His greatest predecessor, Artemus Ward, was living when Twain began his career, and there are things in the works of the great showman that still bring in many a hard-earned dollar to the humorists of today.

There is a third American, a great humorist—almost the greatest of all—but whose fame in that line is less than that of the other two, who also came from the West, and from the case—William Dean Howells.

This is straight Marxism. One of Marx's greatest achievements consisted in this, that he placed the Socialist movement upon the solid basis of social fact.

Tom Watson is today the most abjectly pathetic figure that struts the stage. His audience is gone, and the lights are off, and so the old tragic-comedian that once filled the galleries has become sulky, sullen, ill-tempered and dogged.

Tom loves flattery, and he can still rub his own back until he purrs like a kitten. But it grows wearisome to have to live on one's own praise.

And that is especially so of Tom, who fed on the adulation of the multitude until he became bloated, swollen and flushed with the sense of his own importance.

And now Tom, the great leader without a following, has become insolent, imperious and arrogant. He is furious with old pops that no longer heed his words.

TOM WATSON.

By ROBERT HUNTER.

They are, to be sure, planting, tilling, carpentering and bricklaying white men, in your library, yet they, even amid hard work, can reflect, accumulate knowledge and understand political and social subjects.

They are tired of being misled; they are tired of having only one thought to dwell upon and that the greatness, the intellect, the wisdom and the heroism of Tom Watson.

As a loyal member of the Socialist party, America, I most earnestly urge on our Comrades the adoption of the following tactics:

1. A clearer, simpler statement of the philosophy and theory of Socialism, the dropping of obsolete, bookish formulas translated from other languages, and the substitution of an American phraseology, vital to our people and generation.

the most part only by those who live in the larger cities, is only an indication of the changing aspect of this country's population.

But the coming of the dialect writer means, also, the passing away of that public which used only variations of the English idiom.

Twain is undoubtedly the greatest humorist of individualism that America has produced, or can produce.

So the next humorist is going to be a social satirist who is a Socialist. He is going to use a more crowded canvas and a different language from that used by his predecessors.

But that our later humorists have been forced to take to dialects, appreciated for
