WHITMAN OUT FOR MORE INVESTIGATION

Wants Special Magistrate to Hear Complaints Against High Prices.

That quaint little comedy known as the Grand Jury investigation into the high price of butter and eggs was again staged in the Criminal tours building yesterday. The "investigation progressed," though nothing was done. The men who were investigated solemnly assured the jurors and subsequently the reporters that there was no combination to boost the price of butter and eggs and that the real culprit, the one guilty for the high prices of these articles, was nonother than the farmer.

As Mr. Farmer is a pretty long ways off from New York, the butter men could shift all the blame upon his shoulders without fear of a come

But the funntest part of the comedy was the serious face which Dis trict Attorney Whitman made. The District Attorney is full of jokes at all times. That is what he is District Attorney for. But the greatest joke pulled off by him in a long time was when he solemnly assured the newspapers, and through them the housewives, that he is going to start a "wholesale investigation," not alone
into the high cost of buter, but of all papers, and through them the house into the high cost of buter, but of all foodstuffe.

The versatile District Attorney nade the following little speech to reporters without squinting his eye even Said Whiman:

Mills Open, but No Cloth Is Woven—Soldiers Rule City.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 31,-That the principal reason for the arrest of Joseph J. Efter, national organizer of the I. W. W. and leader of the present strike of 20,000 textile workers, who are resisting a wage cut, forced upon them by the mill besses, under pre-text of obeying the new fifty-four-hour working week law, was the home of working week law, was the hope intimidating the strikers, and the driving them back to their tasks, became evident today when bail was reused him by Judge Fred N. Chandle did not dare arrest me then, but that was their object. Now they have trumped up this murder charge.

"If I am kept in jail someone else will lead this strike and these downtrodden people will win this strike despite the Russian methods of the employers and the police. The newspapers here and in Boston have lied consistently and regularly about conditions here. They have led the public to believe that, because these strikers are mainly foreigners, they are a band of assessins, of anarchists, and that instead of this strike being a great industrial tragedy it is a frolic a great industrial tragedy it is a frolic of 25,000 wild-eyed terrorists. "But you can see for yourself where the violence has really come from.

William M. Wood, president of the Wool Trust, began to call for militia
the very day the strike was declared.
He was yelling violence, and the peaceful demonstrations of these peaceful demonstrations of these strikers, on their own streets, was called 'mob rule.' Some kids broke some mill windows, and that was called a 'state of terror' by the news-papers. The State sent 800 militia-papers. The State sent 800 militia-men, armed with pistols, clubs, rifles, bayonets and gailing guns into the town to awe these poor workmen.

"Still, even with this temptation, there was no violence by the work-ers, worthy of the name. A politi-cian, working for the mill owners in reality, then used private detectives to plant dynamite to precipitate vio-lence where there was none. It was all a big conspiracy to break up this righteous strike.

Shooting of Woman Accidental.

"The shooting of the woman, for whose death I am blamed and in fail today, was a pure accident, unfortunate and regretted by every striker in this town. I had no more part in it than William M. Wood did in Bos-

"No, they know they can't chea me, can't fool with me, and they want to get me out of the way. The whole police machinery of the State and big business is determined to wreck the hopes of these strikers. They don't want a union to have any power in this State. They want, and Wood frankly admits it, to deal individualtrankly admits it, to deal individuality with their employes. They have succeeded in driving these people to the brink of desperation by their unholy methods in the past ten years, and they know that, when the union comes, and these people fight as a unit for fair treatment, the sway of money despotism will be at an end. "I will try to lead this strike from this cell, if I have any chance. I will be helped by others. New men will sum of $14 has been sent to Socialist surface up to head this fight. There

BOY SCOUT FOUNDER REACHES NEW YORK

Boys, Who Present Welcome From Taft.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Robert S. S. BadenPowell, of the British Army, "defender" of Mafeking in the Boer War of 1910 sand founder of the scab and Jingo-breeding Boy Scout Movement, arrived here yesterday on board the steamship Arcadian. He was appropriately welcomed by a delegation of the scouts, who went through their antics and presented him with a letter of welcome from President Taft.

Following the much-heralded "relief of the wretched little town, all England plunged into hysterical rejoicings, en-couraged by the Balfour-Chamberlain administration. Drunkenness and the viles forms of debauchery were permitted and encouraged for forty-eight hours in the great cities, the police having instruc-tions to make no arrests. The scenes in London were unparalleled in English his-tory and stand to this hour as the crown-ing disgrace to the nation.

From such a source comes the Boy Scout idea, an idea born by the military idel of a deliberately debauched and outraged public conscience, whose popularity arose during the prosecution of what is undoubtedly the most deliberately wicked conditions Baden-Powell yesterday said: saloon last March. One finds it a decided relief to casionally escape from the atmosphere of "polite boredom" and blase indifference prevailing in the principal theaters and concert halls of the city and to attend a performance at one of the downtown theaters where from the rise of the curtain until the fall thereof the audience sustains not only the most obvious interest in the proceedings on the stage, but develops a very contagion of enthusiasm. DIE MUSTERWEIBER," TWO-ACT MUSICAL COMEDY, SUGGESTS POSSIBILITIES OF LEAP YEAR TO IRVING PLACE THEATER AUDIENCE.

By Victor Arnheim

Matrimonial possibilities of Lear Year were illustrated for the beneit of a large audience at the German Operetta Company essayed "Die Mus-terweiber" (Sample Wives). It is a musical comedy in prologue and two acts, and has for its setting a village destitute of men. The Duke, acted by M. Home, brought consolation into the resion in the shape of a regi-ment of soldiers, who were parceled out to the women for husbands. Mmes. Conti and Richard, assisted by M. Marlow, garbed as a young woman, supplied most of the fun o the evening, and they were roundly applauded in the second act. M. Verheyn, as the prince, was compelled to sing an encore to his solo, "Zeit Ihre Lippen kuesst, Welse leh nur was die Liche ist." In the last act, Herr Marlow, as-sisted by Mme. Conti, sang a delight-ful piece, entitled "War einst ein alter Ziegenbeck." Mme. von Neuendorft sang and played with characteristic abandon: she was pictured as an ageing woman, eager for the company and love of the opposite sex. In her lovesick song, addressed to M. Rub, essaying one of the Duke's retinue, who had been goaded into making love to her, she received the hearty appreciation of her hearers. In the second act the throne of the Duke, mounted on a high platform, sudden-iy collapsed, to the manifest confu-sion of the entire court and the glee of the audience.

THE CONTRAST IN LAWRENCE

As pictured by the capitalist papers, "mobs" of seven thousand, ten thousand, twenty thousand frenzied strikers surge through the streets of Lawrence, bent on wrecking the city and indulging in a our country and of our people. carnival of bloodshed. Yet the sum total of distruction is a few those times they call enemies of our windows broken and two persons dead, one bayoneted by a militiaman, the other killed by a stray shot that may have been fired by another militiaman or by a policeman.

It is a spectacle that makes countless good citizens hold up their hands in horror, and these good citizens demand the instantaneous restoration of law and order. Of course, they could have the stormy scenes which recently were a restoration of peace and the resumption of work if they conceded the very moderate demands of the strikers. But that is a thing of which they would not dream.

The strikers are poor and most of them are desperately hungry. Those who are opposing them, who are directing the police to club and the militiamen to shoot, are well fed, well clothed, well housed. and they obtained all the comforts they possess at the expense of the men, women and children who are on strike.

Only last Monday the "mob" formed before daylight. It was bitingly cold, yet they came together. Before 6 o'clock thousands of them were in the streets. To the average good citizen this must have seemed another illustration of the perverseness of the strikers. But it happens, on workdays, that this is the normal hour for the Mount of the Nazarene to the categoristrikers to be on the way to the mills. Thousands of shivering women and white-faced, emaciated boys and girls daily rush through the early morning dark to their place beside the great machines. They work there until dark comes again. During late fall, winter and early spring, about all they know of daylight, except on Sundays, is what filters through the dirty window panes of the great pride of the working class, the real buildings.

There is not one of them that does not desperately need everything the strikers demand. There is not one of them that has not often felt the lash of hunger. Yet, when they make any demands they are instantly met with every repressive force of the city and State. They made many Lawrence families tremendously rich, and they produce articles of use to all mankind. Yet they are driven about like wild beasts, and in this instance several thousand policemen, hired thugs and militiamen are brought to the city to keep them in "restraint."

Spokesmen for the capitalists "deplore" the destruction of property and the violence that have happened, but only such destruction or violence as they can fasten on the strikers. The violence of sending children into the mills and keeping them there long hours, wrenching the life out of their bodies, are not deplored. Neither is there any deploring of the way women are overworked, homes are broken up, and men and women driven to desperation by want. Such violence as that is all part of the system of producing profits, and is not only excusable but accepted as something good and Others are prating about the loss through cessation of work But they make no mention of the cost of maintaining their army of invasion and keeping them there to club, bayonet or shoot a respect for rightfully constituted authority into the strikers. That cost is going to run into the tens of thousands of dollars. Capitalists, however, are perfectly willing to pay it, for they know the advan-tage to themselves of keeping in good order this great army of repression. Capitalists in other lines of business will pay without a whimper. They can easily take the cost out of the workers, and they never know when they, also, will need the army. And the army itself? It is made up for the most part of work ingmen—mill workers from other cities, shoemakers, carpenters, German unity. But their love for dividual States, the great moral law bricklayers, clerks, painters and others. All of them are twisted their own people was imbedded in hu- of humanity has become the concern with the idea that the capitalist system holds something good in store for them. So they are willing to go out and kill their hungry brother workers. Yet they, too, must inevitably fall victims to the their own people in what they might gle for a little bigger piece of bread same condition of affairs. As workers, their interests are with the strikers, not with the mill owners. However, they stand with loaded muskets, ready to shoot down the very ones who are fighting for improved conditions for the whole working class.

This Lawrence strike is a wonderfully illuminating affair. It shows that the capitalist uses the powers of the State to uphold soldiers of freedom are today feeding entangled. It is this consciousness his tyranny. He turns workers against workers, and he robs both at the table of the capitalist world. the members of the army and the members of the "mob." Even Their freedom is the limitless exploithis own laws are not regarded by him.

In the arrest of Ettor, for instance, the "authorities" palpably is the equality of greed for profits. lated the strike leader's manifest rights. If he could be arrested accessory for the accidental shooting of one of the strikers, why violated the strike leader's manifest rights. If he could be arrested as accessory for the accidental shooting of one of the strikers, why could not some of the mill owners be arrested and held without bail-as Ettor was-for the deliberate bayoneting of one of the strikers? The reason is simple enough. The capitalists hold absolutely the power of government, the power to define what is law and order, the power to define violence. This power is the very thing for which the workers should strive. Till they get it, they will be murdered or starved as they now are.

The attention of the International Bureau should be forcefully drawn to the deliberate, unclean insult to the memory of Alexander Jonas given by Daniel De Leon, editor of the Daily People. Possibly senile viciousness can explain it, but nothing can excuse it. lousness can explain it, but nothing can excuse it m a man whose whole career is marked by premeditated and probably instigated turmoil, who has done no constructive work in e Socialist movement here, who has hampered or dissipated the lergies of organized bodies of the workers, who has been more questionable in all his dealings with the labor movement, who has shifted and evaded, fawned and maligned, and steered the crookedest course known to revolutionary politics, such an insult distinction from the great man of the to a dead man is an unspeakably horrible blot, worse than what past, is he who will seek to create previously and frequently characterized him. Achilles sulked in his tent. It is not recorded that he shot into the ranks of his own people. Daniel De Leon has never done anything else. There is no need of branding him. He brands himself.

That wise old saw, "the greatest of all arts is to have your owledge available," does not seem to be practiced by the capitalist apers. They make a specialty of keeping their ignorance on tap-lere is the Commercial, for instance, solemnly telling the Lawrence trikers: "Congress might lower the cost of living by putting sool and woolen goods on the free list, and then the mill hands sould be permanently out of work." Those benevolent mill owners! The instant they saw that the workers were not being highly pro-ected they would go out of business, like the good philanthropists hey are. In fact, they are in business simply to see that behind he tariff wall the workers get that measure of protection, and if accessary, of lead, they so much need.

American Woolen pays 7 per cent on $69,500,000, Pacific more han 12 per cent on $3,000,000, and in 1907 paid 20 per cent extra a cash—or a measly $5,000,000 in hard coin—and in 1905 the Arling-on Mills paid a dividend of 33 per cent. Any workers reading these ismal figures can see why it is necessary for the stockholders to leal 22 cents a week from starving women, children and men.

On November 5, 1908, he was found guilty and sentenced to serve fifteen years in the Federal Prison at Atlanta.

During the eighteen months which followed the fact that Morse was a convicted felon did the wretched cattle pen not interfere with his business operations. Special officers were detailed to conduct the Ice King from the Tombs to various parts of the city in an automobile, and which contained a clause he is credited with making, at ing all allegiance to the Mi this time, the triffing sum of sev- Union, eral millions of dollars.

Not only his wife and friends but the Attorney General, the Secretary of War, the Surgeon General and many other eminent gentlemen in the pay of the people have worked diligently for the re lease of the Ice King.

"Morse must not be kept in prison," they said.

The thought that the rich man was sick and in prison moved the trial judge to tears, and he wrote the final word which made it possi ble for Taft to release him.

do not win the Presidential race is because they do not give v-otes enough to their donkey.

That the rich defy the Bible can be seen by the direction in which the pearls have been cast of late.

It is bad enough to be a naught, but to be a "Con"-naught really means to be without a peer.

Civilization's garments must be missifts as long as Greed is the tailor and the sis the rule by which he measures.

"Tis said our philanthropists' meant to make a needle through the eye of which the largest came could pass with ease, but they feared it would be so big St. Peter would not see the point.

SOCIALISM IN SCHENEUTADY.
